AMERICAN AID FOR BRITISH TO PUSH BUSINESS

Steel Industry to Be Reorganized.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 31.—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has obtained access to a report prepared by J. Leonard Replogle, "steel administrator" for the United States government during the war, and now retired as one of the "steel kings" of America, for a group of English magnates who intend to reorganize the British steel industry. Annexed to his report is a detailed scheme prepared by his technical engineers in America, for the construction of a mammoth model steel plant in England at a cost of about $300,000,000, with a capacity of about 1,000,000 tons of steel per year.

Mr. Replogle is leaving Paris for London tomorrow, where he will confer with the British steel operators who requested him to prepare a solution for the stagnation which now paralyzes British industry. He declined to comment on the report when seen by a TRIBUNE correspondent who had read the document, and stated that any further elucidation of the matter could only come after his conference with his colleagues in London during the coming week. Mr. Replogle is sailing back to New York on Sept. 10.

Approached Last Year.

From unquestionable sources THE TRIBUNE is informed that Mr. Replogle was approached by a group of British steel operators last year and requested to draft a document outlining the situation in the steel industry and indicating how the English production can be revived and modernized and enabled to compete with other nations.

Full approval has been given to Mr. Replogle to make the report, by leading American operators. The view is taken in American steel circles that anything which can be done to increase prosperity in Great Britain will eventually react favorably to the United States by giving Britain a greater purchasing power. The United Kingdom and Canada are already America's two largest customers.

The United States is not a raw steel exporter. Instead, American steel finds its way abroad in the form of finished or semi-finished articles, such as automobiles, agricultural implements, and the thousand and one other products of American factories.

France Greatest Exporter.

Perhaps the most startling feature of Mr. Replogle's findings is the revelation that France, through the institution of the "lost provinces," Alsace and Lorraine, has become since the war the world's greatest steel exporter. France exported 5,000,000 tons yearly in 1926, 1927 and 1928, and imported only 158,000 tons, leaving an average excess of exports over imports of 4,482,000 tons, which is an increase of nearly 1,000 per cent over her operations in 1913, the year before the war.

Great Britain exported an average of 3,794,000 tons for the three years 1926, 1927 and 1928, but imported 3,-760,000 tons per year during that period. This left an excess export balance of only 84,000 tons, a decrease of 97 per cent from the pre-war figures, the report discloses.

Germany exported 4,609,000 tons, but imported 1,789,000, leaving an export balance of only 2,820,000 tons, a decrease of 82 per cent since 1913.

Belgium and the Sarre basin exported 4,224,000 tons, imported 686,000 tons and had a net favorable export balance of 3,538,000 tons. Since the war the Sarre production has been taken from Germany and credited to France as reparations for the French mines in the Lens and northern fields destroyed by the invading German armies before they retreated.

U. S. Exports.

The United States in the three year period exported 2,105,000 tons, imported 2,737,000 tons and had an excess export of 1,318,000 tons, a decrease of 9 per cent since 1913.

"Forty years ago England led the world in steel production," the report states. "In 1913 the world output of steel totaled 74,687,000 tons, and in 1929 the total was 107,210,000 tons, an increase of 44 per cent."

Mr. Replogle points out that Britain imports almost four million tons of steel annually at a cost of about $8,200,000 [about $175,000,000], thereby giving employment to approximately 250,000 workers of other countries, while about two million of her own people are idle and on the dole. It would appear," the report states, "that she should export five

FAMOUS FRENCH PILOT PLANS TO TAKE OFF TODAY

Was Forced Back at Azores Last Year.

BULLETIN.

BOURGET, France, Sept. 1 (Monday).—(AP)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, French aviator, after preparing to take off at dawn on a flight to New York, postponed his departure until noon, by which time he hoped the weather would have improved. Low hanging clouds and a thick haze obscured visibility at the field, while a north wind there blew across the runway and made getting into the air with the heavy fuel load a dangerous matter. An aviator who went out to reconnoiter returned from a trip toward Cherbourg and said the weather over France was bad. Conditions over the Atlantic were said to be very favorable.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Two chunky little Frenchmen, each with a hard jaw and a mop of crinkly hair, will hop off from Le Bourget field at hop off from Le Bourget field in a huge, red winged air scow on the most scientifically prepared trans-Atlantic flight ever undertaken.

One is Capt. Dieudonne Coste, who was recently named champion flyer of the world for 1929 by the International League of Aviators. Accompanying him will be his mechanic, Maurice Bellonte, Capt. Coste's companion on a previous trans-Atlantic attempt and on a record breaking flight to Siberia.

Use China Flight Plane.

The plane is the same Breguet monoplane in which the same pair flew 5,000 miles to Manchuria last year to set a world record. It is also the same plane in which they made a dramatic attempt to fly to America last fall by way of the Azores only to return home when they found that contrary winds had so exhausted their gas supply that they could not get over. The plane, however, has been overhauled, fitted with a new 650 horse power Hispano-Suiza motor, and, carrying about 1,838 gallons of gas, is virtually a flying gasoline can.

Capt. Coste will follow the northern route, as did Charles Nungesser and Capt. Francis Coli, whose tragic deaths he hopes to vindicate by a successful French flight. New York is the first stop marked on the itinerary, but if he accomplishes the perilous Paris-New York hop, which no one has yet completed, he will attempt a nonstop flight to Dallas to win the $25,000 prize offered by Col. William Easterwood of that city.

Is Cautious Flyer.

Capt. Coste has been awaiting this chance for two years. At least a dozen times he hauled his plane to Le Bourget flying field, only to discover at the last minute that weather conditions were unfavorable.

After the plane was overhauled this spring he spent two months testing every part, especially the radio, which he considers as a principal safeguard.

The decision to hop off was taken at 9 o'clock this morning, when the weather bureau announced that conditions were good all the way across the Atlantic. Predictions were still favorable at nightfall, and the Question Mark once more was taken to Le Bourget. At midnight the work of fueling the huge aircraft was well under way. Capt. Coste and M. Bellonte are carrying a small rubber boat in case they are forced to make a landing at sea.

The following provisions were put aboard the plane tonight: Four bottles of mineral water, three bottles of champagne, two flasks of hot coffee, three chickens, and a pound of sugar. In case of accidents they also took along iodine, aspirin, quinine, gauze, and bandages.

Equipped with Radio.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Capt. Coste's plane is equipped with a radio apparatus operating on a 600 meter wave length with a range up to several hundred miles.

Detailed weather reports from the naval observatory at Arlington will be relayed through the nearest ship to the flying plane every four hours. No messages other than requests for radio compass bearings are expected to emanate from the plane.

Quiz Rapist of Stepchild on Girl's Slaying

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Seized, police say, in the act of raping his 14 year old stepdaughter, George Caine, 35, a telephone lineman from South Bend, is held also as a suspect in the raping and slaying of Marvine Appel, 8 year old South Bend girl, whose body was found in an alley near her home Thursday night.

South Bend detectives, summoned here, were questioning Caine tonight, and although he denies any connection with the Appel slaying admits he brought Dorothy O'Brien, his stepdaughter, to Indianapolis today with the intention of raping her.

Seized on Canal Bank.

Caine was apprehended with the girl by a motor police cruising squad along the bank of a canal at the edge of Butler university campus today.

When it was learned that Caine lived in South Bend and that he answered in a general way to the description of a man thought to have been the Appel girl's slayer, South Bend authorities were notified.

Caine told police he left his work at South Bend at 6 o'clock Wdnesday, the evening the Appel girl disappeared, and the night, police now believe, she was killed. An autopsy changed an earlier theory that she was killed Thursday shortly before the body was discovered.

A strand of wire had been twisted about the child's neck and bloodstains in a nearby barn indicated that the body had been left there, according to the present police theory, some 24 hours.

Offers Alibi to Detectives.

Caine presented an alibi to South Bend detectives for the night of the murder which has not yet been checked. From his own statement, he was in South Bend on Wednesday, and his employer, a foreman for the Indiana Bell Telephone company, says he was at work on Saturday.

Caine lives at 1216 East La Salle street, across the city from the Appel girl's home.

Caine and his stepdaughter came to Indianapolis late Saturday. Ostensibly he had brought the girl with him so she might visit her grandmother here, but Caine admitted to police that he had his criminal purpose in view when he left South Bend.

The child was rushed to the City hospital. There tonight it was said she was still hysterical and in a serious condition.

South Bend Awaits Report.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—South Bend authorities were awaiting a report from two detectives sent to Indianapolis today to question George Caine, a suspect in the Appel girl's slaying, before checking his movements here during Wednesday and Thursday.

8 KILLED, 20 HURT AS ROCKS PLACED ON TRACK WRECK TRAIN

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Eight persons were known to have been killed and twenty were injured tonight when the Texas special of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, traveling 60 miles an hour, was wrecked at Osage Hills, ten miles west of here, in St. Louis county. After an examination, Dr. John O'Connell, coroner of St. Louis county, said the derailment was caused by a large pile of rock placed on the rail. Investigators for the railroad also said the derailment had been caused by a pile of rocks.

The known dead included Engineer C. E. [Dick] Ray of Newburg, Mo.; Fireman E. T. White, Maplewood, Mo., and Charles Newton and his wife, Isabel, of Washington, D. C. Their 4 year old son, Robert, was severely injured. The Newtons are relatives of former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis.

The bodies of five others were removed from the chair car and four from the wreckage of the first Pullman.

The locomotive and the first three coaches overturned and the other coaches left the rails. The empty baggage car and the chair car were demolished, the force of the impact having pulled the next two coaches from their trucks.

Gas Station Cowboy Tosses Trusty Lariat

All a man has to do is to be ready for opportunity when it happens along. It was that way last night with Ernest Mikell, 20 years old, 738 North Homan avenue. He had been ready ever since his arrival in Chicago six months ago. Opportunity happened along and Ernest just up and roped it with his lariat.

An attendant at a gas filling station at Irving Park boulevard and North Spaulding avenue, Ernest was born in the short grass country of Nebraska, where he grew up in the saddle and mastered the lasso and the rifle, and came to know the flora and the fauna of the cornhusker state. He is a brother of Patrolman George Mikell of the First district.

Often Ernest would get homesick for the wild life of the west. He would longingly eye the bit of prairie in the vicinity of the gas station. "There's coyotes in that prairie," he told the neighbors. "I'll catch one yet." Which explained why his lariat was always handy on a peg in the station.

Numerous persons were about last night as Ernest, selling five gallons of high test to a flivver, suddenly dropped the hose, let out a yip, and darted for the lariat, crying:

"It's a coyote. I heard it yowl."

By the light of the September moon he threw the rope straight and true, and jerked his quarry into the lighted area of the station drive. As he did the spectators scattered and the gentleman driving the flivver tossed out two $1 bills and drove off.

"Keep the change," he called to Ernest. "You may call them coyotes in Nebraska, but back here we call them skunks."

60,000 Roar Farewell to Ocean Flyers

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The German ocean flyers paid their farewell visit to race crowds yesterday and today they will take off from Great Lakes harbor in their Dornier seaplane bound for Cleveland and New York en route back to Germany.

More than sixty thousand race fans were in the stands at Curtiss field to cheer again Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions as they circled above in the great gray seaplane escorted by eight fighting planes of the marine corps.

Capt. von Gronau brought the "old whale" close enough to the grounds to wave to the crowds, but he soon hiked back to the lake shore, for he said later he doesn't fancy extended low flying over land in a seaplane.

Start East at Noon Today.

At noon today, the flyers who flew unannounced from Europe to America by way of Greenland and Iceland, will depart from their temporary base at Great Lakes Naval Training station and head eastward over the city and along the lake. Capt. von Gronau would like to take his crew on an extended flight over the United States, he said, but the tandem motored boat is unsuited to cross-country flying.

Capt. von Gronau said he liked what he had seen of Chicago in his air trips over it. "I have always thought of Chicago," he said, "as a place of stock yards, factories and railroads. I find it a beautiful place of large estates, wonderful parks and handsome buildings."

The Germans were headliners on a varied program at the national air races yesterday. Many of the speed artists, however, were not on view, for they were busy tinkering with their racing planes in preparation for the big speed event of the meet and the feature of the final day of the races, the Thompson trophy sweepstakes race this afternoon.

Betting seemed to favor Capt. Frank Hawks and his transcontinental record plane, Capt. Arthur H. Page Jr. and his special Curtis Hawk, and Jimmy Haizlip and his mystery Travelair. The firing of the starting gun is scheduled for 2:40 p. m.

"Rescue" Race Is Feature.

In interest and amusement the amphibion "rescue" race led yesterday's speed program. Arthur L. Caperion, early bird and pilot for the Public Service company of northern Illinois, was first to leap from his amphibion and gallop across the field with a sawdust dummy dangling from his shoulders.

The three winning ships were all wasp-powered twin-motored Sikorsky amphibions. Bob Gast, flying Three Johns, the private ship of John Hertz, was second, and Homer Berry, piloting THE TRIBUNE ship, 'Arf Pint, was third. There were only three planes to finish in this race.

The planes took off from the race field, turned around the Edgewater Beach hotel, and splashed into the Oak street harbor where a dozen dummies floated in the water. The dummies all bore names of Chicago flyers and the trick was to rescue them from the water and bring them safely to the race field.

Dummy is Speared to Rescue.

Caperton's dummy, "Capt. Henry Etten," leaked sawdust profusely as he delivered it to the "emergency station," for Lou Gordon, his mechanic, had to spear the victim with a boathook to drag it from the water. Gast lugged in "Col. Philip Kemp," but Berry's effigy was so badly mutilated it could not be identified. The rescued were reported recovering last night, but a search was still under way for a half dozen other victims, including "Maj. Reed Landis." Corp.

Fall Opens with Lower Prices for Women's Clothing

Soon all that will be left of summer will be a few coats of tenacious tan and collections of photographs, souvenirs and memories. There'll probably be a few more weeks of weather to wear summer dresses, but not for long. The new season is already at hand. Colors and models are more attractive than ever and in such variety that no one need sacrifice individuality.

Shopping should be no problem this season. While early shoppers naturally will find a wider selection, stocks are unusually complete. Chicago stores also are featuring a generally lower level of prices. Dress materials have declined in cost from last year. Manufacturers passed their savings on to the retailers. Opportunity to replenish wardrobes has not been so favorable in a long time. As one merchant puts it: this fall offers the same quality as last year for less money or a better quality for the same money.

DIVERS LOCATE HULK OF EGYPT, SUNK IN 1922

Liner Rests 400 Feet Beneath Atlantic.

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP OFF CAPE FINISTERRE, France, Aug. 31.—Lying on gray sand 400 feet beneath the surface of the Atlantic the wreck of the Peninsular and Oriental liner Egypt with $5,000,000 of gold and silver in her hull was identified today by Italian divers.

A waving jungle of seaweed blurred the outlines of the sunken treasure ship, and a cloak of brown vegetation covered the hull; the external fittings were gone and a tangle of splintered wood and broken cables covered the decks. After days of undersea search, however, there could be no doubt that the wreck on the ocean floor was the liner, which sank in a collision in 1922, carrying five tons of gold and tons of silver with it.

Ends Half Year Search.

After six months of heartbreaking search, one of the richest wrecks of modern times has been found, and the first stage has been completed of the most difficult piece of marine salvage ever attempted. The sunken vessel is standing keel upright among scattered rocks at 48 degrees 7 minutes north latitude, 5 degrees 30 minutes west longitude, about 25 miles southwest of the island of Ushant and 30 miles off Point Du R. The wreck is lying one mile from the point fixed by the Swedish Capt. Hedbach, who searched for it in 1926.

It is almost impossible to see on the bottom, perhaps because the strong tides of the last few days had troubled the waters. At first the divers could not tell whether they were seeing the fore or after part of the ship. In the end seven hydraulic cranes, a type which the Egypt carried but which are no longer used on ships, gave up the ocean's secret. The divers saw the cranes several times and also water tanks, insulators, and skylights, which corresponded to those on the Egypt's plans.

Plunges 400 Feet Into Sea.

It was a week ago that the wreck was first located, but not until today were the divers certain it was the Egypt. The first descent was made by Alberto Bargellini, youngest of the Artiglio's divers, after a night of thick fog with the fog horns moaning incessantly on a gray green ocean.

When the salvage ship arrived at the buoys the tide was slack and there was no time lost. In less than half an hour the ship was moored and Bergellini plunged 400 feet to the ocean floor in his steel shell.

On deck his mates crowded around the telephone and watched anxiously as Alberto Gianni, chief diver, put on the headpiece to talk with him.

"How far can you see?" asked Gianni.

"About two yards," was the answer from the ocean floor.

"Can you see anything?"

"It See It," Cries Diver.

At that moment Bergellini could see nothing but a dim green light all around him. Five minutes before it had been blackness but now his eyes were getting accustomed to the underwater light.

"Can you see the bottom?" asked Gianni.

"No," replied Bergellini, explaining he could not see downwards as far as his own feet.

He was hoisted a little and the Artiglio moved to port. A yell came from the telephone.

"What can you see?" asked Gianni.

"I can see the end of a ship's hull," the diver replied from below. "I can see the taffrail."

"How many rails has it?"

"Three—it's a big ship."

On deck there was pandemonium. So this was no rusty green tramp or Spanish orange boat. This was the treasure ship which had been sought for eight years and which experts had said could not be found. The Artiglio was moved slowly.

Spies Three Portholes.

"Now I can see three portholes," said Bargellini over the thin wire which connected him to his mates. "They are big ones; I think I'm alongside the forecastle."

"You can tell the forecastle by the

"I can't see the deck," the diver replied. "Is the sun coming out? Astern a little. Now I can see something. It looks like a crane."

A long discussion on the crane followed. How tall was it?

Bargellini could not tell. Peering from a yard away, he could see only a few feet of its base. But it was large and made of steel plate. A hydraulic crane is easily distinguished by a vertical piston, with pulleys on top, over which steel cables pass. The difficulty was to get the diver even for a moment opposite the piston. He was raised and lowered and raised again while the crane first presented an enigmatic butt end to his window and then faded away altogether in the green half light.

Game of Hide and Seek.

For half an hour the game of hide and seek went on. The voice of the diver in his steel shell at the bottom of the sea came briskly over the telephone and could be heard across the deck.

Once he failed to answer promptly to a question from above and in a flash the careless gayety of his mates became tense silence, and the man at the telephone called his name urgently again and again with fear in his voice. Steel cables are known to break and even inch thick glass may sometimes crack. Water 66 fathoms deep exerts a pressure equal to that in a locomotive boiler and can crush the life from a man in no time. If a joint fails, or the glass bursts, you may dig what is left of your diver out of his shell with a marlin spike.

At last Bargellini found what he wanted and came up to report that he had seen the hydraulic crane. As he moved aft he saw a deckhouse—probably the chart house—then a ladder leading down from the boat deck to the hurricane deck on the starboard side and, finally, starboard midship, the hydraulic crane.

Second Diver Goes Down.

The crane was vitally important, and Franceschi, a second diver, promptly went down to confirm Bargellini's report. The tide was turning, and for a time he saw nothing but three congereels and a few rocks. Then he saw something looming through the green twilight and found himself bumping against a lifeboat's davit so large that it could only belong to a good-sized ship. In a second attempt he found himself on the boat deck, dropped over the side and found rows of 18 inch portholes—a liner's ports, beyond doubt.

Gianni finally settled the question of cranes by going down himself. He landed between the Egypt's funnels and close to one of them. Moving forward he saw water tanks and insulators, which he eagerly picked out on the ship's plan when he came up. He was so determined to know exactly where he was that he began rushing up and down between the Egypt and the Artiglio at 10 minute intervals.

It was very different from the endless "decompressing" of the rubber shirted divers, and at the end there was no doubt the Egypt had been found.

The Italians now have a good chance of success if the sea is kind. The patience and ingenuity which brought the search to a successful end must now be concentrated on the tremendous problem of making the Egypt yield her treasury. Recovery of the gold and silver may, however, have to be postponed until next year.

ABOUT 100 LIVES LOST.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The Egypt was rammed and sunk on the evening of May 20, 1922, by the French cargo steamer Seine in a thick fog off Finisterre, Spain. The death list in the collision was put at about 100, including passengers and crew. More than 250 persons were saved by the crew of the Seine and were brought into Brest.

116 LEADERS OF BRITISH BUSINESS URGE FREE TRADE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—A group of 116 British bankers and manufacturers, with a sprinkling of statesmen, will issue tomorrow an urgent appeal that Great Britain adhere to her free trade system and not be stampeded by the present economic difficulties into adopting a retaliatory protective tariff policy. This pronouncement is in direct contradiction to resolutions passed on July 4 by a smaller group of London bankers to the effect that England should obtain better trade agreements with the British dominions and that as a condition for getting such agreements "must retain an open market for all empire products, while being prepared to impose duties on all imports from all other countries."

POLES CRY 'DOWN WITH GERMANY!' IN WARSAW RIOT

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—(AP)—A furious anti-German demonstration in the principal square of Warsaw was reported tonight in dispatches of the Telegraphen Union agency.

The demonstration rose from a meeting to protest against recent discussion of possible revision of the German-Polish frontier, which has awakened violent resentment in Poland since the recent speeches of the German cabinet minister, Gottfried Trevranus.

Cries of "Down with Germany!" and "Away with the Prussians!" rose in a roar. Crowds attempted to march to the German legation, but were headed off by a strong force of police.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Telltale marks on guns and bullets put Coroner Bundesen on the trail of the murderers of Jack Zuta yesterday. A shipment of thirty guns to Gary last spring involved in the Zuta murder a man who used the names of H. A. Darling and Denman, and the former north side booze chief, Ted Newberry, who quit the Moran gang to join the Capone crew.

The discovery dates back to the arrest of Sam Hunt, a Capone gangster, last May after he had shot at a man believed to have been Leo Mongoven, bodyguard of Bugs Moran, who was then the head of the north side gang. Hunt was seized as he ran to an automobile, which sped away without him. He was carrying a revolver in his belt and a shotgun in a golf bag.

Finds Gun Numbers Effaced.

Coroner Bundesen had the revolver examined in his ballistic department and he found that the numbers on the gun had been effaced with a stamp that put a mark "‡‡" over each numeral. It was a .38 caliber revolver, mounted on a .45 caliber frame.

Hunt forfeited his bonds. The Lingle murder occurred soon afterwards and Hunt's picture was selected as one that bore a resemblance to the features of the killer. Then, a few weeks later, when an attempt was made in State street to kill Zuta, vice monger and alleged brains of the Moran gang, a revolver was thrown away by the attacking party.

Zuta's life was saved because of the presence of Police Lieutenant George Barker, who had agreed to see Zuta safely to the loop from the detective bureau. Zuta had been questioned at the bureau regarding the Lingle murder, which he was suspected of having instigated.

Trace Sale of Guns.

The numbers of the gun dropped by one of the men who fired on Zuta had been stamped out in the same way as those on the revolver found on Hunt. By a secret process Dr. Bundesen's assistants were able to bring out the original numbers. Then they sent to the Colt arms factory a request to trace the sale of the guns.

The Colt company reported that both guns—Hunt's and the one dropped by Zuta's assailants—were in a shipment to a Chicago sport goods store. At that store Dr. Bundesen's men learned the two guns had been sent with 28 others to the Gary Mail Order house.

Bullet Aids the Search.

In the ballastic examination of the bullets taken from the body of Zuta when he was killed near Delafield, Wis., one bullet of peculiar shape and style was noticed. It had been taken from Zuta's mouth. It was the kind of bullet, the experts said, that would be fired from such a gun as Hunt's—a .38 caliber on a .45 caliber frame.

That fact linked the actual murder of Zuta, the attempted murder, and the arrest of Hunt, who shot somebody whose identity was never disclosed but who was believed to have been Mongoven. Mongoven has not been heard from since, the police say, and it was regarded as possible that Hunt's companions were taking away Mongoven's body when a special policeman seized Hunt.

Take Up Trail in Gary.

In Gary the detectives were told that the package of 3 revolvers had been taken from the express office by a man who signed: "Gary Mail Order House, per H. A. Darling." He telephoned the express office the morning the package was received and said he would call for it. Just how payment was made was not disclosed but there was a report that detectives were tracing a certified check.

The police found that Darling had rented an office in Gary under the name of the Gary Mail Order house and had paid a month's rent in advance. After receiving the revolvers he abandoned the office and paid no more rent.

Information picked up about Darling was that at times he had said his name was Denman and had claimed relationship to Col. Albert Denman, formerly a Chicago police captain, chief of the Cook county highway police, personal bodyguard of Gen. Charles G. Dawes after Dawes was nominated for the vice presidency, and later connected with the traffic department of the Los Angeles police.

Gives Refuge to Newberry.

"Darling" had been a bootlegger and was once indicted by the government, detectives reported, and he and his wife had a cottage near Miller, Ind. There, the police were told, Ted Newberry hid away for a time while his life was endangered in Chicago because of a break with the Moran gang, and while he was negotiating with Capone.

It was learned that the investigators suspect Newberry was one of the men who invaded a summer resort hotel near Delafield where Zuta was hiding and killed him as he put nickels in a mechanical piano. Newberry's connection with Darling was regarded as confirming that suspicion.

A report to Coroner Bundesen was that after the killing of Zuta, Darling left his wife and went to New York, where he is now living with another woman, said to be the divorced wife of a Chicago physician. A search for him in the east was ordered.

Plumbers' Union Battles to Throw Off Gang's Grip

Organized labor was reported yesterday to be striving to hold its own against the Capone-Barker racketeers who have gained control of certain legitimate unions and turned them into illegitimate agencies of plunder, profit and power. President John Coefield of the International Union of Steamfitters and Plumbers, was in Chicago making efforts, it was reported, to prevent the plumbers' union from becoming the private property of the Capone-Barker gang.

"Two or three unions have been thrown to Barker lately, and he is adding to the 33 unions he now rules," said an investigator whose findings are expected to result in action by the Employers' association, the crime commission, the "Secret Six" of the Association of Commerce and possibly by the Better Business bureau.

Double Slayin; Recalled.

The plumbers' union lost its two principal leaders on Aug. 20 when Charles Mulcahy and Bernard Ruberry were slain at the site of the new Lane Technical High school, where, it was said, they were about to call a strike. The plumbers' union is said to be a stepping stone in Capone's ambition to dominate the Building Trades council and thereby become the dictator of all building operations in the city.

"Capone has the gunmen to force honest union officials out of office," said a representative of the crime commission. "With his army of 500 gunmen no organization is secure against his designs."

As told yesterday, the story is that George ["Red"] Barker made his peace with Scarface Alphonse Capone at the time Barker's two racketeer companions, William Clifford and Michael Reilly, were murdered nearly two years ago. Their bodies were found in an automobile behind Capone's hotel in Cicero.

Barker Takes Over Union.

Barker had been put in control of the coal drivers' union after James [Lefty] Lynch, business agent, was slain, according to union history. Yesterday it was explained that at the time certain Sicilians were seeking to seize control of the same union and John Sheridan of the teamsters' joint council thought Barker the lesser of two evils.

Eventually Barker branched out, it was revealed, and his allies, the O'Donnells of the west side who have James [Fur] Sammons as their mankiller, were given control of the commission wagon drivers' union.

It is reported that Capone has been able to maintain mastery over Barker and that Barker is allowed only 25 per cent of the money extorted through racketeering unions. So, the investigators say, Capone put William [Billygoat] Taglia in the plumbers' union with orders to watch and wait and fostered the unsuccessful candidacy of Michael Carnozza for vice president of the building trades council.

Plans to Retire Told.

There are reports that Mulcahy and Ruberry were ready to resign their union offices at the time of their deaths. Mulcahy had given notice he would retire on Sept. 1, and Ruberry told friends he wanted to quit a year ago because of Capone's efforts to seize the union. Ruberry had engaged passage to Europe, his friends declared, but the Capone outfit "induced" him to remain.

International President Coefield came here and wanted to declare all offices of the plumbers' union vacant after the killing of Mulcahy and Ruberry. Barker was said to have served notice that no matter what else happens, he wants Billygoat Taglia to have an important part in the reorganization.

Coefield's plan was to have the international union supervise the affairs of the local until such time as an election could be held under conditions he would consider conducive to an honest vote without violence or intimidation. The outcome of his plan was said to hinge upon whether Capone will be able to chase him and his assistants out of Chicago.

ENDS LIFE IN RIVER.

Standing on the river brink at Division street and Elston avenue yesterday a middle aged, poorly dressed man, slashed his throat with a knife, plunged into the water and drowned. His body has not been recovered.

SHOT TRYING TO FORCE WAY INTO FATHER'S HOME

Gerald Ferst, 22 years old, estranged from his father and stepmother, Hyman and Nettie Ferst, 1505 South Kolin avenue, was shot yesterday by Policemen Fred Wright and Peter Senkelwitz of the Fillmore station as he tried to force entrance into the Ferst apartment. Mrs. Ferst said she feared him and refused to answer his doorbell ring.

Young Ferst then obtained a ladder and was climbing it when a neighbor, mistaking him for a burglar, called the police. He descended and fled when Wright and Senkelwitz arrived. They opened fire when he refused to halt, wounding him in the abdomen. At the Bridewell hospital it was said his chance for recovery was slight.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Miss Bernie La Balta, 22, of Paterson, N. J., today jumped with a parachute from an airplane at an altitude of 17,518 feet over the Teterboro airport. She landed three miles away in Woodbridge, N. J.

IDENTIFY YOUTH; HUNT FOR CLEWS IN LAKE MURDER

Evanston Body Is That of Young Pressman.

A search for the slayer of Herbert Tews, 18 years old, whose body was found in the lake off Northwestern university campus in Evanston Saturday, was under way by Hudson avenue and Evanston police last night following the identification of the youth as a young pressman who may have been involved in a labor dispute.

Tews, son of Arthur Tews, 1858 Orchard street, salesman for a roofing company, was identified by his father and brother, Arthur Jr., early yesterday after Hudson avenue police notified the family that a youth answering Herbert's description had been taken from the lake in Evanston.

Missing for One Day.

Young Tews had disappeared Friday night and his father had reported him missing to the Hudson avenue police. His body was found by two university students, M. O. Gates and R. V. Kirk. The skull was crushed and Dr. Axel F. Benson, coroner's physician, said the blow had been inflicted by a gun or club.

The youth had gone to work for the Cuneo Press last Wednesday as a press feeder, after having worked two years for the Max Lau Printing company. Police are considering a theory that a dispute over employment may have led to the slaying.

Several of Tews' young friends were questioned but were unable to offer information which might suggest a motive. It was learned that Herbert customarily carried his union pressman's card but it was not among his effects when his body was removed from the lake.

Reports Seeing 2 Carry Man.

The story of Robert Pickney, 328 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, who reported he saw two men lift the body of a third man from an old Ford at the north end of Belmont Harbor at about 10:30 Friday night was under investigation.

John Bierer, druggist at 701 Willow street, and Peter Mortz, 1017 Montana street, friends of Tews, said they last saw him at about 8 o'clock Friday evening. The three were to meet at Bierer's drug store to go to a show. They said Tews was there at 8 o'clock but they had an errand to do and when they returned shortly afterward Tews had left. Bierer said he had noticed an automobile standing outside the store with two young men sitting in it when he went out.

Chief William O. Freeman of the Evanston police said his detectives were working on a clew but declined to indicate its importance.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Walter Peszek, 20 years old, 142 North Racine avenue, who had been out of work for weeks, was found shot through the heart yesterday by his brother, Joseph, his roommate. He was despondent, the brother told the police.

One of Every 4 U. S. Women Between 16 and 64 Work

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—One out of every four women in America between the ages of 16 and 64 is working at a gainful occupation, Director of the Census William M. Steuart told a radio audience tonight.

Drawing his conclusions from preliminary 1930 census returns Mr. Steuart declared that "women are now engaging more actively in industry, trade, and office work than ever before in the history of the country." If housekeeping be considered an occupation, he said, almost as many women are occupied as men.

10 Million Receive Pay.

Director Steuart estimates that the census enumerated 75 million people from 16 to 64 years of age, excluding those in institutions, of which 38 million are men and 37 million are women. Ninety per cent of the men are working for wages, salaries, or money profits, he calculated.

"Of the 37 million women, about 10 million, or something over 25 per cent, are engaged in gainful occupations, most of them receiving wages or salaries," Mr. Steuart continued. "In addition to this 10 million there are perhaps 23 million housewives engaged in the work of keeping their own homes, most of them doing themselves the major part of the work.

"Adding these housewives to the 10 million classified as 'gainful workers' the total amounts to about 90 per cent of the whole number of women in the age group under consideration or practically the same as the percentage of men in gainful occupations."

Agriculture Leads.

The largest number of men, about 11 million, are engaged in agriculture, forestry, and animal husbandry and these assist in giving employment to about 12 million engaged in the mechanical and manufacturing industries, Mr. Steuart pointed out. The number engaged in agricultural pursuits comprise about one-fourth of the total population.

Rather less than 3 per cent of the people, Mr. Steuart declared, are employed in mining, 7 per cent in transportation, 10 per cent in trade, and 5 per cent in professional service.

RULERS' TELL REMEDIES FOR U. S. CONDITIONS

Things Will Improve Soon, Majority Declare.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—How would the sixty-four men whom former Ambassador Gerard recently listed as those who "really rule the United States" set about overcoming the present trade depression? This question, suggested by a reader of the New York Times and sent along to as many of the sixty-four "rulers" as could be reached, has brought both positive and negative answers.

Most representative of the positive answers is that of Sidney Z. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the Electric Bond and Share company. "The remedy," says Mr. Mitchell succinctly, "is more work and less talk."

On the negative side the most characteristic response was from the secretary of a "ruler," who could not be reached because he was away on a fishing trip.

Divided in 3 Groups.

In general the leaders of American industry and finance, as selected by Mr. Gerard, divide themselves, in this particular matter, into three groups—those who hesitate to express an opinion, those who are or have been on a vacation, and those who agree with Mr. Mitchell, at least to the extent of believing that the remedy lies in hard work.

None of the notable sixty-four appears to have become unduly inflated as a result of his selection. Several modestly refused to express an opinion, on the ground that they had nothing to say or that the subject was too complex to be discussed by them without further study. "It is a very deep subject on which I feel hardly qualified to answer," said one industrialist, and his reply was typical of others.

Majority Optimistic.

At least twenty of those from whose offices acknowledgments of the question were received were taking the situation with sufficient calm to go on their regular vacations. Of those who answered, none seem to possess the infallible Indian remedy which cures all diseases of man, beast and the economic structure. Most of them are confident that the situation is not as black as it is sometimes painted, and nearly all are convinced that it will soon get better.

Adolph Zukor, president of the Paramount-Publix corporation, in his reply lays the present difficulties at the doors of American business men who had allowed themselves to become overconfident.

Blames Business Aattitude.

"In my opinion," says Mr. Zukor, "one of the chief causes of the business depression we have been experiencing for the last few months lay in the attitude of business men toward their tasks. Caught up in the greatest period of prosperity the world has ever experienced, they felt that this country and their businesses had reached the ultimate in development, and, lulled into a false security, they allowed their attention and energy to be dissipated into channels outside their business.

"The present situation will be cured when business men realize that they must study their problems with an eye to the future as well as the present, and then apply themselves with all their energy and thought to the working out of their policies. Hard work—and by hard work I mean tending strictly to our own business with foresight and energy—will bring us out of our present difficulties. If we all buckle down to our jobs, prosperity will be back again before we realize it."

Banker Makes Statement.

William H. Crocker, president of the First National bank of San Francisco, takes the view that present conditions must be only because they are contrasted with the abnormally prosperous conditions of the first nine months of 1929.

"I believe," declared Mr. Crocker, "that general business conditions for this year will, as a whole, compare favorably with those of 1928. The year 1929 was abnormal and the inflated peak situation prevailing during that year should not be considered sound for comparison. I believe the agitation caused by a natural return to normal conservative, economic progress is misjudged for general depression.

Overproduction Blamed.

"Overproduction, resulting in lower commodity prices, has caused a temporary decline, which is augmented by present conditions in foreign countries that have impaired our export trade. This latter situation may take time to cure, but in the meanwhile our surplus stocks are gradually lessening and there are indications of a healthy reviving consumer demand.

"In my opinion, what is most needed is an adjustment of our minds to a steady and more stable advancement in the development of our domestic business, without indulging in so-called hysterical demands for abnormal and unnatural expansion as evidenced in 1929. With this will come a speedy restoration of normal activity in industry and commerce as well as the beginning of a new era of prosperity."

Col. McCormick Blames Government.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, puts much of the blame for the depression on the national government.

"Succoring of people in distress," Col. McCormick says, "has become a profession. In order to support this profession it has been necessary to exaggerate every misfortune. Therefore, the Mississippi flood, the stock market collapse, the bumper wheat crop and the smal corn crop have been exaggerated into national calamities in order that credit might be accorded for averting them.

"If the government would go out of the calamity howling business and devote itself to necessary public works, such as the Illinois and Mississippi waterway, it would at least cease to be a handicap to prosperity.

"In so far as the depression is industrial it must be solved by the industrial leaders. Where there is a lack of demand for a product the product must be improved. The railroads show signs that they are coming out of their long coma. Great improvement has been made on the crack trains of the best railroads along the Atlantic coast, where the directors live.

"With copper selling at 10 cents a pound and large amounts of money available at low rates of interest, the railroads should immediately electrify their principal terminals and install suburban cars at least as good as motor buses. If every industry that is complaining of a lack of demand will improve its product the demand will revive, while the work of improving the product itself will set rolling the wheels of trade.

"Politicians in Washington can do the country little real harm. The people look to business for leadership in restoring good times. All indications show that business men are beginning aggressively to go ahead."

Would Prevent Recurrence.

"Modernization and restatement of the Monroe Doctrine to make it a mutually desirable bond uniting all the Americas instead of a policy despised by all Latin America to the point that it has become the greatest barrier to our trade relations with what is potentially our greatest natural market.

"Lowering of our tariff barriers to a sane level with a view to the stimulation of reciprocal trade relations with foreign countries, beginning the reform at the Canadian border. Make the tariff a subject of scientific study instead of an object of political log-rolling.

"Make the development of old age and unemployment insurance, under public control [once regarded as socialism, now recognized as mere sanity], the rule in all states instead of the exception in a few.

"Determine upon a settled policy of control of public utilities to eliminate extortion of the public and suppress the fear of future confiscation now entertained by stockholders.

"Recognition by capital of the fact that unionization of all large employing industries is the surest safeguard against the blight of communism, but unionization with the coincidental acceptance by labor of the necessity of offering the employer something beyond the privilege of paying higher wages for less production and more loafing.

The reply of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, throws light upon what organized workingmen think of the depression and the way out.

"What is needed in the present," he says, "is genuine coöperation on the part of government, business, and finance to start the wheels of business moving at normal capacity, by financing and stimulating buying power. The present wave of depression has steadily deepened, due to the growing inability of the consumer to buy the increased output.

"This serious national problem challenges the constructive thought and coöperation of all responsible leaders. The advancement of a program for construction of public work and the advancement of funds for flood control construction are undertakings that will help. But there must be team work between national and local governments.

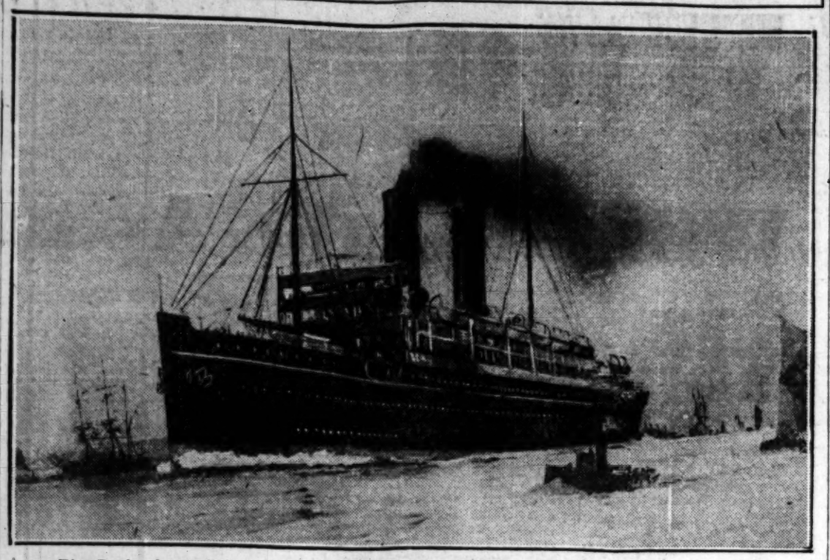
Credit Help Proposed.

"Private industries can help. Each should make a survey of its needs not for the next few weeks but for the coming year, and begin production of standard goods to anticipate such needs. The banks have funds for which they can find no use even at low interest rates. They can help by arranging credit for farmers and for solvent industries that need but small encouragement to do their part in turning the tide of business upward.

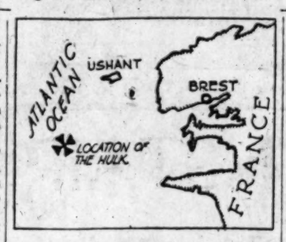
"But more than anything else, regular, full time employment for wage earners will swell the consumed credit funds upon which business must depend for approximately 6 per cent of its revenues. Wage earner incomes depend upon both rates and regular employment. Rates have been pretty generally maintained during the depression. Many large corporations have given their workers vacations without pay. Lay-offs have seriously decreased incomes and depleted savings.

"We have the materials and the equipment for production. What we need is teamwork and vision; have that faith in sound business planning that will check depression forces. Every industry, every business undertaking, every government official and every individual household can contribute to a sound revival of industry."

TREASURE SHIP FOUND 400 FEET UNDER WATER



The Peninsular and Oriental liner Egypt, which sank May 22, 1922, with 102 persons and $5,445,000 on board. It has been located off Cape Finisterre under 400 feet of water by a salvage ship which is standing by in the hope of recovering the treasure on board.



Cross on map shows where Italian divers found liner Egypt, which sank in the Atlantic in a collision in 1922 with $5,000,000 in gold and silver aboard. After six months' search the hulk was located off the coast of France, and about 25 miles southwest of Ushant island.

GIRL COMPANION OF 2 CHICAGOANS FALLS TO DEATH

New York, Sept. 1 [Monday.]—[Special.]—Joseph Cummings, 30, a Chicago attorney, and George Jaeger, 30, a broker of the same city, were taken to the East 51st street police station for questioning last night after Miss Gertrude Burke, 25, fell from the window of an apartment they were using at 23 East 55th street.

According to the police, Miss Burke and two other girls, Ida and Nettie Goldman, sisters, were walking up 5th avenue last night when Cummings and Jaeger invited them to go to their apartment for a drink. All four got into a taxicab and drove to the apartment, which is owned by Egerton B. Vinson, who had told Cummings and Jaeger they might use it.

Soon afterwards the Goldman sisters started for home. Ida Goldman heard Miss Burke calling her by name and, looking up, saw the latter's body come hurtling down from a window of the apartment.

The sisters summoned a patrolman, who called an ambulance for Miss Burke. Then with the Goldmans he went back to the apartment and took Cummings and Jaeger to the police station.

They said that Miss Burke had gone to the window to say good-by to the Goldman sisters and was leaning against a screen when it collapsed and she fell out.

IN EAST ON VACATION.

Attorney Joseph W. Cummings, 442 Wellington avenue, has been in the east on a vacation for two weeks, according to Attorney Austin L. Wyman of Glencoe, a partner in the law firm of Cummings & Wyman. Cummings was expected to return to Chicago the first part of this week, Wyman said. No record was found of a George Jaeger, broker, in Chicago.

ROBERT WILL DO HIS LABOR DAY OBSERVING ABED

The Coal Pile Isn't Made That Can Stop Him.

Robert Saunders, 55 year old Negro of 2732 South State street, took his Sabbath rest yesterday, serene in knowing that Labor day would stretch his repose over 48 hours instead of 24.

Robert needed the extra leisure. He was aboard the last of a fleet of Marine Coal company trucks which at 10 a. m. Saturday had dumped forty tons of anthracite in the alley to the rear of the 12 apartment building at 6234 North Irving avenue. "Heave it in the basement and don't quit until the job is done and the dust swept up," was the final order of his boss.

The pile wasn't placed for Robert's convenience, its base being 20 feet from the basement window, but he stripped off his coat and set to work with determination. After months of job hunting, he had found work only five days before and was resolved to hold onto it.

Fears for Robert's Health.

At noon he stopped 15 minutes for lunch, but thereafter the roar of the coal chute was uninterrupted and nightfall brought no surcease of his toil. It was 11 p. m. when Russell B. Sampson, first floor tenant, telephoned the Summerdale police.

The noise was bothersome, Mr. Sampson explained, but his main concern was Robert's physical condition. "If somebody doesn't order him off that job, he is liable to collapse from exhaustion," said Mr. Sampson.

The desk sergeant had a suggestion. The police would be pleased to end Robert's toil by locking him up for disturbing the peace. Would Mr. Sampson sign a complaint? Mr. Sampson would not. He didn't want such a faithful toiler to be arrested, fined perhaps, and to lose his job.

Rescue Work Proceeds.

So Mr. Sampson appealed elsewhere. He consulted a directory at a nearby drug store and at midnight by telephone reached James C. Hoskins, listed as general manager of the coal company. Mr. Hoskins desired to be helpful, but explained that he had left the company months ago to form his own concern. The present head, he said, was C. C. Dickinson.

Half an hour's further phoning established that Mr. Dickinson was beyond reach of the trouble caused by his overdiligent workman. He was, Mr. Sampson learned, inspecting his coal properties at Charleston, W. Va.

Again Mr. Sampson appealed to Hoskins, who remembered that Earl Shields was sales manager of the company and presumably had sufficient authority to call off Robert. It was 1 a. m. when Sampson's call brought Mr. Shields out of bed.

He's a Hard Man to Stop.

The situation explained, Mr. Shields agreed to stop the shoveling. Robert was summoned to the phone.

"I'm about done up, Boss," he confessed, "but there's still three tons and I'll have it in by morning."

The sales manager premptorily ordered Robert to go home. His face fell and he stammered: "You wouldn't fire me, Boss?"

"On the contrary, you've earned a bonus."

LILLIAN GISH BITTEN SEVERELY TRYING TO BREAK UP DOG FIGHT

Norwalk, Conn., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Lillian Gish, screen actress, tonight was under the care of a physician at her mother's summer home here with severe wounds on her left hand inflicted by a dog.

She was bitten last night several hours after her return from Europe when she attempted to separate her pet Sicilian dog and a mongrel which had attacked it. Miss Gish suffered a palm wound one inch long and a cut on the back of her thumb half an inch deep.

Her wounds were dressed at the Norwalk hospital and antitoxin was administered. She was then taken to the John Nash McCullough estate, which her mother, Mrs. Mae Robinson, and her sister, Dorothy Gish, have leased for the summer.

2 FLEEING BANDIT SUSPECTS SHOT; ONE NEAR DEATH

Pursued from Oak Park into Cicero by an Oak Park police squad, two bandit suspects were shot, one perhaps fatally, last night at 15th street and 59th court, Cicero.

Investigating a reported holdup committed by three youths at 922 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, the police squad obtained a description of the robbers' car, picked up the trail and pursued it. The wounded youths both carried guns and their car was found to have been stolen. A third youth escaped, apparently uninjured.

BOY, 14, IS SHOT TO DEATH WHILE AIDING HUNTERS

James Benda Jr., 14 years old, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by one of a group of hunters on his father's farm, along the drainage canal about a mile and a half east of Lemont.

James and an older brother, Joseph, started on a blackbird hunt with Umberto Belluccia, 4835 Cortez street; the latter's wife, Philomena; Umberto's brother, Frank, 4808 Augusta street; Samuel Batillo, and Dante Raffaelli, 4830 Augusta street. All the men carried shotguns or rifles.

The Benda boys preceded the party and were acting as beaters in a cornfield when one of the hunters fired. James fell, hit by fifteen buckshot.

G. O. P. Will Seek to Hold Own in Congress.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Outcome of the November elections will be accepted as a definite test of sentiment toward President Hoover and his policies.

Pronouncements of both Republicans and Democrats during the last week have made it increasingly evident that the Hoover administration is the issue.

If the Republicans, who are on the defensive, hold their own or even keep their losses down to two or three senate seats and 20 or 30 house seats the effect is likely to be to strengthen the President's chances of renomination and reëlection in 1932.

If, on the other hand, the Democrats win sweeping victories, gaining seven or eight or more senate seats and 40 or 50 or more house seats an impetus will be given to the movement to accomplish the President's overthrow two years hence.

Three Issues Stand Out.

Prosperity, the tariff, and agricultural relief have become the three chief issues involving the President which the national committees of the two parties are emphasizing in the congressional campaign.

The Democrats are making capital of the omission in the Republican campaign textbook of any reference to the prosperity plank of the Kansas City platform. Just why nothing should have been said by the Republicans about the prosperity plank in a parallel column record of platform promises and fulfillments is somewhat of a mystery, inasmuch as Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], chairman of the Republican national committee, dealt with the subject in his radio speech of last Monday.

Senator Fess sought to make the best of an admittedly bad situation by claiming that if it had not been for the President's leadership following the stock market collapse the present business depression would have been much worse.

Point to Prosperity Plank.

The Democrats do not propose to overlook the opportunity of pointing out that the Kansas City prosperity plank, which the Republican textbook ignores, asserted that "no better guaranty of prosperity can be given than the pledge to continue the Coolidge policies," that "under this administration [Coolidge] the country has been lifted from the depths of a great depression to a level of prosperity" and that "the record of the present [Coolidge] administration is a guaranty of what may be expected of the next."

It is apparent that the Democrats intend to stress failure of the Republicans to maintain the promised prosperity more than any other issue of the campaign. As expressed by Representative Cordell Hull [Dem., Tenn.], through the medium of the Democratic national committee, "instead of the promised prosperity the country finds itself in the throes of one of the most serious business depressions in our history, with unemployment at its peak, industry crippled, and our foreign trade hundreds of millions of dollars below normal."

Tariff Law Defended.

The Republicans, judging from the Fess keynote speech and their campaign textbook, are prepared to defend the new tariff law as meeting the promises of the Kansas City platform and the farm relief act as embodying the exact recommendations of President Hoover.

It is maintained in the Republican campaign textbook that the new tariff law places agriculture upon an equality with industry in tariff protection and that it provides increased protection to certain industries which because of changed conditions since the enactment of the 1922 law had been unable successfully to compete with foreign competition.

In answer to the Republican tariff claims the Democrats insist that the new law was for the benefit of industries which before the stock market crash were already at the peak of prosperity and that the new law changed 1,000 or more duties in spite of President Hoover's promise that the revision would be limited to a few industries involved in grave difficulties. The Democrats further assert that the relief to the farmer in the tariff law takes the form of an increased tax of from $5 to $10 on everything he buys as against each dollar's additional protection on what he sells.

Cite Farm Products' Prices.

The Republican defense of the farm board and the farm relief act is based on the promise that the problem cannot be solved over night and that the Hoover plan ultimately will enable the farmer to help himself through cooperative marketing. The Democrats in talking on the agriculture issue say little about just what they propose to do if given control of congress. They content themselves with pointing to prices of farm products and the continued distress of agriculture in the face of promises of the Republican platform in 1928.

The Republicans plan to make much of the Hoover naval armament limitation program as embodied in the London treaty. The Democrats meet this claim of a Hoover accomplishment by saying that the naval treaty was to narrow in its scope to amount to much and that it was ratified by the senate only because it had Democratic support.

Point to Tax Reduction.

With respect to the economy claimed for the Hoover administration the Democrats say that the fact of the matter is that appropriations have increased. Regarding the most recent treasury surplus it is pointed out by the Democrats that it is not as large as in many previous years. The Republicans point to the 160 million dollar tax reduction made for the present year on the recommendation of President Hoover, but the Democrats say that this was primarily a measure of business depression relief and that it was brought about with their cooperation.

With wets and drys in both parties neither the Republican nor the Democrat national committee is saying any more than necessary about the prohibition issue, which is an important factor in the election but figures differently in different states.

FILIPINOS HAMMER ROOSEVELT'S BOOK ON ANVIL; THEN BURN IT

BY FORD WILKINS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Aug. 31.—The burning of a copy of a book supposed to be Nicholas Roosevelt's "The Philippines, a Treasure and a Problem," at Balintawak, Philippine national shrine, today assumed amusing aspects when native ardor cooled. Sponsors of the demonstration expected 20,000 to attend, but only 2,000 came.

The crowd, stirred by the fiery denunciation of Mr. Roosevelt and the Hoover administration for his appointment, shouted as the facsimile went up in smoke and flames.

Before a match was applied it was placed on an anvil and hammered with a mallet to further emphasize the mob's resentment to Mr. Roosevelt's appointment as vice governor.

Suddenly a tropical downpour sent the crowd to cover, forcing the book burners to apply kerosene, dampening the enthusiasm.

Then the report that the book burned was not an actual copy of the much discussed Roosevelt work helped to turn the entire ceremony into a lackadaisical affair. Representative Francisco Varona refused to let newspaper men examine the book.

Although the representative, leading figure behind the book burning ceremony, charged that fear of arrest kept many away, no attempts were made by authorities to interfere with the demonstration.

A parade preceded the burning, which took place at the base of the statue of Andres Bonifacio, Filipino patriot. A group of schoolgirls, singing the Filipino national anthem, was booed because they sang in English.

Labor organizations, peasants and representatives from five neighboring provinces attended. Mr. Roosevelt is expected to assume the vice governorship late in October.

20,000 FRENCH FIGHT MIMIC WAR ON ALPINE CRAGS

New Tanks Climb Up Peaks Like Goats.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GRENOBLE, France, Aug. 31.—At daybreak tomorrow morning the French army's autumn maneuvers will begin in the upper Alps northeast of this city and along the Italian frontier. The operations will be a dress rehearsal of any campaign which might be waged in this region, and therefore take on a highly significant tone.

The French general staff has concentrated 20,000 men—the cream of the various army services—between the plateaus of Tarentaise and Maurienne, both fringed with glaciers and offering a most difficult terrain for combat in real war.

Will Test Tanks in Crags.

The primary object of the maneuvers will be to test the mobility of France's new motorized units and give the tanks their first real chance to show their ability to cope with mountainous country.

The transport of the final contingents of troops to take part was broken off yesterday morning when a cloudburst, following a terrific spell of heat, unloosed such a downpour of rain that the railroad near Modane, where the line enters the Simplon tunnel, was washed away. A motor truck service was organized to rush the soldiers over the mountain passes.

Huge snowbanks still glisten among the alpine peaks, despite the broiling heat in the valleys, and in a portion of the bare and windswept zone above the timber line. On those bare spots can be seen stationed heliograph operators, machine gun crews, and aviation signal officers.

Watches Agile Tanks.

Motoring through the district as far as possible and climbing on foot part of the way, THE TRIBUNE correspondent saw tanks of a new model climbing upward to take up their positions. The army staff seemed to be highly pleased with their performance and is convinced that they will be potential factors in mountain warfare.

The motorized field artillery proved to be as agile as goats. The gun bodies were shipped in trucks and the rest of the pieces were hauled by caterpillar tractors to be perched on rocky eeries where eagles nest.

The motorized heavy machine guns could be seen poking their stumpy black snouts from the most inaccessible places. Their crews had to rely on their surefooted little burros to drag up supplies and cartridge belts.

Hide Cavalry in Valleys.

The cavalry is being kept chiefly in the valleys, where the horses can graze and be kept out of sight by the use of artistic camouflage.

The Chasseurs Alpins—the little blue devils—are well represented among the units engaged. The men sweltered in steel helmets. They carried 24 pound packs on their backs and carbines and rifles. They are all using pup tents or sleeping in the open. The maneuvers will continue day and night until Thursday morning.

The following units are engaged: Twenty-three battalions of infantry, 9 battalions of sharpshooters, 2 regiments of artillery, 32 squadrons of cavalry, 5 regiments of heavy artillery, and 2 brigades of tanks.

Marshal Joseph Petain, as inspector general of the army, witnessed the maneuvers, and Minister of War Andre Maginot was expected to be present after just visiting the fortifications along the Italian frontier in the Maritime Alps department.

Many Americans Present.

Many spectators, including American tourists at Annecy and Aix-les-Bains, traveled over to the scene of operations by automobile, and although the military attachés of the various nations were not invited to attend, there was no difficulty in circulating through the zone.

St. Jean de Maurienne, where the attacking party starts its operations, was the scene of the world's greatest railway wreck in 1917, when double header locomotives, unable to hold the weight of a long trainload of French troops, dashed over a precipice, killing about 600 men. The French censors forbade publication of the accident during the war.

Julius Bottler, 44 years old, 2957 Edgewood avenue, a carpenter, died yesterday at the Alexian Brothers' hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night, when he fell down a flight of stairs.

Ex-Kaiser Sends His Wife to 'Feel Pulse' of Germany

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm has sent his wife, Princess Hermine, as his personal observer to watch the German election battle. She insists she is the rightful kaiserin of Germany and is showing unprecedented activity in conferring with politicians, former German generals, and visiting Russians.

The energetic Hermine has chosen Bad Kissingen for her half yearly holiday. It is located in the heart of the district where the German military maneuvers will be held early in September. Princess Hermine plans to occasionally drop into camp for surprise visits with the old time officers, who are now serving the republic.

May Talk to Hindenburg.

President von Hindenburg is scheduled to spend two days at Kissingen during the maneuvers, and Hermine's scouts have been busy ferreting out the details of his visit, since chance encounters are important for the personal observer of the former kaiser.

Hermine's friends assure that she is not watching politics but only thinking of her health; but the numerous talks she is having with Gen. von Seeckt, former commander in chief of the German republican army and now candidate of the German People's party to the reichstag, indicate her keen interest. A soviet Russian officer on leave in Germany has also been looking over the maneuver grounds and calling on Hermine's friends, who have flocked to Kissengen to form a temporary miniature court around her.

In her cross country motor rides, Hermine visits prominent old families, dispensing smiles and presents and talking of the "happy days of the past," the old world counterpart of a woman politician out stumping for a friend. For her and the former emperor the election returns are of paramount importance because she and a small group of "die-hards" are praying that Wilhelm's old subjects will find their way back to him before old age makes it impossible for him to respond to their call. German Republicans assure that they are not worried by Hermine's activities and conferences, and that the people will vote for the Republican parties.

Hugenberg Takes to Talkies.

Twenty-four different political parties will be represented in the voting for deputies to the reichstag Sept. 14. Princess Hermine's friend, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, chief of the Nationalists, is campaigning in the talkies because he is unable to manage hecklers in the open meetings.

The Socialists have chosen aviation as their campaign feature. They have a squad of airplanes, "storm birds," to carry speakers all over the country.

The communists are working with mass choruses to recite futuristic poems in mass formation on street corners. They are trying to gain the sympathy of Nationalist circles, such as the Reichswehr. They believe that an era of patriotism will help them achieve this end.

Screw Chairs to Floor.

The fascisti are trying to build their own broadcasting stations to plead to the voters, but like the Reds they are putting more faith in the power of their fists than in mere words. After beer mugs and ash trays were taken from Bavaria's meeting halls to deprive the fighting election fans of missiles the town of Bielefeld ordered all chairs in meeting halls screwed to the floors to prevent them being used as weapons.

The first victim of the strain of the election campaign was one of the chiefs of the German Peoples' party, Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, who broke down during a meeting at Baden-Baden. He returned to Berlin tonight to rest with his family before going to Geneva for the league of nations session.

DRUG CLERK DROPS DEAD.

Russell Thulin, 18 years old, 6355 Blackstone avenue, dropped dead last night in Wakefield's drug store, 1040 East 65th street, where he was employed as a clerk.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 31.—While the government continued today to guard all public buildings, although the contingents of troops were withdrawn, the inauguration of the annual livestock show was marred by a riotous demonstration against President Irigoyen.

The trouble started as Minister of Agriculture Juan Fleitas entered the hall as representative of the president. In the amphitheater was crowded all the elite of Argentina, for the opening of the livestock show is considered one of the most important social functions of the year in Buenos Aires.

Someone yelled, "Down with the government!" A crowd of men jumped to their seats and cried "Viva Yrigoyen!"

Boos and Cat Calls.

From all sides of the hall came boos, catcalls and shrill whistles. Fashionably dressed women started from their boxes. There was almost a stampede as the anti-Irigoyen demonstration grew in intensity. Hundreds of demonstrators, using whistles which they had carried in the hall in their pockets, created a deafening noise.

Minister Fleitas did not attempt to make his speech. Under a guard of police and firemen, he withdrew from the hall and the demonstration died down.

Anti-Irigoyen pamphlets were distributed among the spectators and the crowds outside the hall.

Congress will meet this week. President Irigoyen will have a comfortable majority in the house of deputies, but the foes are in control of the senate.

Morning papers commented on the situation by calling on the government to make a public announcement of the reasons for the recent precautionary measures.

An editorial in the Buenos Aires Herald said that "if there had been a veiled subversive movement the measures taken presumably strangled it at birth. In that event, a reassuring statement would appear all the more desirable. No man outside of political official circles appears to possess the remotest idea of what is taking place. Official silence is likely to alarm finance and commerce."

PERU TO PAY LOANS

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 30.—Col. Sanchez Cerro, president of the military council of state, which recently seized control of Peru, today declared all foreign loans will be respected except those collusion or fraud may be proven. All such questions will be submitted to careful study and revision.

The junta's investigation of foreign loans may figure in the trial of former President Augusto Leguia, who is held as a political prisoner. Lieut. Col. Cerro intends to submit him to a judicial trial on such charges of maladministration of public funds as may be brought and proven against him.

American and other foreign interests in Peru have been in no way affected by the revolt with the exception of three Yankees. Lieutenant Commander Grow of the United States naval reserve, inspector general of Peruvian aviation, was captured Sunday morning by Cerro's forces and is held prisoner at Arequipa. C. T. Sutton, head of the government irrigation service and directing the $100,000,000 Olmos irrigation project, was taken prisoner at Lambayeque and has been brought here a prisoner. His naval and irrigation accounts are to be submitted to a careful review.

The American Flyer.

Elmer J. Fawcett of the Fawcett aviation company, who flew Lieut. Col. Grow into this city last Wednesday, has been pressed into service by the government and is carrying out the task entrusted to him.

The American naval mission withdrew from its executive capacities early in the week. Representations in behalf of Grow and Mr. Sutton have been lodged with Cerro by the American charge d'affaires.

Since Cerro's arrival here public order has been strictly maintained.

Shake Up Diplomats.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Peru's new military government, beginning its second week under Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, today began making over the Peruvian diplomatic service. The government announced it was quite satisfied with the services of Manuel Freyre y Santander, Peruvian ambassador at Washington, and would retain him in that post.

But the minister to France, Mariano Beltran, was ordered to deliver the legation to the secretary and then come to Lima for investigation into his conduct. Francisco Garcia Calderon, noted writer and philosopher, succeeded Cornejo.

Modesto Romero will remain as ambassador to the Holy See. The government accepted the resignations of the minister to Spain, Eduardo Leguia, brother of the deposed president; Alejandro Poenta, minister to Great Britain; Cesar Canevaro, minister at Paris, and Guillermo Swyane Mendiola, another relative of Leguia, minister at Brussels.

Unrest Flares in Brazil.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 31.—(AP)—A dispatch airmailed from Porto Alegre last Wednesday and released by the newspaper La Manana today said great unrest prevailed in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande Do Sul with important political events impended and possibly a revolutionary outbreak.

The correspondent said the leader of the discontented faction was Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, a former minister, who resigned when the president of Rio Grande Do Sul was defeated for the national presidency by Dr. Julio Prestes in a recent election.

Body of Man 45 Years Old Is Recovered from Lake

The body of a man about 45 years old was taken from the lake off Roosevelt road near the Planetarium yesterday by South Park Policeman Joseph Moody. There were no marks of identification on the body, which apparently had been in the water for a month, except that the first finger of the right hand was missing.

PEAK OF HOLIDAY TRAFFIC TO JAM HIGHWAYS TODAY

BY HAL FOUST.

The traffic congestion attending the week-end will probably reach its peak between 6:30 and 9:30 o'clock tonight when vacationists, three-day tourists, and Labor day picnickers joining the usual holiday crowds in the tieups behind slow drivers on narrow pavements and at the grade crossings of busy highways.

Yesterday, with the boulevards and country roads filled beyond their capacity for comfortable and safe travel, the Chicago Motor club issued a bulletin for the guidance of drivers during the heaviest hours of the week-end. The suggestions are as follows:

1. Avoid the roads just northwest of the city where cars going to and from the national air races jam the highways.
2. Start the trip home, allowing for delays, in time to arrive in Chicago before or after the hours between 6:30 p. m. and 9:30 p. m.
3. Keep to the right on the four lane pavements except when passing another car.
4. Maintain a reasonable speed. If you do not want to keep up with traffic, get off the main highways.
5. Do not zig-zag from one lane to another and do not straddle the line between two lanes.

Holidays frequently take a heavy toll from traffic accidents, the motor club pointed out, advising that the crowds necessitate extra caution. Many cars today and tonight will be loaded with children being brought back from summer homes for the opening of school tomorrow.

GREEN URGES MORE RELIGION IN CAPITAL AND LABOR RELATIONS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—President Green of the American Federation of Labor in an address today at the Washington cathedral urged the wider application of religious principles to human relations in industry.

The preliminary observance of Labor day was attended by hundreds of spectators. Green left tonight for Syracuse, N. Y., where he will deliver an address tomorrow.

All the cabinet members and President Hoover were expected to be out of town on Labor day. Two governors, however, Ritchie of Maryland, and Pollard of Virginia, were to be in the capital to watch the traditional parade.

Green said that without "service rendered by the heart, head and brain of labor, civilization would perish while cities and towns become desolate."

"If capital and labor are to carry on a relentless industrial class warfare, then religion and ethics have failed. The rule of righteousness in human relations has ceased to operate, and a sense of individual moral responsibility has been destroyed," he said.

"The American Federation of Labor steadfastly refused to embrace such a philosophy or to accept such a pessimistic theory."

Thousands Will Attend Labor Fete Today at Soldiers' Field

Chicago business will be practically at a standstill today while thousands of persons from the city and suburbs celebrate Labor day in demonstrations and outings.

Almost without exception stores, factories, banks, offices, and public buildings will be closed all day. The observance will close a two and half day holiday which began Saturday at noon. Special traffic policemen will be stationed at most of the important highway intersections in and around Chicago to care for the streams of motorists driving into the country for the day and returning in time for work again tomorrow morning.

Celebration at Soldiers' Field.

Soldiers' field will be the scene of the most pretentious organized labor celebration. More than 100,000 persons are expected to be present. The celebration will be under the direction of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Charles F. Wills is chairman of the committee in charge.

The program at Soldiers' field will begin at 9 a. m. and continue throughout the day. School children from sixty-four playgrounds of the city will open the festivities with a track and field meet. At 2 p. m. the Labor day parade will take place on the field with floats representing each local union.

Green to Speak Over Radio.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be heard in the afternoon in a radio speech to be broadcast by WCFL, labor owned radio station. Among the principal speakers who will be present are John Fitzpatrick, president, and Edward N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor; and Father John W. R. McGuire of St. Viator's college at Bourbonnais, Ill. Entertainment will follow the speeches.

A heavy holiday traffic from Chicago into the Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan lake regions was announced by railroad officials. Special sections on all trains to and from lakes regions were placed in service by the Chicago and North Western railway over the week-end.

Revolt Torn Peru Shaken by Strong Earth Shock

For Folks Who Want to Keep Down Eating Costs

Every family has times when expenses have to be cut—

THEN the father and the mother sit down with a pad and pencil, and talk over "where" they can cut.

When it comes to the food allowance, mothers are apt to be stubborn, because they know that in times of reduced income, good health is more than ever important.

If the family is deprived of nourishment needed for growth and health, the few dollars saved on food are apt to cost dearly, later on; for poor health usually brings new expenses.

If you can look back at a period of reduced income and be able to say: "Thank goodness, we all kept well," you will know that you have done a real job of feeding your family.

How can you cut your food cost and improve the family health? Food experts have proved that it can be done by increasing the amount of milk used in your home. One quart a day for each member of your family will help you do a good job of feeding your family at a saving.

This is because milk gives so much food value for the money. In its natural form it makes a delightful drink. Or you can use it with other foods to make a large variety of appetizing, low cost combinations, a few of which are suggested at the left. Any standard cook book contains a great many recipes that use milk.

To take milk regularly is to make certain that you are giving your family the variety of food elements needed to keep the body in good condition.

You are invited to phone Franklin 3110, or talk with the Borden man who serves your neighborhood. He will gladly give you information about the food value and economy of milk—also tell you about families who have kept eating costs down and health up by the liberal use of milk.

Low Cost Milk Dishes

Where can you get a satisfying and appetizing meal for less money than bread and milk or crackers and milk, using either white or graham crackers? It is the favorite lunch of many business men. Hot milk on fresh crisp toast makes an invigorating and nourishing breakfast. Then there are many delightful soups to be made with milk: potato soup, asparagus soup, tomato soup, and chowders. Chipped beef in milk gravy is always enjoyed and milk gravy for the potatoes and bread always goes well. For the dessert, custards, junkets, rice and milk, bread pudding, and cabinet puddings are just a few of the delightful dishes, made with milk. Look in your cook book for other ideas.

RACES GIVE CITY VIEW OF EPOCHAL PROGRESS IN AIR

Efforts to Bring Events to Chicago Recalled.

As the 1930 national air races drew towards a close yesterday, race officials recalled the six months' negotiations which brought the races to Chicago and the elaborate preparations made for the staging of the race meet here.

"It has taken a lot of time, effort, and money to bring the nation's airplanes and ablest pilots here to perform for Chicagoans," said Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events for the races.

"But it has been worth it. It has awakened Chicago, and given its citizens, for the first time, a comprehensive picture of the people and the machines that are laying the groundwork for future travel in the air. We have been trying to boost aviation in Chicago and are deeply indebted to the public spirited citizens who made it possible to bring the races here."

Result of Year's Work.

The work of getting the races to Chicago began exactly a year ago as the National meet was closing at Cleveland and these negotiations initiated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE continued until November when a committee of Chicagoans traveled to Washington, placed their bid for the races before the contest committee of the National air races and succeeded in securing the 1930 races for Chicago.

The committee invited by THE TRIBUNE who made that trip were: V. L. Alward, vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Maj. Reed Landis, Ald. Dorsey Crowe, chairman of the city council aviation committee, and Edward J. Brundage.

Definite assurance that the races would be held here awaited a financial guarantee, and this assurance was given when Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, invited a group of representative Chicago citizens to a luncheon last November, at which these men agreed to underwrite the races.

$200,000 Fund Raised.

A sum of $200,000 was raised to guarantee prize money, general expenses, and $25,000 for the National Aeronautic association, which sponsors the races and keeps the records of all important flying competitions.

At the meeting of these leading Chicagoans Col. McCormick was elected chairman of the board of directors; Earle H. Reynolds, president; Frederick H. Rawson, treasurer, and Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening, secretary. Besides the officers the men who attended that first meeting and guaranteed the races were Aldis Browne, John Hertz, William V. Kelley, John A. Mitchell, James Simpson, John R. Thompson, and William Wrigley Jr.

In order to make the project more of a civic enterprise, Capt. Corpening said yesterday, the officers decided to issue additional invitations to wealthy citizens allowing them to become directors if they subscribed $5,000. Ten near-by cities were also invited to participate, in order to make it a mid-western affair.

Subscribers Are Listed.

The list of Chicagoans who each subscribed $5,000 to underwrite the races and thus become directors of the Chicago Air Race corporation follows:

W. R. Abbott	Samuel Insull
L. L. Avery	Allan Jackson
Vincent Bendix	William V. Kelley
Aldis Brown	Weymouth Kirkland
Britton I. Budd	A. D. Lasker
Arthur G. Cable	Lucius B. Manning
R. L. Cord	John J. Mitchell
R. T. Crane Jr.	Harold F. McCormick
Edward N. D'Ancona	C. A. McCulloch
Charles G. Dawes	Frederick H. Rawson
R. A. Eckhart	Earle H. Reynolds
Clarence R. Falk	Julius Rosenwald
Oscar G. Foreman	James Simpson
Leonard Florsheim	John R. Thompson
Clarence F. Glore	Warren Wright
Homer Guck	Philip K. Wrigley
John Hertz	William Wrigley Jr.
Edward N. Hurley	C. R. Walgreen

Wisconsin Day Today.

Milwaukee was the only city of the ten invited to accept the invitation and raise the $5,000 necessary for representation on the board of directors. Col. Clarence Falk was elected by the Milwaukeeans to represent them on the board. Immediately aviation boosters in Milwaukee started plans for their city's participation in the races.

A committee, headed by Stuart F. Auer, Wisconsin governor of the National Aeronautic association, sold tickets and passed the word throughout the state that Wisconsin day at the air races, recognized officially in a proclamation from Gov. Kohler, would be a great event. Today 15,000 Wisconsinites are expected to travel to Chicago to participate in the Wisconsin day program.

Hold Flyer Whose Plane Killed Spectator in Fall

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Lieut. Leo Allen, one of three flyers of the Curtiss Wright Exhibition corporation whose plane fell Thursday at the Iowa state fair after colliding in midair with another piloted by Lieut. Ty Younglove, was arraigned on charges of manslaughter at Iowa Lutheran hospital today.

Allen, who was injured in the crash which resulted in the death of Vernon De Vote of Mitchellville and injuries to six other persons, entered a plea of not guilty before Municipal Judge Ralph Owens. Bond was set at $2,000. Younglove faces manslaughter charges.

GROUND CHAT OF THE AIR RACES

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

For walking home from a plane ride, Maj. J. C. Cone suggests two pop bottles of gasoline as substitutes for the conventional roller skates. On taking off for the races from his home port, Kansas City, he was dubious about being able to finish the trip even with the fuel tank of his American Eagle full. So he cannily pocketed two of the said bottles, but managed to land yesterday at the Pal-Waukee airport without having had to resort to a bottle opener.

Jimmie Doolittle and his Doodlebug headed east yesterday for the balloon races at Cleveland. Jimmie's flying ability is at once the admiration and the despair of his fellow pilots.

When Maj. John A. Macready took his plunge at the north end of Curtiss field Saturday afternoon, accurately described as a nose dive, since his major injury was a broken nose, Al Johnson, veteran pilot and proprietor of an airport at Dayton, was standing at the announcer's box almost in tears. It was he who first taught Macready to fly. Early reports were that the latter had been killed. Maj. Macready's condition was reported excellent yesterday at the Evanston hospital. He is able to walk around.

Howard Knotts of Springfield, Ill., credited during the war with having accounted for twelve German planes, has been looking things over for the last few days. After witnessing some of the feats on the program he decided yesterday that he "didn't know anything about flying."

No, Anita Loos has not yet "registered" as a spectator or contestant at the air races. The girl who so startlingly resembles her, haircut and all, is Ruth Barron of Hollywood. Ruth was one of the Pacific coast Derby entrants.

Bill Stout, head of his own airlines, is authority for the assertion that in their performances of Saturday, in which they skimmed around the pylons over the regular race course, the heavy Ford air liners carried their capacity load—equal to twelve passengers and two pilots.

George Haldeman, Ruth Elder Camp's trans-Atlantic pilot, is in charge of the Bellanca "air bus," which carries ten passengers and two pilots on a single motor.

The nomadic propensities of most flyers have reduced Bert McGrath, announcer, to the depths of despondency. His repeated calls for this or that aviator or aviatrix for telegrams and special delivery letters has failed so often to reach the mark that the welter of rush messages is almost ankle deep in the men's and the women's pilots' clubs.

One of the dummy airplanes owned by the Curtiss company was the center of attraction at a pilots' party at the North Shore Country club Saturday night. The contraption gives an amateur approximately the equivalent of two ground lessons in flying. But the airmen promptly converted it to competitive purposes and staked their dollars on their individual ability to make a "flight" with the least number of errors.

A feature of Lieut. Marcel Doret's Dewoitoine monoplane is the radiator, which is hinged outside the motor and hangs down below it. To pick up speed the Frenchman switches the radiator up and back, decreasing the wind resistance. More than one of the American airmen has looked with envy on the trig chamois skin flying suit and helmet of the French ace, who is always meticulously groomed.

Hoot Gibson was much disgruntled when C. B. Allen, New York World aviation editor, skipped home in front of the Gibson Swallow in the sportsmen pilots' event. The movie hero challenged the newspaper men to repeat the race—which was cheerfully accepted with the proviso that the racers exchange planes. The grudge has not been settled as yet.

Sergt. Clarence Haskins of the state police is voted by race executives as the man who has worked hardest and seen the least at the air races. Officials declare all the traffic force, especially the state policemen, merit badges of honor.

Mae Haizlip, who couldn't be forced out of competition here merely because she was injured in a crash while on her way to participate in the Dixie Derby, is just that way. Last year a wrench was tossed into the cockpit as her propeller started up on one lap of the Derby, breaking a finger for her. She had it taped up and finished the race just the same.

Baroness Annhild Adelskold of Stockholm, Sweden, was a guest yesterday in the box of Mr. and Mrs. Alvor Hedberg. Also in the party were Eric Nelson, round the world flyer, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Banthin of Chicago.

Far from the madding throng in the grand stand those kindred souls among the airmen who rejoice in peace and solitude have established a rendezvous in the spacious ancient barn that stands at the northwest corner of the airport. Known at intervals as the "Q. B." [quiet birds] and the "Lighter than Air club," it finally became the "Ladder club" after it was decided to restrict the attendance by making entrance and egress only by way of a single ladder. Casey Jones, whose prowess as a pilot is unquestioned, is president of the Ladder club. But not even his intimates suspected that Casey would break into song in that capacity. The rumor was confirmed, however, that he had composed a parody on the Maine Stein song as the official melody of the membership.

6 BALLOONISTS SAIL TODAY IN BENNETT RACE

Cleveland, O., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Rainy weather forced postponement of an aerial carnival at Cleveland municipal airport today, but the international Gordon Bennett balloon race is scheduled to start tomorrow. Satisfactory weather was forecast for this classic event in which three of the greatest balloonists of Belgium, France and Germany, with their aids, will try to keep the three United States entries from winning for this country a second leg on the third Bennett cup.

The time set for the race is 4:30 p. m., but the final decision on the start will depend upon weather conditions.

ELINOR SHOWS HOW WOMEN HANDLE PLANES

Girl Meets Challenge of Airport Men.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Elinor Smith, holder of the women's altitude record, got her dander up yesterday, and showed some fancy flying to a few male pilots who tried to josh her at Pal-Waukee airport.

The girl, who practically grew up in an airplane, had been buzzing to and fro all week between Curtiss field and the Pal-Waukee port. Yesterday morning she skimmed into Pal-Waukee and a group of pilots twitted her about her plane, a 90 horsepower Fairchild. "You can't fly upside down in it," one of them said.

The twinkle froze in Elinor's blue eyes. "O, yeah?" she drawled, and climbed back into the biplane, and went soaring upward.

Shows Them Some Stunts.

Elinor spiraled, looped, rolled and flipped. She pointed the wheels of the Fairchild skyward and zipped across the sky above the heads of the scoffers. And when she finally righted her craft and slid easily in for a perfect three point landing, the author of the remark that had nettled her humbly pantomimed the process of eating his words. Elinor had the last laugh.

"Let's take a spin in a bigger plane first, then I'll show you mine," she suggested to a TRIBUNE reporter. Her choice for the first ride was a Stearman biplane with a Pratt-Whitney Wasp junior motor of 300 horsepower. The passenger occupied the forward cockpit.

Elinor learned to fly when she was twelve, and soloed at fifteen. She is eighteen now, the youngest feminine pilot at the National Air meet, and her achievement in flying above 27,000 feet is a matter of recent record.

Plane Climbs Smoothly.

So when she "gave it the gun," and the plane lifted smoothly against the wind at a long angle, no shred of foreboding disturbed the passenger's interested contemplation of the scene below. The motor hummed sweetly. The indicators registered 100 miles per hour, 115, 120, 140, and the altitude arrow showed 1,000 feet, 1,500, 2,000, then dropped back again.

"O, boy, what a ship!" she yelled, pushing up her goggles as she braced herself to hop over the side at the end of the trip. "This is really my type of plane. Great for cross-country flying. But now I'm going to show you the maneuver ability of my own."

Then she skipped across to the Fairchild nearby. With the reporter as a passenger, she again taxied down the runway and swooped upward. Then the excitement started. Elinor sped east, banked so sharply on the left wing that the right pointed almost directly toward the clouds, and circled deftly around a concrete bridge. Then winged eastward further, dipping far to the right, to the left, she wound up with a flourish by skimming close to the ground.

Yesterday's lone event for the feminine pilots, a dead stick landing, was made notable by Betty Lund's feat of establishing the best mark for women since the air meet started. She came down just six feet four inches from the flag. Ruth Nichols was second at 54 feet and Nancy Hopkins third at 98 feet.

Today's culminating event for the women flyers, a free for all race around the closed course for the $2,500 trophy donated by Mrs. R. R. McCormick and a $2,500 purse, had nine entries last night. All types of planes will compete.

Those who have signed up are Mrs. Opal Kunz, Phoebe Omlie, Ruth Nichols, Gladys O'Donnell, Ruth Barron, Marjorie Doig, Mildred Morgan, Vera Dawn Walker, and Mae Haizlip.

60,000 AT RACES ROAR FAREWELL TO OCEAN FLYERS

Air Speed Classic Will Be Run Off Today.

oral Matty Laird" and "Capt. Nels Kelley," who were left in the lake.

One accident resulted from the race. Arthur O. Johnson of Chicago, flying a Savoia-Marchetti of the Air-Sea-Land Aircraft company, damaged his plane landing in the rough lake water, but was towed to safety.

Howard Wins Fourth Victory.

Benny Howard, St. Louis mail pilot, who decided last year to build himself a racing plane, stepped out ahead of a formidable field of entrants in the free-for-all race for planes of 100 horse power and won his fourth victory of the meet.

After last year's national meet, Howard bought a drawing board and some pencils and drew plans for an airplane; then he proceeded to build it. At night he flew the mail between St. Louis and Omaha. In the day time he worked on his plane.

He had some trouble with engineering problems and he called in Gordon Israels, a high school student, to help him out.

"We got stuck on one problem in calculus and I had to send Gordon to night school for two weeks to find out how to work it," Howard said yesterday.

Wins $3,150 in Prizes.

The wing spread of the midget monoplane is no more than 14 feet. Howard fits in the cockpit only because he is thin, but because of his flying skill and fleetness of his plane, Howard has been able to win over his competitors in four events and take third place in another. His total collection in prize money is $3,150 and he hopes, before the races are over, to make the prize winnings equal the $5,000 cost of his plane.

The international race, planned for the visiting foreign pilots, Lieut. R. L. R. Atcherly, British; Marcel Doret, French; Capt. Fritz Loose, German, and Marshal Pietro Columbo, Italian, was called off yesterday because of the English and French rules which prevent their army pilots from taking part in international competiton.

The Sunday crowd saw these flyers in a repetition of their maneuvers, however. Flight Lieutenant D. A. Tripp of Canada, in a borrowed Great Lakes trainer, joined the team yesterday.

Williams Adds to Tricks.

Al Williams in his Cyclone Hawk added a few more wrinkles to his stunting exhibition yesterday and again performed his upside down landing.

Gen. Charles P. Summerall arrived yesterday and was brought to the races by Brig. Gen. Frank S. Parker, commandant of the Sixth corps area. The general was unable to watch the army planes take part, however, because of a staff rule prohibiting Sunday flying. The army will again perform for Labor day crowds today.

Today is Wisconsin day, and several thousand air enthusiasts from Milwaukee and other Wisconsin cities are expected to be on hand to take part in the ceremonies.

HELD FOR QUESTIONING.

Benton, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—George and Robert Milroy were arrested here today and held for questioning as suspects in connection with the Norris City bank robbery on Friday.

FORMER DRYS OF FINLAND TURN ON OWN REGIME

Public Demands End of "Noble Experiment."

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 31.—Finland's "noble experiment" is almost at an end, and that end is failure. This is almost universally admitted even by the former advocates of prohibition here and it is anticipated that after the coming election the new diet or dictatorship, whichever results, will take steps to return to some form of state sale of liquor.

Public opinion seems largely in favor of a change and only the Socialist and Agrarian parties in the diet now favor a maintenance of the dry regime. But even the inner councils of the Agrarians are split wide open on the question. The Socialists are trying to make prohibition a class question by declaring that the rich are trying to corrupt the poor with a flood of alcohol.

Much Youthful Drinking.

The reasons for the change of opinion as explained to me by Maj. Ellis Hultin, secretary of the central chamber of commerce and chief of the anti-prohibition forces, are chiefly moral and economic. The moral side is that Finnish public opinion is disgusted with the flagrant violation of the law and the corruption of youth. As in the United States boys and girls drink bad liquor out of bravado, and much of the immorality in the country is being blamed on prohibition.

The working class people buy raw alcohol from the smugglers at ten Finmarks (about 25 cents) a quart and disguise it into many kinds of drinks. It is estimated that about 600,000,000 quarts of alcohol are consumed a year. Kiel and Danzig are the chief sources of the supply from Finland.

Just like America, Finland has its rum row. Outside of the three mile limit, Maj. Hultin said, lie mother ships flying the flags of Greece, Turkey, Egypt, and other countries, but no flags of Baltic countries, as these have all signed a treaty not to trade in illicit liquor. The rum ships are served by fast motorboats which run the stuff ashore practically unmolested.

Outwit Coast Guards.

A few weeks ago the coast guard was reorganized under a naval chief and new methods of fighting contraband were introduced, but all this is expected to do will be only to raise the price of liquor. Officials themselves admit this.

On the economic side, Maj. Hultin explained that the pressure of taxation is becoming a factor favoring a return to liquor, as the thrifty Finns realize they are losing a large source of revenue. It is estimated that with a system of excise taxes on liquor the state could collect nearly $12,500,000 annually, which is a tenth of the total budget and as much as the cost of the national defense.

Not an Election Appeal.

The anti-prohibitionists' program now is to wait until after the election, not interfering with the campaign, as they wish to leave the constitutional question unclouded and then demand that the new government appoint a commission to consider the situation and advise action. This, they feel sure, will have almost the unanimous support of the people and can hardly be opposed by even the most fanatic dry.

How the latter are losing hope is shown by an interview I had with Nils Hiakka, former minister of social affairs and chief of the prohibition enforcement department. He began by admitting frankly that it was impossible to enforce prohibition by force and that prohibition could only become a fact by winning public opinion.

"The motor car," he said, "is the bootlegger's best friend. With the development of fast auto traffic which rush the stuff into the country it is impossible to check smuggling and the moment gets the liquor just as easily as do the towns."

Both Maj. Huitin and Mr. Liakka agree that there is little corruption of the police and none of the higher officials. Public opinion is so strong that it compels the police to wink at bootlegging and the selling in hotels."

TRAPPED

GEORGE B. FOX.

George Fox, 38 years old, 915 Forest avenue, Evanston, who on Saturday was arraigned before Judge William R. Fetzer on a charge of forging the name of Leonard A. Busby, head of the Chicago City Railways company, to a $10,000 check, was in a cell at the Hyde Park police station yesterday, unable to furnish $25,000 bonds. Fox is married and the father of four children. He was arrested as he entered the University State bank, 1352 East 56th street, for the alleged purpose of cashing the check.

'BAD BOY' CIRCLES GLOBE; RETURNS HOME AIR HERO

Japan Hails Los Angeles Cafe Owner.

TOKIO, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Zehsaku Azuma, village scapegrace, who fled from his home and priestly career, selected for him by his parents, returned to Japan today an aviation hero. His return ended a flight that began in Los Angeles, Cal., and traversed America, Europe, and Asia.

Azuma landed at Tachikawa airdrome at 5:20 p. m. and was accorded an ovation by cheering thousands. In the crowd was his 70 year old mother, who had not seen her son for fourteen years, and Matajiro Koizumi, minister of communications.

Shares Honors with Another.

The Los Angeles café proprietor now shares national honors with Seiji Yoshihara, who dropped his light plane into Tokio yesterday from Berlin. Yoshihara's feat of flying 11,404 kilometers in 70 hours and 58 minutes of flying time between Berlin and Tokio is claimed as a world record for light aircraft.

Newspapers today contrasted Azuma's mischievous youth, spent in poverty, with the acclaim that greeted his return. Disliking training for the priesthood, Azuma ran away to Kyoto, where he pulled a rickshaw and did odd jobs to enable him to attend night school.

He gained the attention of an Okayama millionaire, who became his patron and financed a trip to America to study aviation. Azuma went to California in 1916, learned to fly, and prospered as a café owner in Hollywood. He did not return to Japan until today.

Mother Prayed for Him.

During the flight from Urusan, Corea, to Tokio Azuma halted at Okayama to pay his respects to his patron. He flew alone in a 200 horse power Travelair biplane.

Azuma's mother, speaking the peasant dialect of the backyard district in western Ishikawa prefecture, where the family lives, said she was ignorant of her son's plans until she saw his picture in a newspaper and learned he was flying around the world. Since then, she said she has been praying nightly at the village shrine, asking the ancestral gods to keep him safe.

ENGINEER CRUSHED TO DEATH.

PLANE CRASHES AT REUNION; ONE KILLED, 1 MAY DIE

Brothers Fall in Sight of Family Gathering.

Two sons of Ben Jones, former treasurer of Will county, were injured, one fatally, yesterday when the airplane in which they were flying crashed on the Jones farm within sight of members of the family and relatives, who were celebrating a reunion. Paul Jones, 18 years old, was killed and his brother, Ben Jr., 28 years old, who was piloting the plane, suffered internal injuries and a skull fracture.

The father and mother of the young men were the first ones to reach the scene of the accident, 500 yards west of the farm residence, which is about nine miles southeast of Joliet.

Second Brother Near Death.

Paul was dead when he was taken from the wreckage. Ben was taken to the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet, where physicians held out little hope that he would live.

The plane, a two passenger, open Travelair, equipped with an OX5 motor that generated 90 horse power, was obtained by Ben Jr. from the Wilhelmi airport in Joliet. The ship is the same one with which the owner, Arthur Chester, won an event last week at the national air races.

Licensed as Private Pilot.

Ben Jr. had flown the plane to the farm, according to members of the family, where he had picked up Paul for a ride. He had taken flying lessons from Chester, it was explained, and was considered capable of handling the ship. At the airport pilots said that Ben had a private pilot's license, which permitted him to take up passengers, but not for hire.

The pilot had taken off from a field near the house and reached an altitude of 150 feet when the motor stalled and the plane went into a nose dive. It struck the ground about 20 feet from a group of trees.

One Killed in Michigan.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Clarence Jacquart, 24 years old, of Hurley, Wis., was killed and Morris Bergland, 22, also of Hurley, was injured when an airplane in which they were riding crashed after a faulty takeoff near here today. Ernest Brock, 24 years old, of Ironwood, was piloting the plane, which was not licensed. He was uninjured.

ROB GIRL CASHIER IN CAFE.

Miss Margaret Reesey, 921 Windsor avenue, a cashier at the Flamingo restaurant, 117 East Chicago avenue, was robbed of $36 by three armed men in the restaurant early yesterday.

ALLIGATOR SPOILS CIRCUS; NIPS OFF ARM OF WRESTLER

George was taken to the Frankfort hospital and the alligator was destroyed.

Mrs. John Gulliksen, 48 years old, 3916 North Monticello avenue, wife of the vice president of the Union bank of Chicago, was killed yesterday in a head-on automobile collision on the Green Bay road a mile and a half north of Wadsworth in Lake county.

Mr. Gulliksen escaped with minor injuries, as did his mother, Mrs. Ingeborg Gulliksen, 77 years old, 4623 Roscoe street, and Mrs. Gulliksen's mother, Mrs. Theresa Hanke, 66 years old, 6448 Nordica avenue. They were treated at the St. Therese hospital, Waukegan.

Mr. Gulliksen signed a complaint against the other driver, Jack Sherman, 55 years old, 335 North Pine avenue, who suffered a possible skull fracture and was taken to the Lake County General hospital, Waukegan. The complaint charged that Sherman swung out of a line of cars on the wrong side at high speed.

Two Deaths in County.

Harold Sedive, 11 years old, 2614 North Harding avenue, died early this morning from injuries he received in a collision between two automobiles at Rand and Wilkie roads, eight miles northwest of Des Plaines. The boy was riding in a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Marie Sedive, when a machine driven by John Sexton, 6751 South Elizabeth street, and said to have been on the wrong side of the road, collided head-on with the Sedive car. Mrs. Sedive suffered internal injuries and at the Des Plaines hospital her condition was reported serious.

Leslie Manning, 17 years old, residing on a farm near La Grange, was struck and killed by an automobile early this morning while roller skating home on the pavement from a rink at 5th avenue and 47th street, La Grange. The accident occurred at 5th avenue and the Plainfield road. The driver, R. L. Dallach, 20 years old, 220 Waiola avenue, La Grange, was held by the county highway police.

The deaths of Manning and the Sedive boy increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 666.

Killed on Michigan Road.

Motoring home from a long trip, Joseph Goldberg, 55 years old, a junk dealer, of 3555 Castello avenue, was instantly killed when his car overturned on a highway three miles west of Wayne, Mich. His daughter, Celia, 24 years old, and his son, Martin, 10, told the coroner their father had been driving steadily for eight hours and might have dozed at the wheel.

Fifteen year old Phillip Mares of 519 Field avenue, Hammond, Ind., changing a tire last night in the 1500 block of 5th avenue, Gary, was struck by a hit and run automobile, the handle of a rear door breaking off and penetrating his stomach. He was taken to the Methodist hospital. His condition is critical.

ARMY MULE KICKS AT BEING SHOT WHEN ORDERS READ "SHOD"

Fort Hancock, N. J., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Jersey Lightnin', this fort's famed white mule, barely escaped eternity today.

"In accordance with the colonel's instructions, the white mule will be shot at 2 o'clock," read an official order.

Regretfully an execution squad led the mule out. Jersey Lightnin' was kicking vigorously when Col. J. C. Johnson appeared.

"What's going on here?" he demanded.

The men replied they were on the point of carrying out orders. Then it all came out. The order should have read "shod" instead of "shot."

Smoke from Frying Chicken Overcomes Evanston Wife

Overcome by smoke when a chicken she was frying on the kitchen gas range caught fire, Mrs. Daniel S. Leonard, 3044 Central street, Evanston, was revived after thirty minutes by artificial respiration administered by Dr. Samuel J. Lang and a pulmotor squad from the Evanston fire department. GET BACK TO WORK.

The foundation of the fortunes of 1920 were laid at the turn of the century. Men with vision and confidence bought and built then and, having done so, found themselves on top of the heap fifteen or twenty years later. The same opportunity to prosper with the growth of the nation is open today to any one with the foresight and courage to grasp it.

Even the gloomy prophets are agreed that the seasonal improvement in business which begins with Labor day will be felt this year. What will follow in 1931 is a question which no one can answer with certainty, but there is reason to believe that prices will not fall much lower than they are today. Sooner or later the revival will come. It has already started, apparently, in steel. Those who are waiting for the lowest market in which to buy will, as usual, be disappointed. Shrewder judges of values and hardier spirits will have taken advantage of the present depression to their own profit.

Their own and the nation's. Confidence in the future does not blind us to the present. The glut of raw materials and manufactured goods which has depressed markets the world over has been greatly reduced, but unemployment continues to be a cause of great anxiety to millions of men and women in this country. Labor day to them this year is only another workless day.

Better days are ahead. The time has come to cease moping and despairing and to reënter the fight, confident that the future will hold a rich reward for those who do not lose heart in times of distress. It has always been so in America and we have only begun to grow.

JAPANESE NAVAL DEVELOPMENT.

News from Tokio, not officially verified, indicates that Japanese naval authorities have formulated a building program which provides for increasing the naval air force threefold, the construction of eleven light cruisers, new destroyers, and submarines. The estimated cost of the program is about $450,000,000.

Japanese naval building on these lines is intelligently directed by the situation created by the Washington conference and extended by that of London. At Washington the United States gave up the battleship building program which would in a few years have given it the first battle fleet on the seas, and at the same time pledged itself not to fortify existing bases or create new ones in the eastern Pacific. This at one stroke removed from Japanese consideration the possibility of aggressive action by the United States navy against Japan. It was accompanied by an engagement to rely solely on peaceful adjustment of differences during a period of ten years.

The Washington treaty left Japan supreme in eastern waters and the London treaty has strengthened her position. Its limitations do not restrict development upon lines which are most profitable to her international situation, leaving aviation expansion unaffected and granting her equal strength in submarines, in which arm she is now in fact superior, having larger and more modern types. If she builds, as she probably will, to the full extent of the treaty limits she will have a naval force easily able to control not only the approaches to her own shores but the maritime approaches to the Asiatic mainland and the Malaysian archipelago.

As the United States has no ambition to expand in the Pacific and no belligerent intentions toward Japan or any other country, our interest in Japanese naval policy is confined to the protection of our communications and trade with the far east, with the Philippines, China, and Malaysia. These communications are now at the mercy of Japan, whose naval power would have little difficulty in shutting us out of the eastern Pacific. Our trade with China in 1929 came to over a hundred and fifty million dollars in imports and over a hundred and forty-three millions in exports, in spite of the distracted state of that country. These sums are a small beginning of what will certainly become a very large trade when conditions become stabilized in China and the movement of modern development is really under way. There is nearly a quarter of the world's population in China, and commerce with that region is going to be a tremendous factor in the world and, we believe, especially in our future. We may be unmoved by the possibility of having a commerce of two hundred and ninety-five odd millions shut off, but we might do well also to take into consideration a future in which that commerce will be many times that amount.

But the China trade of 1929 by no means covers our commerce in the far east. In 1929 our imports from the Philippines came to over 122 millions and our exports to over 87 millions. From the Dutch East Indies and other East Indies our imports came to over 23 millions, with exports of 23 millions. From the Malay states our importation came to nearly 222 millions. The significance of this last item of our foreign trade is not in dollars, substantial as the sum of 222 millions is. About half of our importation of crude rubber is directly from British Malaya (the Straits Settlements). If it were shut off the effect upon the motor industry alone would be serious, if not disastrous.

It is not suggested that war between the United States and Japan is a probability under present conditions. There is in present prospect no such collision of interest as would bring it about and there are important considerations of mutual advantage which make for continued peace between us. If Japan could shut off our trade with the far east that act would shut off Japan's trade with the United States. At present the latter consideration would in any normal situation heavily outweigh the former. But conditions change as the international kaleidoscope revolves, and a sacrifice of the ability to protect communications as important to our prosperity as those with China and the far east are certain to become is not to be taken lightly.

AN OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT.

Chicago has had the honor of welcoming Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three associates of the flight from Germany along the arctic route. Theirs is one of the great pioneering achievements in aviation. They have made the journey against the prevailing winds and the route they selected is that which the commercial aviation of the future, connecting northern Europe and America, may be expected to follow. The path is shorter and it offers less hazard because it permits landings at both Greenland and Iceland, while the opportunity to refuel en route enables the plane to carry heavier pay loads.

The visit to Chicago has special significance. If the northern route is followed, Chicago, rather than the eastern ports, will be its American terminus.

Chicago has seen the Graf Zeppelin and now it has seen the Dornier plane, two symbols of the extraordinary recovery which Germany has made since the war. Germany stands before the world today as a nation which has triumphed over defeat and discouragement.

AT THE CLOSE OF RAVINIA'S SEASON.

With the gala performance of tonight, the opera at Ravinia closes its nineteenth season, and Mr. Eckstein turns another shining page of the remarkable story of his accomplishment. Those who have attended Ravinia during the summer or followed the expert comment of the musical reviewers have been aware that Ravinia has been proof against the mood into which the country has fallen and has, in fact, never shone with more delightful radiance. The percentage of reduction in attendance has been, it seems to us, surprisingly small, but it will add a substantial figure to the deficit which opera on the level and scale of Ravinia necessarily involves. Yet no shadow of this has fallen upon the performances or touched the spirit of the occasions.

We have come to know that what Ravinia offers is in kind unsurpassed if not unequaled in operatic art. But perhaps we do not sufficiently realize that what it means to the important, if less important, field of the social amenities, a source of civilized intercourse which makes life in this community and especially on the north shore substantially richer. This we think is especially important to the younger generation, and, through the benefits to them, to their anxious elders. There is nothing more attractive at Ravinia than the youth its spirit both expresses and attracts. To these young people Ravinia opens under the most engaging circumstances the treasures of civilized living, the beauty which genius creates for the enrichment of life as against the banalities of our ordinary social activities.

To all this the general public is gratifyingly responsive and appreciative within its means. But an enterprise like Ravinia is costly in terms of money though beyond price in its profit to the individual and the community. If there is culture and intelligent wealth in our community—and there is—they should make it a matter of personal pride and a privilege to contribute more liberally and more spontaneously to Ravinia's support. We say spontaneously because Mr. Eckstein cannot, and in common gratitude should not, be expected to make any appeal to individuals equally able and equally interested to insure the continuance of its high service.

Editorial of the Day

MR. WICKERSHAM AND MR. HUGHES.

[New York World.]

It is an interesting fact, frequently revealed in Mr. Wickersham's speeches, that he is most realistic about prohibition when he is talking about something else. One of the more general comments in his Chicago speech pointed out that it requires "no argument to convince the larger part of our people of the moral force of the laws against murder, assault, robbery, theft and other fundamental enactments for the protection of life, liberty and property." As far as prohibition is concerned, the inference is plain and no doubt Mr. Wickersham knows it to be plain. Prohibition is not enforced over a large part of the country simply because there is no public opinion to support it. It is Mr. Wickersham's chief handicap, in dealing effectively with prohibition in his speeches, that he scores his major points by inference and devotes his direct discussion of the problem to unimportant details.

On the day following Mr. Wickersham's speech Chief Justice Hughes discussed "the sacred power of the states" in an address before the same convention of the Bar association:

"However difficult it may be in constitutional interpretation to maintain perfectly, and to the satisfaction of all, this balance between state and nation, it is of the essence of American institutions that it should be preserved so far as human wisdom makes this possible, and that encroachments upon state authority, however contrived, should be resisted with the same intelligent determination as that which demands that the national authority should be fully exercised to meet national needs."

In his rôle as Chief Justice Mr. Hughes can scarcely be expected to discuss prohibition in so many words. But surely, without direct reference to that question, this portion of his address furnishes the real explanation of failure of the government to enforce the law and a clear indication of the right method of redeeming a situation which is steadily becoming worse. That method is not to tinker with the courts but to take the problem of prohibition out of the hands of the federal government and restore it to the states.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS.

The employer called his secretary.

"Here, John, look at this letter. I can't make out whether it's from my tailor or my lawyer. They're both named Smith."

And this is what John read: "I have begun your suit. Ready to be tried on Thursday. Smith."—Capper's Weekly.

FINGER INFECTIONS.

THE most frequent location of infections of the last finger joint is around the nail. Those who want to charge the memory with hard words call this paronychia. When a hangnail has resulted in an infection the best plan of procedure is to clean the nail and the tip of the finger with soap and water and, after drying, to paint on a mixture of alcohol and glycerin, equal parts.

Gauze saturated with this mixture is wrapped around the infected nail. The hand is kept elevated as much as possible. Poultices and hot boracic acid dressings make the pain worse and cause the infection to spread. If pus forms alongside the nail the area should be opened and the pus allowed to drain away, else it may get under the nail and cause added trouble.

If the suppuration has involved the nailbed and the process tends to hold on it may be necessary to remove part or all of the nail to stop the suppurative process. The loosened nail, left in place, may continue the suppuration just as dead bone prolongs it in white swelling.

Blood under the nail, resulting from injury, should be drained away promptly, else it will hold the nail away from its bed and cause it to drop off eventually. To do this bore one or more holes through the nail to the blood. This can be done with a needle or any other sharp instrument. It is a painless process and an entirely safe procedure. Sucking, either with the mouth or some device, helps to remove the blood. The nailbed is tight quarters. On one side is the unyielding nail; on the other, bone and firm tissue. Blood in this location is very liable to split the nail away from its bed. Since boring down and letting the fluid out is so painless and so harmless, one should act on suspicion rather than wait conservatively.

When a nail is being lost there may be some question as to when the old tissue should be cut or pulled away. It should be left in position as long as possible, or at least until it will come away without pain or bleeding. The old nail protects the new nail and the nailbed. The new nail will come in smoother and more normal in appearance if it has the protection of the old nail as it grows. During the period of change it is well to wear a protective "stall" on the finger. This need not be medicated. Its only purpose is to furnish protection.

KEEP WATCH ON FOOD.

J. O. S. writes: I am 43 years old and about half an hour after eating I break out over the body in hives, especially on the hands and arms. My hands puff up and itch greatly, and at times I wake up with a puffed-up and very itchy lip.

What can this be, and is there a cure?

REPLY.

You are eating some food to which you have been sensitized. Stick to those foods that do not harm you and receive your reward.

HOT WEATHER BUTTERMILK.

F. J. R. writes: What are the advantages of drinking buttermilk in hot weather?

REPLY.

Owing to the effects of heat on the sympathetic nerves, the digestive juices work at low efficiency in summer time. Buttermilk is acid in reaction and therefore more easily digested than sweet milk. It contains less fat than sweet milk, which is another advantage in hot weather.

SPELLS OF THE IN-LAWS.

J. M. writes: My wife's mother and sister, the latter 30 years of age, are subject to some sort of spells. My wife does not have them. It seems if they get angry or things don't go just the way they plan, they throw themselves on the floor and keep banging their heads on the floor for about five minutes. Then they get up and start talking very loud, and keep that up continuously for about an hour and a half. It has my wife and me worried.

REPLY.

What are they trying to put over?

DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a half interest in the contracting and remodeling business, the lease being for five years, paid in advance, and have a contract to that effect. It develops that my partner gets contracts and does not turn them in. What can I do about it if anything?

G. B. H.

The ordinary course for a dissatisfied partner is to employ an attorney to file a bill to dissolve the partnership. The assets would be sold and the proceeds distributed.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIFE INTEREST IN PROPERTY.

River Forest, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In a will the testator has bequeathed all his property to his wife and appointed her sole executrix, decreeing that his wife shall hold all property during her lifetime, and is to receive all revenues accruing from the estate; another provision directs that after the death of his wife the estate is to be divided equally between two sons, the two sons being appointed executors of the estate after the demise of the wife. Is it legal for the testator to name his wife an executrix and in the same will appoint his sons as executors of the estate after her decease?

A. H. M.

Presumably the context is such as to show that what he had in mind was that the sons were to act as trustees, which would not be unusual. We cannot advise to advantage without having the full wording of the will before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SIX MONTHS' GRACE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—I received my first papers of naturalization in 1928 and am now eligible for final papers. Due to delay in presenting application I will not be granted full naturalization this fall and must wait until spring term of court. Could I, being a native Canadian, spend a few days in Canada during vacation without affecting granting of final papers?

A. B. C.

Under the naturalization law an alien may be absent from the United States for the purpose of a visit for a period of six months without affecting his residence in the United States.

E. L. BOETTER,

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AGAIN GREETINGS.

THIS is Station Wake-Line, broadcasting from a studio on the fourth floor of Tribune Tower. Before starting our daily program, friends, may we say a few words in explanation? That time has come in the normal course of events when vacation period reaches out and clutches R. H. L., Colonel Shelby, and the family bus. Already this trio is en route through the Appalachians, Blue Ridge, and Smoky mountains to points east and south.

In like situations of the past there has been fusion of the Wake with the Line. That again is the order of procedure during the interregnum. Of course, the Line will not, indeed could not, be conducted as R. H. L. would conduct it. We do not ask or expect Line followers to like it as well. Please remember, however, that our effort is to pinch hit for this column's proprietor as best we may, and that we have fondness, perhaps preference, for our own little niche back among friends who have known us for many years.

So, Line followers and such Wake readers as find their way to this dignified page of erudition and information, let's have a comfortable and friendly time. It will be our purpose to give you a little larger share of the space. There also will be, perhaps, more sporting comment than you are accustomed to, probably more than you want. If so, it's because we hope to retain our Wake readers anent the time we return home. But the whole point of this preface is—let's have this annual reunion of Liners and Wakers a good-natured, homey affair, since it gives R. H. L. his vacation, and let's not be hypercritical of one another. Thank you; we now proceed with our program.

SONNET OF A TROUBADOUR.

What matters it if we shall never meet
As lovers in a garden filled with rose,
To fling aside this unbecoming pose
And taste the everlasting and the sweet;
To kiss and dream away the hours fleet,
To muse across the world and over those
That are alone for having unwisely chose
The empty haunts of some forgotten street?
It is the thought that moves us ever on
And moulds a courage of our hearts, and we
Whisper of love and love's futility
As of a charm that is not meant to break
Whatever else may come and soon be gone

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 1, 1914.

LONDON. — The censorship is clamped down on news from the battle fields more completely than at any time, which is taken to confirm rumors that the great battle, decisive of the fate of Paris, is in progress. Undoubtedly warfare is being waged along the whole defensive front of the allies. It is likely that the chief German attack is being waged in the neighborhood of La Fere, 75 miles northeast of Paris. It is reported that the kaiser has set tomorrow, the anniversary of the French surrender at Sedan, as the date for the German arrival at the Paris outer fortifications.

PARIS. — As a precaution against the German raiding airplanes all the electric lights in the Champs-Elysées and on the boulevards have been extinguished.

LONDON.—The German newspapers are carrying accounts of great and widespread victories over the British forces. It is claimed that many thousands of Englishmen were taken prisoners.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An appeal for American sympathy for the Germans and the charge that Russia, abetted by Great Britain, precipitated the conflict from motives of national greed and jealousy are the features of a statement by Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, made public today.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Wilson will be a candidate for a second term. Definite information that he has expressed himself as believing it the duty of a chief executive to submit his administration to the people was obtained by THE TRIBUNE.

ROME.—Cardinal della Volpe, papal chamberlain, closed the inside door of the conclave hall in which the college of cardinals is gathered to select a successor to the late Pope Pius. Not until a new pope is chosen will the doors be opened.

CHICAGO.—The steamship City of Chicago was towed into the mouth of the river a mass of flames. It is not known if there has been loss of life.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 1, 1900.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Shanghai says: "Li Hung Chang, when asked for an expression of his views on the Russo-American proposal, gave the following signed statement: 'The withdrawal of foreign troops from Peking would facilitate negotiations. No doubt need be entertained that I shall undertake vigorously to restore order, protect foreigners, and suppress Boxers.'" The statement that England is one of the five powers agreeing to the proposal is regarded as premature.

CHICAGO.—A lieutenant of police, a sergeant, and forty-one patrolmen were suspended from the force for nonpayment of debt.

CHICAGO. — Michael C. Hickey, once chief of police and one of Chicago's old residents, died at his residence, 3010 Calumet avenue.

VIENNA.—Abdul Hamid II., sultan of Turkey, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ascendancy to the throne, and the event is made the subject for an unusually complimentary editorial in the official Wiener Zeitung.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 1, 1865.

WASHINGTON. — The government hospital buildings here are being disposed of at auction prices far below their actual value. Frame buildings 16 by 30 feet which cost the government three or four hundred dollars were knocked down as low as forty dollars.

FORTRESS MONROE.—Jeff Davis, Mr. Clay, and John Mitchell still live at the expense of Uncle Sam, and live well. Each occupies the same casemate allotted him on his entry here.

CHICAGO.—The second great event in the trio of celebrated gatherings connected with the opening of our new Board of Trade rooms came off last evening with great éclat—the banquet, a magnificent spread of the vastest proportions and most superbly arranged details. It was the banquet of Chicago, such a one as we have never had before in our city.

ST. PAUL.—The Minnesota Central railroad advertises the opening of its line from Mendota to Northfield, a distance of thirty miles, on next Monday.

THE WISCONSIN GASOLINE TAX.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 22.—I have read that the associations of commerce here as well as in other Wisconsin cities have voted in favor of bigger and better taxes on gasoline. Wisconsin now has a two cent per gallon tax and last year raised $7,500,000. State Treasurer Sol Levitan has estimated that the two cent tax will raise between $8,500,000 and $9,000,000 this year, and oil dealers say it will raise $10,000,000 in 1931.

The associations of commerce cast their vote without great deliberation or else they have little contact with the man who has to consider the cost and to whom his family automobile usually represents his one form of domestic indulgence.

Taxes in one form or another on motorists have become so onerous that I believe many cars are laid up unused this year. In Wisconsin there is first a state license, which must be paid for the inherent privilege of using the public roads; a good stiff personal property tax on all automobiles, and a two cent tax per gallon on gasoline. Now that goes so good they want to increase the gasoline tax.

Members of the state legislature before they vote more taxes on the automobile driver will find there is a different sentiment among automobile owners than that expressed by the associations of commerce. J. W. M.

A CRIPPLED PUPPY.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—About two weeks ago I drove into a forest preserve near Belmont avenue on the River road, which I doubt is frequented often on account of a sharp drop from the road. As we stopped a pretty, long haired brown puppy came to meet us, limping badly and half starved. I could not make myself leave him, so took him with me into the city to the Anti-Cruelty society. It was found his leg was broken and had been for several days, and infection likely to set in soon, so he was put to sleep. He could not possibly have gotten to such a place by himself and no doubt was left there by some inhuman being to suffer and starve to death.

Every one must know of the Anti-Cruelty society. How much kinder to take their unwanted dogs there rather than abandon them in lonely spots or drop them from automobiles in the downtown streets as has also been done. J.

LEGAL DELAY.

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 21.—I wonder how many thousands follow the case of the lamented Peoples State Bank of Maywood. According to the statements of daily papers, there is approximately $177,000 missing and still the case against the banker is being continued. I am one of the lucky ones who thought it wise to look out for a rainy day; that is, I put $800 in a savings account. Every additional month of continuance means $400 disbursement for the rent of the bank building each month going out of our deposits, which, of course, makes our chances of getting our money very small. I thought it wise to deposit my money with a state bank which should be under state supervision. JOSEPH WOJTA.

PAYMENT TO LA SALLE STREET OWNERS.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—On or about July 10 the city sold a bond issue to take care of the seized property on La Salle street. At that time the property owners were advised that funds would be available on or about July 15 and were requested to immediately cut their buildings in accordance with the new street line in order that this work might be completed by Aug. 1. Also, that they would receive their money as soon as the buildings were cut back to the new building line. This would then enable them to proceed with the rebuilding. Most of the property owners went loyally about it, letting contracts and immediately proceeding with the work.

It then became known that two or three people had not agreed to the award and that the entire funds were tied up, which caused no end of embarrassment, damages and extra expenses, in some cases practically driving people to pawnshops. This has also caused cessation of the work in some instances where the property owners could not raise sufficient funds to proceed, nor were the contractors able to carry the load.

For a period of three or four weeks they were given to understand that settlement was only a day or two away, which caused many owners and contractors to go ahead. After five weeks of patient waiting, short, sharp answers are coming to the effect that there will be an additional delay of six weeks [while the negotiators take trips, vacations, etc.].

Have the property owners no redress? Should they not be reimbursed for damages and extra expenses? Personally, I feel they are entitled to some consideration, but up to the present little has been shown them from some of the departments. Is there not some one red blooded enough to call all sides together—get them in a room—throw the key away and settle this matter?

G. A. TASKER.

A WARNING TO CHILDREN.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—I have just read the article in THE TRIBUNE about the little girl being kidnaped and murdered in South Bend, Ind., and we will all agree that this is the most dreadful thing that could happen to a child. Being a mother of a girl the same age I am very much concerned. Children must be warned repeatedly and I am wondering if the teachers in school warn the children against speaking to strangers on the street. Possibly they do and I am only thinking that without a doubt children will pay a little more attention to what the teacher may tell them than to the parents; at least it makes a deeper impression on their minds.

FISHING IN THE PARK.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—After the storm in the lake last winter the pier at 54th street was all broken up. When the boats started between Jackson park and Navy pier, it was wired off. Now we keep up a golf course, a horse track, and a beach. Why not fix up the pier and give us fellows a chance to fish who can't go 300 miles away to enjoy our sport? FISH FAN.

HURLEY STARTS INSPECTION TOUR OF MISSISSIPPI

Engineers Study Waterway, Lake Diversion.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Here, at the upper reaches of the Mississippi, Secretary of War Hurley today assembled a party of experts for an expedition down the sprawling river artery which winds for 2,500 miles through the richest area in the United States.

The mysteries and the eccentricities of the Mississippi are to be studied as never before. The conditions which have brought this natural highway of the middle west to its present plight are to be scanned by engineers. The once mighty river, a restless, surging volume of water sweeping grandly to the gulf, has become a slowly moving, sand bar choked stream, barely navigable in places. Secretary Hurley intends to find out why.

Here is a project close to the interests of the entire Mississippi river basin with its 54 per cent of the population of the United States. A region which produces more than two-thirds of the country's total exportable products wants to know the transportation possibility of the great channel which bisects it.

Famed in Song and Story.

Such a study as this one contemplated never has been made before. The Mississippi, famed in song and story, called by Mark Twain the most remarkable, peculiar, eccentric, and noble river in the world, with its terrifying floods in the spring, its sudden rises and falls, shifts, and turns, is for the first time to be given a scientific scrutiny by a cabinet officer and a retinue of engineers with the benefit of the surrounding territory in mind. Secretary Hurley hopes for a solution of many problems connected with the great and mysterious river which have puzzled the minds of men for a century.

In the party are Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chairman of the board of the inland waterways corporation, which operates the Mississippi barge line. They, with their assistants, will study the inland waterways, rivers, and harbors enterprises and flood controls works which are inseparably bound up with the Mississippi river throughout its length.

The expedition will be made by government boat. At various points, army planes will be used to enable Secretary Hurley and his companions to obtain a comprehensive view of the many projects along the route. Stops will be made at certain cities where construction work is going on. The entire trip is expected to last three weeks.

Effects of Lake Diversion.

One of the most important subjects scheduled for study will be the great lakes to gulf waterway. The effect of diversion from Lake Michigan through the Chicago and Illinois rivers and into the Mississippi will be noted when the expedition reaches Grafton, Ill., where the Illinois empties into the Mississippi.

An examination will be made of the damage which might result from the restriction of diversion from the lake. At the beginning the development of the upper Mississippi to a nine foot depth will be the major topic of interest. Secretary Hurley made it clear to business men here he is in favor of the development, but he used the qualifying term, "ultimate," thus affording some disappointment to shippers who had argue that the work should be done at once.

"I cannot precede the final plans of the engineers nor the direction of congress and the appropriation of funds," he pointed out.

Plans to Relieve Unemployment.

The report of the engineers is expected to be made shortly after the convening of congress in December. A more definite statement of administration policies concerning the upper river development is expected from Secretary Hurley at a luncheon tomorrow, following which he will leave on the river trip. The secretary has with him a large number of maps and a mass of data on possibilities of relieving unemployment in such places where projects may be speeded up.

Gigantic nature of the flood control work, alone furnishes an idea of the importance of the river to America. It is the largest project in which the government now is engaged. The cost is about $320,000,000, and twice as much excavation work must be done as was necessary for construction of the Panama canal.

U. S. WIDOW, HELD AS AIR SPY, IS ON HUNGER STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Aug. 31.—Reiterating former statements of her innocence of ever having possession of official secret documents of the Cuban military air forces and branding the whole affair as a conspiracy of Lieut. Carlos Torres de Navarra and several former friends of her dead husband, Martha B. Lane Morlote, a daughter of Roy G. Lane of Long Meadow, Mass., spent today in a self-imposed hunger strike in the Marianao city jail.

"I believe the whole affair is a plot by Navarra and Salcines Marlote, cousin of my late husband, a Cuban army aviator, to prevent me from receiving a pension of $90 a month which helps to support me and my infant daughter," she said. "I never had any official army documents in my possession. I remember my husband used to keep these at home, but do not recall what they dealt with, except that he took great care of them.

"Soon after the accident at Alacranes airport, where my husband was killed, Lieut. Murtall of the aviation corps sent Private Luis Marti to get whatever official papers there were in my home, and I turned all the documents over to Marti. The charges that I spied on the government and that negotiations were under way to sell the military code to the governments of the United States and Colombia are absolutely false."

MISSISSIPPI, ILLINOIS RIVERS CONTINUE TO FALL; PERIL TRAFFIC

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The Mississippi river continues to fall and this morning reached the lowest stage for a long time when six-tenths above low water mark was registered. The river is from one-fourth to a half mile in width and huge sand bars and wing dams are visible everywhere.

Old river men here say the river never has been so low for so long a period. The river above Davenport registers the lowest mark in seventy years.

Could Get to Moline Docks.

At Moline last week four barge loads of farm implements were refused because the barges could not get to the Moline docks. This hasn't happened for more than a century.

Steamboats and barges continue to run, but they must weave back and forth across the river to avoid sand bars and shoals.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

St. Paul	1.1	Alton	2.8
La Crosse	.5	St. Louis	2.6
Dubuque	1.4	Steelville	.6
Keokuk	.3	Pacific	.3

Points Way for Social Readjustment.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—In an address tonight before the Parish Art museum at Southampton, Long Island, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, declared that existing social and economic order cannot ignore the challenge of communism and can meet that challenge only by promoting such a readjustment as will secure the rights of both the individual and the mass of the people.

Only by a revolution of liberal doctrine, in the light of modern economic conditions, a revaluation which must embody, to some the Socialist point of view, can the challenge of communism be met successfully, Dr. Butler asserted, as he pleaded for a tolerant and enlightened approach to th question.

World at Turning Point.

According to Dr. Butler the world has again come to a great turning point, when humanity is being compelled to reconsider the question which from the beginning of history constituted the very heart of the problem of political and social progress—the question of the rights of the one and the many.

That question, as it now confronts humanity, Dr. Butler said, cannot be solved either by pursuing the classic policy of extreme individualism or adopting the communist program of rigid collectivism. The solution, he indicated, lies somewhere between the two.

Would Avoid Extremes.

In seeking to avoid extremes, Dr. Butler declared, the liberal should enlist the aid of the social mindedness which marks socialism as distinguished from communism. The liberal, he said, "need not accept the Socialist doctrine in whole or even in any large part, but he will strengthen his case against the communist immeasurably if he accepts and acts upon the Socialist point of view.

The challenge presented to capitalism by "the colossal experiment which is going forward in Russia" requires above all a tolerant and broad minded approach, said Dr. Butler. He blamed the difficulty in securing a fair hearing for the Russian experiment upon soviet Russia's "own intolerance, cruelty, and well nigh unparalleled fanaticism," and warned the communists that communism is doomed unless it desists from violence and international agitation.

BUYS A CONE FOR BABY, POISON FOR SELF; NEAR DEATH

As Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edwards of Northfield, west of Winnetka, were motoring yesterday in Ridge road, Wilmette, their 2 year old daughter, Bonnie, asked for an ice cream cone. Mrs. Edwards went into the corner drug store and bought one. Unknown to her husband, she also bought a 2 ounce vial of poison.

Arrived home, Edwards, who manages a radio store at 1939 Central street, Evanston, drove around to the alley to put the car away. When he returned to the house Mrs. Edwards was lying on the kitchen floor, unconscious, having swallowed the poison. Beside her was a note reading, "Please forgive me. I love both you and Bonnie."

Official of Irish Republic Association Holdup Victim

William P. Lyndon, 1106 Winona street, secretary-treasurer of the Association of the Irish Republic, lost $60 but saved $400 from two gunmen who held him up at Archer avenue and Leo street early this morning as he was returning home in a taxicab from the association's weekly dance at Gaelic park, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Lyndon passed a sack containing $60 in silver through the cab window when the robbers drew alongside and displayed pistols. The bandits vanished without disturbing the $400 in bills which he had thrust behind on the seat.

Youth Confesses Robbing Church's Poor Box Twice

Arrested yesterday for robbing the poor box of the Sacred Heart church of Winnetka of $13.65, Sidney Larson, 19 years old, 1124 Wilson avenue, not only confessed the theft, but said he had robbed the same box on Aug. 21, and had served 11 months in the Pontiac reformatory for a similar offense.

AIR WARFARE HAS BIG INFLUENCE IN NEW NAVY DESIGN

Radical Changes Asked for New Cruisers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Preliminary studies by the naval experts responsible for the designing and formulation of the half billion dollar navy construction program slated for introduction in congress this winter reveal that fall styles in fighting ships will be dominated by the air to an extent hitherto undreamed of except by the aviation enthusiasts.

Radical changes in the design and appearance of the traditional surface ship are in prospect if Secretary of the Navy Charles Frannis Adams, his bureau chiefs and the admirals of the navy general board listen to the advice of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics and other proponents of a greater dependence on the aerial offensive arm.

New Idea For Cruisers.

Designs already prepared would add a new revolutionary type to the 6 inch gun cruiser class as now embodied in the navies of the world, supply wings to the destroyer leader, sacrifice some of the speed and air vulnerability of the latest designed 8 inch gun 10,000 ton cruisers for an increased air offense and possibly add airplanes to the fighting equipment of the submarine.

Adoption of the most radical of these designs would add wings to virtually every ship of the fleet and force a radical change in the tactical use of the light forces of the American navy. Built up to the full treaty strength, the fleet would have seven aircraft carriers, eight hybrid cruisers carrying from fifteen to thirty planes each, eighteen 8 inch gun cruisers with from 4 to 6 planes each, ten 6 inch gun cruisers with two airplanes each as well as a number of planes on the destroyer leaders and possibly on destroyers and submarines.

Navy Officials in Doubt.

The highest naval officers admittedly are "up in the air" as to whether ships in which aviation is utilized to the greatest possible extent will be better able to win battles in the future than vessels of traditional American design in which offensive power and ability to take punishment are dominant characteristics.

New designs thus far have been prepared or are under preparation for three major types of ships. Types are:

[1] The new mystery hybrid six inch gun cruiser which is to be partly cruiser and partly aircraft carrier. As now designed, this ship would have its guns concentrated on the forward third of the vessel, while airplanes would utilize the other two-thirds. This vessel would weigh 10,000 tons and carry probably from eighteen to twenty-four airplanes, six to nine 6 inch guns, have the stacks and masts erected on one side as is done on the giant aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, and have a speed above thirty-three knots. One-third of it would look like an ordinary cruiser, two-thirds would have a flush deck like an ordinary aircraft carrier. Some armor would be placed on the sides, and gun turrets and machinery would be protected.

Planes for Destroyer Leader.

[2] The destroyer leader. The big question is whether this vessel should come equipped with a catapult and airplanes, or whether it should be an all-surface craft. The new designs call for two planes, 1,850 tons displacement, the maximum allowed by the treaty; four or six 5 inch guns, and a speed slightly in excess of the 36 knots.

[3] The submarine. Shall the submarine carry a tank from which an airplane may be launched? What size shall these vessels be? Indications are that no planes will be installed on the average sub.

The designs for the new 6 inch gun cruisers without landing decks also will be dominated more than ever before by the air. They will have catapults and probably twice the number of airplanes carried by the Omaha 7050 six inch gun cruisers now in commission.

The design for the latest model 8 inch gun cruisers has been greatly altered to increase aerial offensive power. Appearance and to some degree speed has been sacrificed to include an airplane hangar. More planes will be carried.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Rain which has continued almost without interruption for the last month and which was particularly heavy during the last week has brought all interior Alaska rivers to the flood stage. The Chena slough has inundated the lower section of Fairbanks.

SENATE CAMPAIGN FUND QUIZ TO BE RESUMED SEPT. 15

Dale and Investigators Arrive in City.

Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, member of the senate campaign funds investigating committee, accompanied by the committee's chief investigators, W. H. Baldwin and E. M. Daniel, came to Chicago yesterday from Fargo, N. D., to begin preparations for resuming the inquiry into the Illinois senatorial race.

The committee intends to reopen its hearings here on Sept. 15. In the meantime Mr. Daniel and Mr. Baldwin are detailed to the task of rounding up witnesses and obtaining any additional evidence available.

Senator Nye Due Later.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, stopped off in northern Minnesota, but is expected to join his colleagues here by Tuesday or Wednesday. Mr. Baldwin said Senator Nye would go on to Washington, returning later to preside at the hearings.

According to Mr. Baldwin, no definite plan has been made concerning the prosecution of a separate inquiry into disclosures that private operatives have been investigating the history and activities of Senator Nye, as made known Saturday in Fargo. Mr. Baldwin said the committee of course was anxious to learn everything possible about the sponsors and purposes of the private inquiry.

Operative Is Questioned.

It was revealed in Fargo that operatives of the Dannenberg detective agency of Chicago had been active in Fargo and elsewhere, seeking information concerning Senator Nye. The committee, learning of the agency's activities, summoned C. C. Alberts, one of its operatives, who said the inquiry had been under way for four weeks, but that he was unable to tell who sponsored it or why.

Before departing from Fargo Senator Dale said that the committee intends to find out why Senator Nye was being investigated.

POLICE FIRE ON MOB IN BOMBAY; WOUND RIOTERS

BOMBAY, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Police fired on a mob of riotious workers opposite the new city Bombay mille today, injuring several. The disturbance started when a number of employés from other mills gathered at the new city mills, which have been working, and urged the operatives to cease work. When they refused the crowd pelted the mill with stones. The police charged the crowd with lathis and then opened fire, quelling the disturbance.

A massmeeting of congress volunteers and sympathizers on the Esplanade Maiden to salute the Nationalist flag passed without incident.

E. J. Lowman, acting inspector general of police, died as the result of shots fired by a Bengali youth at Dacca Friday. E. Hodson, superintendent of police, was seriously wounded at the same time.

SLAYING WOMAN BY TORCH IS LAID TO EXTORTIONIST

Reed City, Ill., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Tranquita Rinaldo, 32, blinded with acid and then burned to death last night by an unidentified assailant who escaped, is believed by police to have been a victim of extortionists.

The woman was able to give only a meager description of her assailant before she died. The man, who she said was about 40 years old, sprang out at her from a clump of bushes as she walked along a lonely road near her farm home here and discharged acid from a squirt gun into her eyes.

Sheriff Ernest Fleming, who advanced the extortionist theory, said the Rinaldos, thrifty farmers, had received a number of threatening letters demanding money.

"The couple came to me with the first of a series of extortion letters a year ago," he said. "About six months ago they received another letter commanding them to deliver the money at night at a lonely spot near Pekin."

Chief of Police Shoots It Out with Man; Both Killed

Barbourville, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP)—G. T. Lockhart, chief of police, and Pete Goodin, carpenter, killed each other in a pistol fight. The police chief was called to quell a disturbance. As he stepped from his automobile, Goodin fired, hitting Lockhart in the heart. But as he fell, Lockhart fired at Goodin, the bullet entering the carpenter's head.

SEALER BRINGS DEAD EXPLORERS OUT OF ARCTIC

Hunted Ship Reaches Norway; Fights Fog.

TROMSOE, Norway, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The sealer Bratvaag, which has aboard the bodies of three aeronauts who perished in the polar regions 33 years ago, nosed out of her hiding place in the arctic fogs this afternoon and put in at Hasvick, on the Finnarken coast.

From here Dr. Gunnar Horn, who found the remnants of the first expedition made toward the north pole in a balloon, was able to communicate by wire with Tromsoe and sent the following message:

"I heard for the first time yesterday that I was ordered back. The bodies of Andree, Strindberg, and Frankel are well preserved. We are now heading toward Tromsoe."

Stops 15 Minutes.

According to dispatches from Oslo the Bratvaag stopped at Hasvick only fifteen minutes to telegraph the authorities of her return. It was stated that Dr. Horn had not had time to make an official report of the discovery. The Bratvaag saw none of the ships which were hunting it.

Later a telegram was received from an official in Hasvick saying:

"The Bratvaag arrived at Hasvick at 2:30 p. m. [8 a. m. Chicago time]. It was met by several boats and cleared at 4:20 for Tromsoe, expecting to be there in 10 or 11 hours."

Later dispatches reported the Bratvaag had put into the harbor of Skjaer Island at midnight [6 p. m. Chicago time] instead of proceeding to Tromsoe.

These brief messages are all that Norway thus far has received about this little ship, which for many days has been carrying in the polar wastes one of the greatest exploration epics of all time.

With word of the Bratvaag's return toward civilization there began a wild race for news and pictures such as journalism rarely has seen before. By airplane and ship, reporters and photographers of many nations prepared to head out into the Arctic and meet the Bratvaag, each intent on being the first to obtain the great story of the Andree expedition's fate and of Dr. Horn's discovery of the bodies and equipment buried in the ice of White island.

Sealers Put Out to Sea.

Two other airplanes were here with newspaper parties ready to take off when the ship drew near. In addition several sealers put out with newsgatherers and cameramen.

Several Swedish and Norwegian scientists were here tonight to take charge of the preservation of the bodies after they reach port. They are equipped with refrigerating equipment and may embalm the bodies here.

Ebbe Andree, brother of the dead explorer, Salomon August Andree, and Tore Strindberg, a sculptor, who is the brother of Nils Strindberg, another victim of the Andree expedition, arrived from Sweden today to represent their families.

Scientists here expressed the hope that Andree's diary and log will still be legible. They say these frozen records present a great problem and they must experiment before learning if the written evidence can be reproduced.

'BAD JOHN,' FIERY FEUDIST OF OLD, IS NEAR DEATH

Warrior's Son Slain as He Lies Dying.

Whitesburg, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP)—"Bad John" Wright, former feudist who, in later years was revered as an intrepid mountain peace officer, lay at the point of death today at his home in Wise county, Virginia, near the Kentucky border, unaware that his son, Sam, had met violent death yesterday in Pike county, Kentucky.

"Bad John" earned his sobriquet by killing more than thirty men while he served in various positions of authority in the border counties of Virginia and Kentucky. All his killings were "within the law," his friends hasten to tell casual questioners, safe in the knowledge that the events of the famed Wright-Jones feud of forty years ago have long since been forgotten.

Made Character in Novel.

The famed border patrolman, whose age is variously estimated between 87 and 96 years, was an intimate friend of John Fox Jr., novelist, and furnished the author with much material for his books dealing with mountain life. "Devil Jack Tolliver," one of the characters in the Fox novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was a prototype of John Wright.

"Bad John" in later years became more familiarly known as "Uncle John" and had friends without number in Letcher and Pike counties, Kentucky, and Wise county, Virginia, and other mountain sections who were learning today, as the news slowly spread, that the courageous veteran of many a man hunt was on his death bed.

Served as Enforcer of Law.

Their hero was sometimes called, poetically, "the Tall Sycamore of the Elkhorn," because of his gigantic stature and his residence near Elkhorn creek, one of the many mountain streams. Until several days ago, when he was stricken ill, "Bad John" was active as a deputy sheriff of Wise county.

The officer was a deadly enemy of "Devil Anse" Hatfield, principal in the mountain's famous feud between the Hatfields and McCoys. "Bad John" was never able to capture "Devil Anse," who died with his boots off in ripe old age.

Kills Slayer of Feudist's Son.

MOSCOW AIDS REDS OF CHINA TO BUY REVOLT GUNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—A Japanese report here claims that it has definitely been established that the communist armies in China recently received heavy financial assistance from Moscow with which they purchased munitions from the Hunan forces of Gen. Ho Chien, who is alleged to be in open sympathy with the Reds, although supposed to be defending Changsha from them. The report also says that the Chinese Reds plan nation wide disturbances in September in order to prevent Gen. Chiang Kai-shek defeating Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's northern rebels.

Thousands of refugees from Hunan and Kiangsi provinces continue to flock to Hankow where foreign gunboats are concentrating owing to the new communist advance. The communist forces, 20,000 strong, are reported to be seven miles from Changsha, and its second attack appears to be imminent.

The Nationalist government dispatched a fresh body of troops from Hankow today to Changsha in order to replace the Ho Chien forces which are no longer dependable. The Japanese chargé d'affaires reported today that he had closed the Japanese consulate at Changsha, thus imitating similar action recently by the Americans and the British.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Dr. Clement is the vicar of a country village in England. His attractive wife, Griselda, is twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Dr. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Julia, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be back. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The latter says the vicar had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each other's arms and they had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel sprawling across the desk, shot through the head, murdered apparently, as no weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is found, 6:30. A clock overturned when the colonel fell forward stopped at 6:22, but it had been kept a quarter of an hour fast.

Lawrence Redding confesses he murdered Col. Protheroe. Shortly after Mrs. Protheroe tells Col. Melchett, the chief constable of the county, that she shot her husband.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

AN EAGER WITNESS.

Col. Melchett said gently:

"My dear Mrs. Protheroe——"

"Oh it's quite true. I suppose I've said it rather bluntly, but I never can go into hysterics over anything. I've hated him for a long time and yesterday I killed him."

She lay back on the pillows and closed her eyes.

"That's all. I suppose you'll arrest me and take me away. I'll get up and dress as soon as I can. At the moment I am feeling rather sick."

"Are you aware, Mrs. Protheroe, that Mr. Lawrence Redding has already assumed himself of committing the crime?"

Anne opened her eyes and nodded brightly.

"I know. Silly boy. He's very much in love with me, you know. It was frightfully noble of him—but very silly."

"He knew that it was you who had committed the crime?"

"Yes."

"How did he know?"

She hesitated.

"Did you tell him?"

Still she hesitated. Then at last she seemed to make up her mind.

"Yes—I told him. . ."

She twitched her shoulders with a movement of irritation.

"Can't you go away now? I've told you. I don't want to talk about it any more."

"Where did you get the pistol, Mrs. Protheroe?"

"The pistol? Oh it was my husband's. I got it out of the drawer of his writing table."

"I see. And you took it with you to the vicarage?"

"Do you know whether your late master kept a pistol anywhere?"

"Yes. I knew he would be there."

"What time was this?"

"It must have been after six—quarter—twenty past—something like that."

"You took the pistol meaning to shoot your husband?"

"No—I—I meant it for myself."

"I see. But you went to the vicarage?"

"Yes. I went along to the window. There were no voices. I looked in. I saw my husband. Something came over me—and I fired."

"And then?"

"Then? Oh then I went away."

"And told Mr. Redding what you had done?"

Again I noticed the hesitation in her voice before she said "yes."

"Did anybody see you entering or leaving the vicarage?"

"No—at least, yes. Old Miss Marple. I talked to her a few minutes. She was in her garden."

She moved restlessly on the pillows.

"Isn't that enough? I've told you. Why do you want to go on bothering?"

Dr. Haydock moved to her side and felt her pulse.

He beckoned to Melchett.

"I'll stay with her," he said in a whisper, "whilst you make the necessary arrangements. She oughtn't to be left. Might do herself a mischief."

Melchett nodded.

We left the room and descended the stairs. I saw a thin, cadaverous looking man come out of the adjoining room and on impulse I remounted the stairs.

"Are you Col. Protheroe's valet?"

The man looked surprised.

"Yes, sir."

"Do you know whether your late master kept a pistol anywhere?"

"Not that I know of, sir."

The valet shook his head decisively.

"I'm quite sure he didn't, sir. I'd have seen it if so. Bound to."

I hurried down the stairs after the others.

Mrs. Protheroe had lied about the pistol.

Why?

After leaving a message at the police station, the chief constable announced his intention of paying a visit to Miss Marple.

"You'd better come with me, vicar," he said. "I don't want to give a shock to one of your flock hysterics. So lend the weight of your soothing presence."

I smiled. For all her fragile appearance Miss Marple is capable of holding her own with any policeman or chief constable in existence.

"What's she like?" asked the colonel as we rang the bell. "Anything one's going to be depended upon or otherwise?"

I considered the matter.

"I think she is quite dependable," I said cautiously. "That is, in so far as she is talking of what she has actually seen. Beyond that, of course, when you put on to what she thinks—well, that is another matter. She has a powerful imagination and systematically thinks the worst of every one."

"The typical elderly spinster, in fact," said Melchett with a laugh. "Well, I ought to know the breed by now. Gad, the tea party's down here!"

We were admitted by a very diminutive maid and shown into a small sitting room.

"A bit crowded," said Col. Melchett, looking round. "But plenty of good chairs. A lady's room, eh, Clement?"

I agreed, and at that moment the door opened and Miss Marple made her appearance.

"I'm very sorry to bother you, Miss Marple," said the colonel when I had introduced him, putting on his bluff military manner which he had an idea was attractive to elderly ladies. "Got to do my duty, you know."

"Of course, of course," said Miss Marple. "I quite understand. Won't you sit down? And might I offer you a little glass of cherry brandy? My own making. A receipt of my grandmother's."

"Thank you very much, Miss Marple. Very kind of you. But I think I won't. Nothing till lunch time, that's my motto. Now, I want to talk to you about this sad business—very sad business indeed. Upset us all, I'm sure. But it seems possible that owing to the position of your house and garden you may be able to tell us something we want to know about yesterday evening."

"As a matter of fact, I was in my little garden from five o'clock onward practically, and, of course, from there—well, one simply cannot help seeing everything that is going on next door."

"I understand, Miss Marple, that Mrs. Protheroe passed this way yesterday evening?"

"Yes, she did. I called out to her, and she admired my roses."

"Could you tell us about what time that was?"

"I should say it was just a minute or two after a quarter past six. Yes, quite right. The church clock had just chimed the quarter."

"Very good. What happened next?"

"Well, Mrs. Protheroe said she was calling for her husband at the vicarage, so that they could go home together. She had come along the lane, you understand, and she went into the vicarage by the back gate and across the garden."

"She came from the lane?"

"Yes, I'll show you."

Full of eagerness, Miss Marple led us out into the garden and pointed out the lane that ran along by the bottom of her garden.

"The path opposite with the stile leads to the hall," she explained. "That is how they (?) were going home together. Mrs. Protheroe came from the village."

"Perfectly, perfectly," said Col. Melchett. "And she went across to the house. You say?"

Good Morning!

"Dixiana" is entertaining, despite forced dialogue and a meager story, because it boasts the champion funmakers, Wheeler and Woolsey; because Bebe Daniels, lovely and adept and singing delightfully with that rich, sympathetic voice of hers, is in it; because of the presence of other smooth mummers, headed by Joseph Cawthorne; because the color sequences are eye-alluring; because of some catchy tunes and gorgeous costumes.

The locale of the action is New Orleans and Bebe Daniels is Dixiana, one of a trio of hippodrome entertainers, the other two members being, of course, Messrs. Wheeler and Woolsey, known as Pee Wee and Ginger in the picture.

The son of a Dutch planter falls in love with Dixiana. So, in his way, does Montague, an unscrupulous gambler, sinisterly impersonated by Ralf Harolde, that slim, dark chap who has so thoroughly mastered the technique of the slinky eye that gazeth frankly and the evil intent that smells like roses. Dixiana, insulted in the home of her fiance, returns to New Orleans and, with her partners, accepts an engagement to work in the entertainment rooms of Montague's gambling palace. She is crowned queen of the Mardi Gras and, on the night of the crowning, Carl Van Horn, the man she loves, comes to play cards with Montague, who has lured him thither, with what designs the film shall show you.

And so on.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey are as funny as possible under existing conditions. You will regret one stupid, vulgar, and unnecessary incident in which they are featured, and the accompanying dialogue. The boys deserve better vehicles than "Dixiana" and that's the truth.

The picture is quite well directed, photographed, and recorded, and is guaranteed to make an idle hour pass pleasantly enough.

Manette Pachard	Lupe Velez
Dave Stewart	Paul Cavanagh
Burr Winton	William Boyd
Jacques Pachard	Alphons Ethier
Johnny	Ernie S. Adams

Storm in the mountains! Storm in the hearts of two men alone in a snow-bound cabin with the girl who has fired the emotions of both!

The men are friends tried and true when the picture opens. Dave Stewart, whose life Burr Winton has saved during the war, answers a call for help from his pal and comes to the Canadian mountain town from whence the call has come, with $5,000 which Winton must have by sundown of the day it arrives or lose his mine. He's been betting while drinking, you see.

Dave likes the country and decides to spend the winter with his friend in his cabin 'way up in the mountain fastnesses. The two men have settled down to a clubby male winter when—Manette arrives!

You'll love Lupe Velez as Manette. She's dear! Her portrayal of the naïve, childishly innocent and unspoiled French Canadian girl is clever and charming. It is the most natural characterization the pretty Mexican has brought to the screen, I think.

Alphons Ethier (always tickled to spot his name in a cast) does a good bit as the father of Manette. Then, alas, he dies—and there is Lupez alone with Messrs. Cavanagh and Boyd. This is not the blonde, sunshiny William Boyd. This is the dark chap who played Sergt. Quirt to such advantage in the stage production, "What Price Glory." Good actor. Looks like an actor, too. Paul Cavanagh as Dave qualifies. There's nothing striking about the work of either man, but they fit into the story and act as, quite possibly, they would were they, in real life, faced with this movie's problems.

Suspense is well maintained and direction, photography, and sound are splendid. The scenery? Ah, that IS something! Beautiful!

"The Storm" is an adaptation of a stage play. It was filmed in the high Sierras of California.

BALLET IS FEATURE OF SEASON'S FINAL CONCERT AT RAVINIA

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The final Sunday afternoon concert at Ravinia was devoted to ballet music and ballet divertissements, with special emphasis upon Ruth Page, Blake Scott and their associates of the Ravinia opera ballet. For the art of the dance grows increasingly popular and here was something to catch the eye as well as the ear.

Some of the dance numbers were out of the season's operas, the waltz from "Faust" and the gypsy dance from "Anima Allegra" among them. Some were Miss Page's own most radiant characterizations, "Barnum and Bailey," "Peter Pan," and "The Butterfly" were among them. Two were solos by Mr. Scott, a variant of the Pierrot theme, set to music by Mozart, and a forceful and effective étude of the Chopin piece of the same name.

Through no fault of any one at Ravinia, Ravel's bolero could not be danced. It was, however, placed on the orchestral program of the first half, in which Eric DeLamarter also presented Stravinski's "Fire Bird" suite, another suite from Massenet's "Le Cid," and the dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor," the last arousing as yet unappeased wonder whether the rest of its music is as good as its dances. For the ballet program two pianos were placed in the pit and played by Philine Falco of the Ravinia company and Marian Graham.

Miss Page not only possesses a striking talent, but she is in herself a fine, vital personality of the dance, with training sense of the stage, and expression of both face and body. How much can be done with economy of means was shown in "The St. Louis Blues," which she danced with Mary Ann Stone, Marian Finholt, and Lymette Corrigan. What she is as a personality of character flamed in "The Barnum and Bailey," and there was great humor in Stravinsky's "Gossips" by Misses Stone, Krasnapolsky, and Fraser.

"Have Doctors See Children," Kegel Advises

Urges Caution as They Start School.

In an effort to prevent the spread of any diseases in the schools, which open tomorrow, Health Commissioner Kegel yesterday requested the parents of school children to have their family physician make an audit of the children's health. Plans are under way also to send 160 school and field medical health officers into the schools to make a preliminary superficial examination of the pupils.

The examination, according to Dr. Kegel, is for the purpose of determining whether there are any children in school who might spread scarlet fever, mumps, measles, whooping cough and the contagious skin diseases. All such cases found will be sent home, Dr. Kegel said, so that the children who are in good health will be enabled to maintain their physical condition.

"The protection of children under ten years of age against diphtheria will begin during the second week of school," Dr. Kegel said, "after the potential epidemics are culled out by sending any suspicious and known cases of disease home. Sixty teams, each consisting of a doctor and a nurse, will give each child not already protected three doses of toxin anti toxin one week apart provided the parents give their consent.

"Parents with children under school age also are privileged to bring them to the school physician and have them protected against diphtheria. The injection of toxin antitoxin is a sure, safe and almost painless protection against the disease.

"Many cities have the majority of their school children protected against diphtheria with toxin antitoxin. All parents should promptly sign and return the request cards asking that their children be given the diphtheria protection.

Berlin Again Has Catholic Bishop After Many Years

Borglum in Atlanta, Confers on Resuming Work on Memorial

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, arrived here today to confer with leaders of a movement to resume work on the confederate memorial at Stone mountain.

Borglum was supported by two walking sticks as a result of spraining an ankle while giving final instructions on the Black Hills, South Dakota monument.

The sculptor was not molested in connection with two indictments still pending in De Kalb county charging him with having demolished certain models and carried away others after the expiration of his contract with the Stone Mountain Memorial association in 1925.

Solicitor General Claude Smith of De Kalb county previously had stated the sculptor was subject to arrest the moment he entered the state. The solicitor could not be reached for a statement as to whether Borglum would be called to face the charges.

Borglum went directly to the home of Mayor-Elect James L. Key, who had invited him here for a conference. After the conference the sculptor left for the home of Sam H. Venable, representative of the Stone mountain heirs, whose guest he will be during his stay in Atlanta.

G. F. Willis, president of the Memorial association, has gone on record as favoring the withdrawal of the De Kalb indictments. More than 400 citizens of De Kalb county have signed a petition to Solicitor General Smith asking him to drop the charges.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Honor Dead; Convene in Baltimore

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Comrades who fell on battlefields in distant places were remembered here today by the United States Veterans of Foreign Wars at their annual encampment. A memorial service was held.

More than 20,000 veterans who faced death in China, Cuba, the Philippines, Mexico, and France, and from every state and territory, have turned to Baltimore for the reunion that will continue until Friday.

From early day until long after nightfall it was one parade after another as delegations marched to hotels.

Convening with the veterans is the Eighth Army Corps Veterans' association, the National Order of the Cootie, and the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Business sessions begin tomorrow, to be presided over by Hezekiah N. Duff of Lansing, Mich, the national commander in chief.

On Tuesdays the veterans, in annual parade, will pass in review before President Hoover. President Hoover was in China during the closing years of the nineteenth century and saw in action some of the troops that will pass before him.

THE STAGE

THE Adelphi theater announces that it will open for the new season on Friday night, Sept. 26, with a play called "Virtue's Bed." This piece was staged at the Hudson theater, New York, April 15, and ran for 72 performances. Its author is a certain Courtenay Savage.

The theme of "Virtue's Bed," says a New Yorker who keeps close tab on the plays that come and go along Broadway, is the social injustice that does not permit a woman to live down her past. The action begins in a North African resort of questionable character, and then carries its reformed heroine to England, where one of her old acquaintances of the Barbary Coast compels her to reveal her scarlet past and abandon her nice young fiancé.

"This play," says the fellow who saw it in New York, "contains a great deal of rhetoric and argument about the hypocrisy of society—especially among its males."

"Lost Sheep" will begin the new season at the Selwyn theater this evening. This is the only Labor day première. The company ended a successful engagement in New York Saturday night, and comes here, it is said, without a single change in its roster of players.

Other closings on Broadway last Saturday night were "Apron Strings," which has lasted long enough to qualify in the list of hits, and "Through the Night," which was staged about two weeks ago to the unanimous disapproval of the dramatic critics. The latter play rates as the season's first casualty. . . . Speaking of closings, it might be added that next Saturday night will be Lou Tellegen's last in "Love Technique" so far as the Studebaker theater is concerned.

"Torch Song," one of last week's Broadway plays, seems to have made a favorable impression upon the reviewers. The New York Evening Post pronounces it "the first play of the new season that puts forth any real claim to serious attention." Percy Hammond in the Herald-Tribune says: "This is a first class combination of the drama and show business. If I am not, as usual, mistaken, it is a good and an adult show."

Kenyon Nicholson is the author. "Torch Song" deals with a hysterical blend of sex and religion in feminine psychology and its central situation recalls the high note of "Rain." The heroine is a cabaret girl who reforms, joins the Salvation Army, tries to convert her old lover, and gets ruined all over again. Miss Mayo Methot plays this rôle.

"Insult," a play adapted from the Dutch of Jan Fabricius, is an added entry for this week's premières in New York. It will be staged by Lee Shubert at the Forty-ninth Street theater next Saturday night. Leslie Perrins, who played the leading rôle in the London production, will head the cast. The author is a journalist from the Dutch East Indies, and "Insult" has won him international renown. C. C.

LLOYDS WILL ADOPT LITTLE GIRL AS PAL FOR THEIR DAUGHTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 31.—Harold Lloyd and his wife have adopted a 5½ year old blonde, grey eyed girl to grow up with their daughter, Mildred Gloria Lloyd, 7 years old, and to share the Lloyd fortune.

Lloyd's attorneys begin adoption proceedings in the Superior court here on Tuesday. The girl has been living with Mildred Gloria and her parents for two weeks. She has been named Marjorie Elizabeth Lloyd, nicknamed "Peggy" and already has been equipped with dresses, toys, puppies, half of Mildred Gloria's nursery space and has had a little white ivory bed, duplicating Mildred Gloria's, specially made and installed in the children's suite in the Lloyd Beverly Hills mansion.

The Lloyds fell in love with the new daughter—or rather Mrs. Lloyd did—when she heard of a home on South Marengo avenue, Pasadena, where Mrs. Louise Sullivan, formerly of Kenesaw terrace, Chicago, had been caring for orphans. The Lloyds first took the little girl to their home for ten days, about Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Sullivan hated to part with the child at that time, but this month consented to the adoption. The Lloyds do not know who are the parents of the child.

Fifty Kindred Recall Career of Wm. Gougar

First Permanent Settler of Will County, Ill.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A half hundred descendants of William Gougar, first permanent resident in Will county, gathered in his dooryard yesterday to pay their respects to his memory with the unveiling of a monument. Just 100 years before, Gougar, a German pioneer, had tried his luck in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana. He halted his horse at a point on Hickory creek, two miles west of New Lenox, Ill., gazed north on a forest and south on the prairies and exclaimed to two companions: "Here is where I stay."

Yesterday Gougars of four generations strolled about the old homestead built ten years after the settler's arrival, and now occupied by the fourth and fifth generations. In the dining room part of the earliest wing to be built, the younger members looked into a glass case inclosing the relics that substantiated their ancestral history: the Martin Luther Bible in the family for 400 years, always the property of the eldest son; the old sugar bowl in which Catherine Gougar saved money for a trip back to Pennsylvania; Indian relics unearthed when Gougar built his home, and Gougar's old account book.

First on the centennial program was the pilgrimage to Oakwood cemetery, Joliet, to lay garden flowers on the graves of 19 Gougars who sleep in one large plot. Inconspicuous among them is the stone with the chiseled inscription: "William Gougar, born Nov. 12, 1782, died March 30, 1861."

Following the picnic dinner served under William Gougar's apple trees, Miss Helen Gougar of New Lenox, a granddaughter, related the history of the family. Mrs Catherine Waugh McCulloch, Chicago, a granddaughter of William's brother, Jacob, paid tribute to the Gougar traits found in the six generations during the last century. Then the monument, a granite boulder on the homestead lawn, was unveiled.

"Our Grandfather Gougar's two room cabin, called Little Dutch Inn, was the first dwelling on the trail southwest of old Fort Dearborn," Miss Helen Gougar said. "It also was the first postoffice in Will county, and the first polling place. Our grandfather built the first frame building in 1840, a barn of hewn oak timbers still in use. A year later he built the house.

"Grandfather Gougar was the first man in his community to own a reaper and the first to own a threshing machine. He was progressive from the first to the last. He had the first heating stove brought into the settlement. When he started a fire in it the neighbors came to warn him the stove would burn his home, and some of them put their fingers on it to see if there was any real heat in it. They soon found out."

Miss Gougar went on to relate how her grandfather in 1832 called members of Hickory Creek settlement to his home for a council when it was learned that Black Hawk and his warriors were firing on Plainfield.

The settlers hurriedly sought safety at the Wabash settlement or the rebuilt Fort Dearborn, remaining nearly three months. Upon their return the men carried guns in the fields.

"The Gougars have always been known for their industrious habits," Mrs. McCulloch declared in her address. "In looking back over our history it is found that Gougars always obeyed the laws, and none of them were put in jail. On the other hand they made no overture toward wealth. They have been content to take part in all this country's wars from the revolution on down, there has been a senator or two, some lawyers, many teachers and many farmers. They all believed in education. There was never a Gougar that couldn't write."

According to the Gougar history, William's grandfather, George Nicholas Gougar, born in Germany in 1718, sailed in 1736 from Rotterdam, arriving in Philadelphia. His son, Johann, William's father, was an only child, born in 1756.

Society Busy as Summer Season Closes

BY THALIA ——.

The summer activities of the 1930 season are being formally wound up today at the various resorts and country clubs frequented by society folk. Owners of summer places are taking advantage of the last holiday week-end to have large house parties before starting to put up the shutters and move to town. The country clubs have offered golf events and dances for the diversion of those who are visiting near home.

At Lake Geneva, where the yachting season closed on Saturday with the fifth annual Sheridan regatta, almost every one has guests. The Kellogg Whittanks have a party of 20 at The Bittersnuts, and the Henry Bartholomays and their daughter, Mrs. Cathaline Bartholomay Osborne, also have house guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns, who have not been at their summer place at Land o' Lakes, Wis., this year because of Mrs. Seaverns' illness, went up there last Thursday night, and have their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Seaverns, for the holiday.

One of the important events of the closing season in the vicinity of Bar Harbor was a large reception given yesterday afternoon by the president of Yale university and Mrs. James Rowland Angell at their Seal Harbor estate, Firwood, for Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Hutchins. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins will be returning shortly in time for the opening of the university.

The Lawsonia Country club, which is nearing the end of a gay season, is packed for the week-end. The Benjamin H. Marshalls, their daughter, Dorothy, and their son, Ben Jr.; the Heyward A. de Windts of Winnetka, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Clark Butler of Winnetka, the Paul Walkers of 900 North Michigan avenue, the Horatio B. Hacketts of 1320 North State street, the Frederick T. Hoyts of 1209 Astor street, and the Charles W. McNears of 1329 North State street are some of those at Lawsonia. There were golf events for men and women on Saturday and yesterday, and today there are exhibition polo matches.

The latest budget of news from the Berkshires: Mrs. George Higginson is one of the patronesses for the annual Labor day Lenox club ball on Saturday evening, and her daughter, Mrs. John H. P. Gould, was a member of the committee in charge. The Dentin L. Cooleys, who had as their guest Duncan Reed of New York City, gave a picnic last evening at their palace at Long lake. Miss Katherine Beatty of Hinsdale is to be one of the bridesmaids in the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Hodgett to Livingston Hall, which takes place on Saturday, Sept. 13, at Great Barrington. Mr. Hall is the son of Mrs. James Parker Hall and the late Dean Hall of the University of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lindley III. were in Williamstown last week.

Miss Kate Buckingham has as guest Mrs. John Buckingham, and recently was visited by Miss Harriet Peck of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor Spaulding of Boston.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, who has been such an assiduous patron to the cause of promoting chamber music, announces a "festival of chamber music," to be held in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum on Oct. 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th. A number of the works to be played are dedicated to Mrs. Coolidge.

A chamber orchestra conducted by Boris Koutschak, the Brosa string quartet of London, and the Gordon string quartet are among the groups to give the various programs. Mrs. Coolidge's patronage of music and musicians has taken various forms. She made possible the colony in the Berkshires, where the annual music festival is an important musical event, and the help that she has given to individuals and groups is practically immeasurable.

Announcement was made yesterday in the east and in California of the engagement of Miss Jane Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Foster of San Mateo, Cal., to Edward Small Moore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore of Roslyn, Long Island, and New York City. The Moore family are former residents of Lake Forest, having moved about 10 years ago. Mr. Moore's sister, the former Jean Moore, was married a year or so ago to Oliver Malcolm Wallop, son of the earl and countess of Portsmouth.

Hindu Finds Huge Idol 40 Miles from Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—(AP)—What is alleged to be the largest idol ever found in America was discovered today forty miles from Mexico City by a Hindu archaeologist, Pandurang Khankloje. It is thirty-three feet high and is supposed to date back to pre-Aztec times.

Its existence is said to have been known in the days of Porfirio Diaz president of Mexico in 1877-'80 and again 1884-1911, although no books mentioned it.

This stone idol represents the goddess of water and is called Chalcutilque, and has a thickness of twenty feet. It is fantastically carved and traces of the original green paint which ornamented the head are still visible.

The ancient image probably will have to lie in the deep ditch where it was found because a railroad would have to be built to haul it out.

Tomorrow Prince Alfonso of Orleans, cousin of the king, and his wife, Princess Beatrice, will come to Seville for luncheon with Mr. Dawes. Then the American ambassador to Great Britain will leave for Paris.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Chief Justice Hughes has joined Mrs. Hughes at the Mayflower, where they will be for a few days while the finishing touches are put to their new home on R street which last winter was occupied by Miss Helen Cannon, daughter of the late Joseph G. Cannon of Danville, Ill., former speaker of the house. The most important feature is the installation of the chief justice's extensive library.

The Belgian ambassador, Prince De Ligne, accompanied by his daughter, Princess Antoinette, who have been in New England with Princess De Ligne and the other daughter, Princess Elizabeth, went today to Moline, Ill. They will be present at the Labor day celebration tomorrow of the Belgian colony. They will join the other members of the family the middle of the week at Hollywood farm on South river near Annapolis which they have under lease through the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris E. Bruce of Chicago spent the week end here having come from their home in Oak Park for the wedding of their son, Albert White Bruce, and Miss Katherine Louise Schuiz, daughter of Col. Edward Hugh Schulz.

Parisiennes Girdle Themselves with Velvet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Better hurry out and buy yourself a bunch of blue ribbon, or any other color so long as it's velvet. All the fashionable world is wearing velvet ribbon, girding themselves around slim waistlines and tying it around their summeriest hats. Many a lady, too, ties a knotted band of velvet around her short sleeves, just above the elbows. In short, velvet details and knick-knacks for simple frocks are very much in, in Paris fashions.

One of the prettiest uses of the velvet girdle, which is being worn by the most fashionable women at Deauville, is on the frock of white cotton or linen. The touch of luxury on these countryish fabrics makes that surprise element that is the heart and soul of chic. The dress sketched here is made of white handkerchief linen and the girdle that crushes in under a pearl buckle is made of cherry red velvet.

The charm of this dress is its trimming of hand made tucks, tiny ones, placed in diagonal clusters up and down the front and back, and divided by vertical bands of tucks that are released below the hips to flare the skirt. A plaited scarf of white handkerchief linen is worn around the neck. The plaits are stitched down in the center of this scarf so that they retain their shape.

The accessories of this model are particularly well chosen. The hat is of white linen, made like the hat of the American sailor. It is bound around with red velvet ribbon which ties in a bow at the left side. The gloves are made of red velvet to match the girdle, yes'm, red velvet, and they're new and thrilling accessories.

DOROTHY DULIN PARIS

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

A louse is a louse and a chicken mite is another kind of a poultry pest that requires different treatment. Under ordinary temperatures a louse will not live more than a week if birds are removed from the henhouse, while mites need more drastic practices to kill them off in their crack and crevice homes in the poultry house, according to F. H. Wilson of the department of entomology of New York State College of Agriculture.

If louse free chickens are to be placed in a henhouse previously occupied by other poultry, it is advisable to clean the house a week or so in advance. This will starve the larger pests and incubator hatched chicks will be reared free from the lice.

Different methods are recommended to kill lice on the bodies of chickens. Sodium flouride is recommended, taking a pinch of the material and distributing it among the feathers. Because of the irritation possible with this chemical, it is advised to keep the sodium flourids from the eyes and not permit it to distribute widely over one's skin, Mr. Wilson says. If the bird is dusted over a paper, the dust which does not stay in the feathers can be used on another bird.

To kill the tiny red mites, which are gray when not filled with blood, other treatments are advised. The mites crawl over the birds at night and return to hide during the day in the roosts, roost supports, or cracks in the wall of the building. Painting or spraying with kerosene or a properly diluted solution of nicotine sulphate usually eliminates the mites.

Impossible to Recommend Any Certain Cosmetic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Hundreds of correspondents ask for a recommendation of a particular cosmetic product for their use. Others ask for a recommendation of a product on the hearsay that it is good. Others, again, ask if I will not suggest some powder or some cleansing cream or astringent or makeup article that would be most beneficial, without indicating in any way the type of individual for whose use it is intended.

Naturally, I cannot recommend or indorse any especial product. You readers must understand the position of one who is awake that there are on the market excellent cosmetic articles, the products of competitive manufacturers, and that it is but fair to adopt an impartial attitude toward the respective outputs. Too, it would become automatic that one would be tempted to recommend the article that she, herself, found most agreeable. But what would suit her complexion might be quite out of the question for another woman.

In fact, the question of the right cosmetic, or cosmetic articles, is a matter of the right woman for the particular product. I could just as easily determine what is the right color of frock to wear to strengthen eye and hair beauty without a mental picture of the questioner as to suggest the color of rouge or lipstick that would be most becoming. Or, it would be as easy to determine the type of frock that would be best for the figure, without knowing whether the figure were lean or heavy, as to suggest a cream, say, for a skin about which you are ignorant as to its condition of dryness or oiliness.

Since the right cosmetic is important, one must determine first the type of skin under which one would be classified. If normal, any good cleansing cream would serve so long as it cleansed satisfactorily. If dry or oily, then a cleansing cream should be adopted to suit the particular emergency.

A very dry skin, for example, might prosper better under a pure liquid cleansing cream and a distressingly oily skin might require for improvement's sake an especially prepared product.

Even the consistency of cream varies and what one with a normal skin might find objectionable because of its heavy, slow-liquifying texture another might find most agreeable. Generally speaking, however, the cleansing cream that is light in texture and liquifies immediately is the pleasantest to use.

G. N.: SOFT CORNS BETWEEN the toes are caused by heat, moisture and shoe pressure. Medicated talcum dusted between the toes will give relief, and a bit of absorbent cotton, frequently renewed, will absorb the moisture.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Small Mattress.

"I had a full size baby bed given to me, but there is no mattress for it. I cannot buy one, and it is so hard for the baby when she sleeps on it with a blanket to cover the springs. Do you know of some one who has an old one to give? Mrs. L. H."

If your child has outgrown his baby bed, perhaps you'll give this mother the mattress. It must be most uncomfortable and not entirely restful to be sleeping on the springs.

Mothers Write for a List of Helpful Books

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A List of Books to be read to children and by them will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There was a time when people used to believe that when a woman became a mother she became magically endowed with all knowledge of babies and children. There are still people who believe it and who say to young people, "This is all nonsense—the idea of going to a doctor before your baby is born," and "It will all come to you—don't bother with these new ideas and books."

But these people grow fewer and fewer. And those who realize the importance of prenatal care of both mother and child are growing more and more numerous. It is fine to see how many expectant mothers are looking eagerly for every means to bring into the world a healthy child, and for knowledge of how to care for it mentally and physically, once it has arrived. Here is one of many pieces of evidence:

"I would appreciate very much if you would be so kind as to send me a list of books which would give me knowledge of how to take care of infant feeding and health, child mental training, and any books on general knowledge of the wisest way to raise a child to grow into a healthy state of mind, body and soul.

"Also, the care the mother should take before the birth of the child to endow it with perfect teeth, etc.

"This is to be my first child and I do so want to do the right thing in all matters, as I know that the way the child is raised will make or break his life.

"I cannot tell you of what value this will be to me."

Many books and booklets might be suggested for the expectant mother, but only a few can be given here to cover the points asked for.

A good book on prenatal care gives directions for the mother's diet which will insure her baby's all around development, including teeth. Several good books are:

"Prenatal Care" [U. S. government booklet].

"Getting Ready to Be a Mother," by Carolyn Van Blarcom, published by Macmillan, New York. Price $1.75.

For infant feeding and health there is our own "Baby Book, Building the Baby," for which the direction appears periodically at the head of this column. Also, "The Healthy Baby," by Roger H. Dennett, published by Macmillan, New York, Price $1.25. "Infant Care" [children's bureau, U. S. government].

For the child's mental—that is, general—guidance, there are many books and booklets. There is a short one called "Child Management" [U. S. government, free, from children's bureau, Washington].

"Child Care and Training," by Feagre and Anderson, published by University of Minnesota Press, which includes physical care as well.

As to a separate book on the subject of eliminating fear in childhood—that is always treated of in any good book on child management.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What was the most embarrassing moment of your life? If you care to have it published, address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Please write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

First Stage Experience.

I believe my most embarrassing moment came when I was a small boy acting in a Christmas play at church. I was supposed to be a roughneck messenger boy who entered with telegrams from Santa. These were neatly stowed away in my cap.

When the time came for producing them I removed my cap, but to my astonishment the messages were not there. The audience immediately roared and I sheepishly put my hand on my head, where I found the missing messages which had dropped there when I removed my hat. S. H.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My new neighbor called to see me, accompanied by his three boys.

"This is my son, John, and my son, Arthur," he said, introducing his two oldest.

"And this is the baby?" I asked, smiling at the youngest, aged 4.

"O, no, I'm Billy, 'nuther son of my father's," explained the little lad quickly. S. A. G.

My little nephew had just been to the park. I asked him what he had seen, but being anxious to get out and play, he paid no attention.

"You can't go out 'till you tell me two things you saw," I teased him.

Has the Male of the Species Grown Shy of Ye Altar Rail?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There was a time when the good looking girl in the family was audibly referred to by mamma's visitors as the one "who would be marrying early." The poor, homely duckling's chances were dismissed with a regretful nod. But from two recitals of beautiful girls—and lovely blondes at that—the matrimonial path of the pictorially favored one is not so smooth as it once was.

These two young women, about 23 and 24, both working and both with men friends that they could call on for party emergencies and rely on for a reasonable number of dates, made the similar comment: "Men do not want to marry, I guess. Heaven knows I'm willing."

Thus we're back again to the altar shy male and the why of his reluctance?

The two young women referred to are employed, each in a position in which male workers are in the majority. They are not high salaried girls, so that career making is not the charge to be drawn here. Were they hell bent for making large names and large sums of money for themselves they'd be further on than they are now. The fact is that each, on interrogation, confessed she had always wanted to marry. In the last year the desire for a home and "security," as one frankly put it, has grown. But how to convert the male friends and admirers (they have reason to believe) into a matrimonial frame of mind?

They are not the aggressive type of girl, who goes after what she wants in spite of their other marked phases of modernity. They're willing to try all the conventionally known wiles. In fact, one of them confessed she'd even tried the sob stuff to see if that would make her appear more in need of a permanent protector, but it didn't get her any closer the rail she'd like to kneel before.

"O, yes," she told me. "They'll talk marriage with you. Analyze it, dissect it, tell about how they'd like to have a home and youngsters, but that's as far as it goes."

How about it, messieurs? Are you waiting, as the girl is, for spoken encouragement on the subject, or are you just grown truly altar shy?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Acceptable Gifts.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love has hinted time and again that she will not accept any gifts from me on her coming birthday. She maintains that she accepts no gifts from people other than those of her family circle. I will be greatly obliged to you if you can suggest a gift that she will accept without hurting her feelings.

"PERPLEXED."

Flowers or candy would make a suitable remembrance for the young lady. They are always acceptable.

Introductions.

"Dear Doris Blake: Is is proper to speak to a fellow to whom you have not been intrduced? JERRY."

Convention decrees you must await an introduction before speaking.

Food Talk.

"Does toast have the same food value as the slice of bread from which it is made?" is a question that has recently been asked by a number of our readers. The inquirers seem to think toast is a good reducing food and that perhaps the toasting process is responsible for a reduction in calories. My answer is: "Toasting does not alter the food value of bread."

At least three changes take place when a piece of bread is toasted. There is a change in appearance. A thin layer of starch on the surface is converted into dextrin—the crisp golden brown on the outside of the slice. The chemical composition of dextrin is the same as starch, the only difference being in the size of the molecule. But dextrin is more digestible than starch. Before starch can be digested it must change to Dextrin. Dextrin is the first product of starch digestion in the mouth. We may say, then, that dextrin is predigested starch.

Bread always becomes moist as it is toasted. The chemist explains the reason for this in this way: Bread is composed of both starch and protein, and the smallest individual units of these starch and protein substances, called molecules, contain water. As bread stales some of the water in the starch molecule is transferred to the protein molecule. And it here remains in the protein molecule at ordinary temperatures. When the temperature is suddenly increased, as it is in toasting, the water originally absorbed by the protein is transferred back to the carbohydrate. The effect is a moister crumb in the toast than in the bread. This in no way changes the food value.

Toast is not a reducing food. The tastiness of toast may lead the individual to eat more of it than he would plain bread, thereby increasing the calories. The easy digestibility of toast, as has been said, may be partly attributed to the dextrin, but the thorough mastication that must be given toast is responsible for the rest.

Perhaps the idea of the reducing power of toast has been obtained through the recommendation of Melba toast in reducing diets. Melba toast is just like any other toast made from ordinary bread except that the slices are only about one-third as thick. Three slices of Melba toast are equal to one slice of ordinary toast. Usually the individual who eats three slices of Melba toast is as satisfied as though he had eaten two full sized slices of toast which contain twice as many calories. Numbers rather than quantity of food items seem to have some psychological effect in satisfying the appetite.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The debut in White Sox togs of a [illegible] pitcher named Jim Moore [illegible] work out successfully yesterday. The lad, carrying the weight of [illegible] years and a record of 15 wins and [illegible] at Little Rock, reported unheralded to Manager Bush and was [illegible] to work immediately. But the [illegible] was turned up with a juvenile of his own, Tom Bridges, 22 seasons [illegible], and the latter shaded Moore [illegible] rally in a speedy 4 to 1 battle. Bridges, until a few weeks ago the property expert of the Evansville [illegible] Eye organization, didn't work [illegible] ball very extensively on the [illegible], but he did something even more [illegible]. He handed them a skimpy [illegible] of four hits, tossed in one [illegible] for good measure, and permitted [illegible] three of his opponents to reach [illegible] base. He also deserved the added [illegible] distinction of a shutout, but one [illegible] his mates erred just after an extra [illegible] hit and this permitted the lone [illegible] run to drift over the plate.

Tigers Break Tie in Seventh.

Moore's introduction to the rigors of [illegible] league competition might have [illegible] of consequence had he been able [illegible] avoid one bad inning. At the start [illegible] yielded a run, probably because he [illegible] awed by the spaciousness of [illegible]inskey park, in which 5,000 spectators were seated. The Sox retrieved [illegible] run in the second inning and [illegible] more managed to maintain himself [illegible] a 1 to 1 basis until the close of [illegible] sixth. He did this by confining [illegible] Tigers to four hits. But the seventh brought an upheaval. Four hosts, including Bridges, cut loose with [illegible] and the resultant three runs decided everything.

Moore's control was so good that he [illegible]ued only two passes, but one of [illegible] was converted into a run. Funk [illegible]ked to start the game. Gehringer [illegible] out and McManus followed with [illegible]gle to right. Funk went to third [illegible] the hit and scooted home when [illegible]xander sent Watwood dashing into [illegible] center for a fly ball.

Watwood Scores Sox Run.

[illegible] two bagger by Watwood put the [illegible] on the trail of their solitary run [illegible] the second. He lined his double to [illegible] left field corner after Jolley had [illegible] thrown out. Clancy survived on [illegible]umble by Gehringer, Watwood moved over to third. Kamm then sent [illegible] to left and Watwood sneaked [illegible] the plate before Stone's return [illegible] could head him off. Watwood [illegible] reached third in the seventh on [illegible] single, a passed ball and an infield [illegible]. The only other white hosed athlete to enjoy this privilege was Reynolds, who doubled to start the ninth, went to third on Jolley's out, and [illegible] there.

The 1 to 1 tie started to crumple [illegible] as Easterling doubled to left with [illegible] out in the seventh. Hayworth's [illegible] in the same direction scored [illegible]. Then Bridges doubled to right, [illegible]ceived halting at third. Funk's [illegible] fly gave Hayworth time [illegible]ough to score, and the damage was [illegible]leted when Bridges raced home [illegible] single by Gehringer.

[illegible]ross and Thomas will handle the [illegible]ing for the Sox in today's holiday [illegible]n header. The Tigers will employ Sorrell and Whitehill.

Bruins in Cincinnati for Games Today.

The Cubs' defeat yesterday was not as distressing as it might have been, for the Giants broke even in a double header and shaved only half a game off the champions' lead, which now stands at five games. The Robins are six games back and the Cardinals 6½.

If the Cubs win 15 and lose 11 of their remaining games, the second place Giants must take 22 of their 28 games to win the pennant. The standing then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Giants	93	61	.604
Cubs	92	62	.597

If the Cubs merely play .500 ball, winning 13 and losing the same number, the Giants must show 20 victories and eight defeats to land in first place. The standings then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Giants	91	63	.591
Cubs	90	64	.584

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Wild Bill Hallahan, talented left handed pitching person of the St. Louis Cardinals, yesterday afternoon experimented with the principle that a batsman cannot hit a baseball unless he is able to see it. The experiment was a success from a Cardinal standpoint, for they won handily from the Cubs in the home stand final, 8 to 3.

Wild Bill struck out 12 of the McCarthys, each of whom showed clearly he hadn't the slightest conception of where the baseball was shooting. Umpire Stark was able to see the ball, however, and as a consequence eight dazzled Cubs, brave enough to refrain from surging aimlessly, were given passes to first.

One Cub Hit Until Eighth.

Until one was out in the eighth inning Hallahan had allowed only one hit, a single which George Kelly caromed off Umpire Bill Klem's wishbone in the second inning.

In the eighth Stephenson appeared as a pinch batter and registered a single, the second hit off Hallahan. Two more hits followed, to bring the total for the day to four, but whatever joy the crowd of 45,000 was able to derive from this belated slugging was blotted out by two instances of fuzzy base running.

By taking the game yesterday the Cards split the four game series and also the season series. This year each club has won 11 from the other, something of a contrast with their last year's activity, when the Cubs won 15 out of 20 contests.

Play at Cincinnati Today.

The Cubs left last night for Cincinnati, where this afternoon they will play a double header with the Reds, their most surprising enemies of the year. Frey and Lucas have been saved to further pester our fellows. Mama... MacCarthy hasn't been doing any pitcher saving recently. He will probably look around the field for a couple of athletes who don't look too ill or too tired. His eyes may light on Pat Malone and Bob Osborn, neither of whom has had his quota of rest, but both are big, strong boys and willing workers.

Fred Blake, one of the hospital brigade, has emerged from confinement and may be able to work in tomorrow's game. This contest, incidentally, will be one set up from Sept. 25, so that instead of stopping over in Cincinnati on that date the Cubs will come directly home from Boston for a two day rest before winding up the season at Wrigley field with the Reds.

Petty Lasts Four Innings.

The details of yesterday's game cause wonderment why the visitors didn't make twice as many runs as they did. Jess Petty pitched four innings, and though he allowed ten hits, including two doubles, he escaped with only four runs scored against him.

A Landlubber Gets Kick Out of Boat Race

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 31.—Edith II., Seawanhaka sloop owned and sailed by Bert Williamson, today won the twenty-seventh annual Chicago-Michigan City race sponsored by the Jackson Park Yacht club. The victory brought the Williamson boat the time prize in the Seawanhaka group and also the iron signal cannon, offered by John P. O'Rourke of the Intruder for the first boat to cross the finish line at the Michigan City lighthouse.

The race was a battle between Edith II. and Ed Jaworyzkowski's Q boat Princess. After passing Gary, the two boats fought it out like a pair of race horses in the stretch, one taking the lead for a few minutes and then the other. As they headed for the judges on the lighthouse platform, Columbia, Seawanhaka boat with its new owner, Dr. Francis M. Yager, at the tiller, came up to nose out Princess for the place prize. The latter, however, was awarded time honors in the universal class.

A mere landlubber, whose nautical experience was limited to a few lake steamer excursions, accompanied the Intruder during the race in an effort to find out how a yacht acts in a race. Visions of squalls, seasickness and capsizing filled his mind when he arrived at the Jackson Park club house, but these were dispelled before the home sky line was out of sight.

At the club house he was greeted by John O'Rourke skipper of the Intruder, a lean, pleasant Irishman, who spends his time in a La Salle street office when he isn't at the tiller of the trim Q boat with which he has raced during the last eight years.

It appeared that the Intruder was short of hands for the Michigan City race, so O'Rourke shanghaied the landlubber into a pair of sneakers and sailor's jeans and took him aboard. There the rest of the crew was found in the persons of Don [Deacon] Currier and William P. Whalen, both of whom have sailed the lakes for more than 15 years. The landlubber stood by gaping while the Intruder got under way. He saw plenty of activity within the next few minutes, for the Intruder was due presently at the starting point 500 feet off the Casino pier.

Finally all the sails were set and Skipper O'Rourke turned about and headed for the starter's boat. He had about 20 seconds to spare before the gun sent them toward Michigan City. Five other classes of boats in the race already were under full sail, the Q boats being next to last to start.

The novice of the Intruder's crew was put at his ease and to work simultaneously. He was allowed to man the main sheet, the rope which holds the mainsail to the deck, while O'Rourke headed for the weather position, in which a boat goes to the outside of all the others. This, it was explained, is a gambling proposition with the wind, for you either have the full advantage over other competitors in getting the wind or you're completely out of it.

Last year the Intruder took the chance and won the race. Yesterday the winds weren't in a charitable mood and the O'Rourke boat finished seventh, although she scudded along right merrily at the start before a brisk southwest breeze, and was running third at the Gary gas buoy.

The race was interrupted off South Chicago by a lengthy ore boat, which nosed its stubborn way through the fleet, causing a few boats to swerve from their course, although the captain endeavored to turn in for a number of them.

Whelan and Currier agreed that it was a perfect day for sailing. North of Gary there was a great bustle aboard the Intruder to lower the jib, the sail ahead of the mast. A larger sheet of canvas, called the "ballooner," was then run up in its stead and the Intruder leaped forward with a new energy, for the ballooner has a

BY FRENCH LANE.

For those holiday celebrants who like to go to the races one of the real good cards of the year in Chicago has been arranged at Lincoln Fields this afternoon.

It is toplined by the $5,000 added Joliet handicap for two year olds and most of the leading juveniles in the west will strive for the prize. Other races on the card bring the best horses here in almost every division into action.

For the Joliet purse 23 two year olds are eligible. Last night Siskin, the Nevada Stock Farm's sensational son of Epinard, and Don Leon, a Kentucky colt, were made the choices and each was quoted at around 3 to 1. Doris Jean, Rusty and Oswego were others with large followings.

Don Leon Won at Hawthorne.

Siskin and Don Leon clashed at Hawthorne not long ago in the Chicago juvenile handicap. In that encounter Don Leon led Siskin home by six lengths. But there is a switch in the weights today and in the Juvenile handicap Don Leon beat the barrier by a couple of lengths while Siskin was away with the rear guard and never at any time had a chance to make up the ground he had lost at the start.

Today Don Leon gives Siskin one pound, while in their previous meeting Siskin gave away four pounds to Don Leon. With an even break when the start comes their battle should be a thriller. Insco is the only leading western two year old to pass up the race. He goes east early in the week to fill his engagement in the Belmont Futurity, and Trainer Durnell did not care to take a chance with him in the large field which will go to the post in the Joliet stakes.

The Labor Day handicap has drawn a field for a mile skirmish that includes the stars Lady Broadcast, Ironsides, Pigeon Hole, Silverdale, Honey Locust and Mole Hill. Most of them have been stake winners this season. None will carry high weight, and the track should sizzle when they step over the mile course.

Should Be Medal for Picker.

Then there is a six furlong sprint on the program that engages Equation, Lady Fingers, Hot Shot, Flag Bearer, Hot Time, Illegitimate, and others. If you can pick the winner of that one you ought to get a gold medal along with the regular mutual dividends.

On last Labor day the crowd at Lincoln Fields was the second largest of the year in Illinois. Plans have been made to handle even a greater gathering today. The crowd record so far this year was hung up at Arlington Park on Classic day. The American Derby throng was the second largest gathering.

THE HOME RUN KING RESTS ON HIS THRONE

Yesterday was an off day in the home run business and Hack Wilson, who hit his 45th and 46th on Saturday to lead the major league race, spent most of the afternoon strolling around the bases instead of trotting around on homers. Hack faced Wild Bill Hallahan four times and walked three times. At the left he fouls off the first ball pitched to him; in the center, he dodges one of Bill's wild ones and falls to get out of the way of it; at the right, it's ball four and Hack is tossing aside his bat for another walk. Britons Shift Polo Team and Find It Helps

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Port Washington, L. I., Aug. 31.—A change in the British polo lineup that may make a lot of difference in the outcome of the international series was given a trial at Sands Point this afternoon. It was made in the sixth period of a game against the strong Roslyn four. The score stood 6 to 2 in Britain's favor when Lieut. Humphrey Guinness went in at back and Lewis Lacey, the Argentine nine goaler, moved up to No. 2. The English won the match, 15 to 6.

The six foot two inch tall army officer opened the game up. With his arrival the British team showed far more life than it ever has before, and began to take on something of the long hitting, swinging type of play produced by the Hitchcock organization. Guinness began by taking a tumble over his pony's head, somersaulting under the mount's feet and almost getting trampled. He was up at once, however, and played all the harder.

Lacey seemed better at No. 2 than he had been at back, and with Gerald Balding up front at No. 1 and Pat Roark at last on top of his game, the more than 10,000 spectators saw a revived British four.

Aidan Roark Out of Play.

Young Aidan Roark is definitely out of the international game. It was learned this afternoon that he has undergone a second operation. This time it was a mastoid operation, made necessary by an injury he received while playing in England.

Elmer Boeseke and Robert Strawbridge starred for the Roslyn four. Their teammates, Harold Talbott and Cecil Smith, gave the English plenty of competition during the first half of the game.

With capacity crowds turning out for practice matches and an audience of 40,000 or more assured for the international matches, polo on Long Island has definitely become a popular sport with the public.

The English have not won an international polo series from America since the game was taken out of the drawing rooms of Long Island and made a sporting event for the public. Polo competition with England began back in 1886. A couple of American sportsmen were dining at the Hurlingham club in England. One was Griswold Lorillard. A polo game was the topic of conversation.

Begin Series of Matches.

The Englishmen were astonished, but immediately suggested a series of matches. The challenge was accepted,

Cub Fan Admires Team's Courage in Pennant Race

Why are the Cubs leading the National league pennant race? That's the question THE TRIBUNE has asked Chicago fans. Address communications to the Sports Editor. Limit letters to 200 words. Here is a reply from a loyal rooter who admires their courage:

"For a good many years I have been following the Cubs as a good Chicagoan should and I have been very enthusiastic about the good fight they have been making this year. Despite injuries and the loss of one of baseball's gentlemen and a real pitcher, they have been in there fighting every minute and their present standing, I think, is a fine tribute to their courage.

"In view of this, it makes me, and other Cub fans, pretty damn mad to see an expression such as that of your dear contributor who offers that the Cubs' 'so-called' success can be attributed to their 'cheese box" ball park. I haven't the definite figures before me, but if memory serves me correctly, the Cubs' park fence distances compare quite favorably with most of the other big league parks.

"Speaking of 'cheese boxes,' has any of the lemon tossers stopped to think that Babe Ruth has set his home run records playing 77 games a year in a park having a right field fence nearly 100 feet shorter than Wrigley field?

"The 'wolves' might also explain the fact that most of the Cub victories have been banged out with sound, solid hitting, not of home runs, but clean one and two base hits. Also, any umpchay knows that even though a batter might time his swing late to send the apple over the right field fence, it takes a damn good hitter, shootin' for a long one, to place his shot anywhere near the mark.

DEMPSEY WILL DISCUSS FIGHT PLANS OCT. 15

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, does not plan to determine his future in the pugilistic world until after two weeks' training, starting Oct. 1, he said today as he stopped here en route east from El Paso.

"If I'm in shape for a fight by Oct. 15 I'll be ready to talk about opponents. Until that time there's no use in saying anything about whom I'd like to fight or whom I'd be willing to fight," the Manassa Mauler said.

Dempsey said he thought Young Stribling the best of the present day crop of heavyweight title contenders, having hit the stride that leads to the heights of ability. Dempsey rated the Georgian above Jack Sharkey.

Giants Divide Double Header with Braves

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Giants had a chance to pick up a game and a half on the league leading Cubs today, but the McGraw men could only break even in a double header with the Braves, squeezing through to win the first game, 4 to 3, and dropping the second, 14 to 10.

A four run Giant rally in the fourth inning overcame the Braves' three run lead to win the opener. Even the heavy hitting of Melvin Ott, who slammed out a double and three home runs, could not bring victory to the Giants in the second game. Score:

Either Walk 'Em or Fan 'Em—That's Hallahan's Motto

William Hallahan, the Cardinals' southpaw whose unusual generosity in bestowing passes upon opposing batters has earned him the nickname of Wild Bill, yesterday gave a personal demonstration of how he acquired his sobriquet but, unfortunately for the Cubs, he also demonstrated why he still is a big league pitcher.

Hallahan in holding the Cubs to four hits while his Cardinal teammates were pounding out [illegible] victory, issued bases on balls with even more than his customary extravagance, walking eight Cubs. But he offset his lavish gifts with twelve strikeouts.

His tendency to blow up without giving the slightest prior notice is notorious, and when he started off the fourth inning of yesterday's game by walking Woody English, the Cubs were certain that Wild Bill was headed for defeat. As he started to pitch to Kiki Cuyler, every Cub in the dugout began beating a tattoo with his bat, and Charley Grimm wielded two upon the dugout roof with the dexterity of a drummer.

As each ball crossed the plate, the Cubs brandished their bats, more vigorously adding their voices to the din of the drumming. Cuyler walked, and the bat beating became deafening as Wild Bill walked Hack Wilson. But then, as suddenly as he had started going up, Wild Bill settled down and fanned Danny Taylor. He forced Kelly to fly to Blades, and apparently oblivious to the continued bat waving, fanned Bell to end the inning.

Wild Bill has been shunting back and forth between St. Louis and the Cardinals' farms for several years, but at last seems to have won a permanent home by his performance this year in winning 12 games while losing only 9 for the Red Birds. In St. Louis in 1926 his first year as a starting pitcher, he won one game and lost four. Although he pitched only 57 innings that season, he walked 32 batters, an average of more than five a game, and struck out 28 for an average of more than four a game.

In 1928 he led the Texas league, while pitching for the Cardinals' Houston team, winning 23 games and losing 12. That year, he curbed his wildness to some extent, allowing only 149 bases on balls for an average of a little more than four a game, but he boosted his strikeout total to 244, an average of nearly eight a game.

Last year he returned to St. Louis and won four and lost four games, giving 60 bases on balls in 94 innings for an average of about six a game and fanned 52 for an average of five a game.

This year has been his best in the majors, and while his wildness is still axiomatic, he is maintaining his customary strikeout pace to neutralize

Even for Season.

BRITONS SHIFT POLO TEAM AND FIND IT HELPS

Defeat Roslyn Four, 15 to 6.

and that is where the Westchester cup had its beginning.

Britain trounced the American "upstarts" soundly in 1886 and again in 1900 and 1902. Those were the days when polo was a teacup game. The United States, along about that time, began developing a polo style of its own and turned back the British in 1909, 1911, and 1912. In 1914 Great Britain again was victorious. Monty and Larry Waterbury, Devereux Milburn, and Rene Montagne failed to stop a four made up from the British army.

There was war instead of polo for several years, but in 1921 the United States team again was the stronger. In 1924 and 1927 hard hitting, hard riding American fours turned back the British by decisive scores. Polo as played by the Americans no longer was a gentleman's pastime. It was a game that called for professional like skill, and to play it one had to live it.

Millionaires Supply Funds.

Used as a shepping stone to society before the war, polo now has been given to the public, although it still is ruled by the millionaires. These wealthy backers of the game play angels to younger men of more limited means, and this season has seen two Texas cowboys as candidates for the American team.

ROBINS COLLECT 23 HITS; SWAMP PHILLIES, 14 TO 3

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Robins fell upon Sweetland and Hansen for a total of 23 hits here this afternoon and easily beat the Phillies, 14 to 3. Adolfo Luque pitched the whole game for Brooklyn.

It was the first day of play since a new twenty foot screen was constructed atop the right field fence at Ebbets field. The screen was entirely ignored by the players, who celebrated the occasion with five homers. Wright, Bressler, and Whitney hit home runs into the left field bleachers and Herman and Hurst hit home runs over the new screen. Score:

the strength stored up in one day of rest, and had a pretty hard time of it. In his one inning of endeavor he allowed two doubles, two singles and two walks for a total of four runs.

Nelson quelled the visitors in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings and Shealy didn't let them get the ball out of the infield in the ninth inning.

The Cubs had only two chances to make a showing, and one of these came when they were hopelessly in arrears. In the fourth Hallahan had one of his famed spasms of wildness and walked English, Cuyler and Wilson in succession to fill the bases with none out. D. Taylor then fanned, Kelly sent a sacrifice fly to Blades, which scored English, and Bell was called out on strikes.

Stephenson Holds up Parade.

Hack Wilson walked, filling the bases. D. Taylor flied to Blades and English started to run for home after the catch, then changed his mind. By this time Cuyler was half way to third. Gelbert got hold of the ball and doubled Ki before he could make his second hasty return to second base.

During their home stay the Cubs won 12 games and lost 9. This home stand was interrupted by a three day jaunt to St. Louis, where they won two and lost one.

While on the trip started last night the Cubs will play three in Cincinnati and four in Pittsburgh, come back here for one game with the Pirates next Sunday, then go to Brooklyn for three, Philadelphia for four, New York for three and Boston for four.

Odds Against British Girl in Race Today

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Deprived of one of her two challenging boats, Miss Marion Barbara Carstairs, making her third attempt to wrest the Harmsworth trophy from the veteran Gar Wood, faces an almost impossible task in the second heat tomorrow of the international speedboat classic. Mishap, which has beset each of the English girl's two previous efforts to recapture for Great Britain the trophy, overtook her Estelle V., driven by Bert Hawker in the opening heat yesterday, forcing it definitely out of the race.

Miss Carstairs Alone.

Mishap also entered today into what was to have been the first heat of the international race for 5½ liter hydroplanes. The Phantom, driven by H. Luetcher Brown of Houston, Tex., turned over when a patrol boat crossed its path, and the Miss Britain I., Hubert Scott Paine's challenger, was forced out by engine trouble after making a sudden stop to offer aid to the Phantom.

Called "No Contest."

The crew of the Phantom was unhurt and was taken off by a patrol craft. Declaring the heat "no contest," the regatta committee ordered it rerun tomorrow.

H. Luetcher Brown, driving his It, a cigar-shaped speedster, won the final heat of the event for small hydroplanes. Chris Ripp, of the Bayhead [L. I.] Yacht club, finished second in his Meadowmere II., and Al Louvet took third in Bayhead II., also of the Bayhead Y. C. M. Elliott of the Buffalo Launch club, driving Miss Buffalo, finished fourth. Under the point system of scoring first place for the three heat race went to Meadowmere, second to It, third to Bayhead II., and fourth to Miss Buffalo. Brown averaged 44.375 miles per hour in today's heat.

New Era Wins Waukegan Yacht Club Regatta

Waukegan Yacht club's annual regatta, held at Waukegan yesterday, was won by New Era, owned by A. H. Smith of the Waukegan Yacht club. The Madcap, piloted by F. N. G. Melin of the Chicago Motor Yacht club, finished second. Three seconds later E. C. Boutelle's Jeannie Marie of the Chicago Motor Yacht club crossed the line for third place.

Belmont Will Open Its Fall Season Today

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The fall highweight handicap features a seven race program which will mark the return of racing to the metropolitan area tomorrow afternoon, Belmont Park will reopen for its fall meeting with every prospect for a most successful season.

Most of the crack horses which have been racing at Saratoga during August and others which have been tested in the west have been shipped to the big plant of the Westchester Racing association.

Great Field of Sprinters.

It is doubtful if a field of sprinters has been brought together in the east this season greater than that which will run in the six furlongs dash down the Widener chute tomorrow. The fact that the thoroughbreds are asked to take up heavy burdens has daunted neither trainers nor owners and 14 have been named.

George D. Widener, although disappointed when his gray colt Jamestown was beaten in the Hopeful, should gain consolation from his good horse Finita. This fellow turned in a smashing performance in his last race at Saratoga, running six furlongs in 1:11, the fastest time at the meeting.

Doubtless Balco, which has been given a long rest, will be Fimite's sternest competitor. Balco on several occasions has served notice that he will play second fiddle to no sprinters.

Tetrachal, Polygamous, Limbus, Black Majesty, Gun Royal, and other fast horses are thrown in the race, which should be a great exhibition of speed.

Fourteen in Steeplechase.

One of the largest fields of jumpers to be seen in action this season is to come out in the Broadhollow steeplechase, which is over the two mile course. Fourteen are named, and while that number of horses would cause confusion and accidents on many a course, the chances of mishap at Belmont park should be small.

Arc Light, owned by Joseph E. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing association and winner of the Grand National last season, will be making his first start after a layoff.

Woods and Waters by BOB BECKER

The 1930 fishing season must give way to the hunting season today and it is legal to operate a shotgun in the state of Illinois if you want to go dove shooting. This isn't much of a sport in Illinois as compared to the way the southerners do it, but each fall we have seen some of the shotgun enthusiasts trying out their shooting eyes.

Illinois is one of the central states which permits the shooting of wild doves under the provisions of the migratory bird act. The sport is banned in Indiana, which has no open season. The same situation prevails in Wisconsin. In Illinois hunters have only the month of September for dove shooting, because the season ends Sept. 30.

The rails and gallinules hunting season will open Sept. 16 in Illinois. Indiana opens the season on these marsh birds this morning. The big morning for the jacksnipe and duck hunters is Sept. 24.

However, the jack is the only shore bird which may be taken by the marsh hunters. The plovers, black breasted and golden, the greater and lesser yellow legs, and the sandpipers, as well as the eider and wood ducks, are on the prohibited list and must not be shot. Therefore the duck hunter who leaves his blind for some sport on the mud flats or in the sloughs has jacksnipe, the sora and king rails, and an occasional gallinule to furnish fun for his 20 or 16 guage.

No upland game birds may be hunted until later in the season. The list includes partridge, pheasants, quail, and prairie chickens. The season on all except partridge opens in November in Illinois.

Heading into Michigan City, a sinister looking mass of clouds gathered to glower on the fleet and the landlubber heard O'Rourke and Whelan say something about a squall. More scurrying about followed. Carrier and O'Rourke hastily hauled down the ballooner and put up the jib again, while Whelan manned the tiller. The novice perched on the top side of the stern as it leaned perilously toward the water and pondered on that line about "O, for the life of a sailor." He soon forgot his fears, however, for the landlubber settled down to straight sailing.

Meanwhile, a gunshot and a puff of smoke up ahead told the story of the Edith II.'s victory. Columbia, Princess, Chaperon, and Fame followed in order, and over to leeward of the Intruder the Circe, looking like an old line clipper ship with its sails billowing fully, began to move "with a bone in her teeth," as Whelan put it. That ended the Intruder's chances of finishing better than seventh, and that's where she finished, greeted with much good-natured derision by the crews of the boats preceding her home.

During the course of the race, the landlubber learned that the Intruder is a veteran craft, having been sailed on Long Island sound and Lake Punchartrain, near New Orleans, before her purchase by O'Rourke and his brother James in 1923. It has an overall length of 43 feet, a waterline of 29 feet and its spar is 55 feet high.

Skipper O'Rourke is your true yachting fan. Taking his turn at the tiller yesterday and having had the landlubber's admission that it was great sport, he commented on the comparative lack of enthusiasm for it among Chicagoans, pointing out that they are better situated for it than most other American yachtsmen, who frequently have to drive from 15 to 25 miles for a sailing ground. He also lamented the paucity of good harbors along the south shore water front of Chicago.

The O'Rourke brothers begun sailing in 1913, and they've been at it ever since. They got the idea while they were among the army of golfers who arise early to get tickets for a round at Jackson park. Frequently they couldn't get a ticket. Then they discovered that one of the boat owners in the Jackson park harbor slept on his boat in order to get his golf ticket early. Forthwith they bought themselves a boat. They haven't played golf since.

Argentine's 3 Year Old Takes Chantilly Stakes

YANKEE TO HELP REVIVE BRITISH STEEL INDUSTRY

Lays Present Stagnation to Family Control.

Blames Family Control.

Mincing no words, Mr. Replogle examines the causes of Britain's decline in steel production and places his finger squarely on a touchy point when he states in the report "one of the principal reasons is family management which makes for inefficiency and destroys the ambition and incentive of the worker in the ranks, and more particularly lack of initiative and ultra-conservatism in failing to keep abreast of the times in installation of efficiency manufacturing methods, and of persisting in regarding obsolete plants as assets when in reality they are liabilities."

This is a direct criticism of the British custom of maintaining property in the family, with the father leaving it to the eldest son, and he leaving it to his son despite interest, qualifications or ability to operate the property.

It also focuses on the vital point of machine installation for modern operation, and of continuing to operate old fashioned, ill equipped plants without profit, or even at a loss, rather than modernize them to meet existing condition in rival markets.

"Blast furnace practice in England is the weakest chain in the link," says the Replogle report, "statistics disclose the average pig iron output per furnace being only 120 tons per day, compared to 165 tons in Belgium, 175 tons in France, 310 tons in Germany, and 600 tons in the United States, where the newest and largest blast furnaces produce as high as 1,300 tons daily."

Britain in Good Position.

"As the United States possesses about 45 per cent of the known coal reserves and 42 per cent of the iron ores of the world, it is reasonable to suppose that she will always have a predominant place in the world steel market," Mr. Replogle continues in the report. "But the position of Great Britain is also an enviable one as she has vast deposits of iron ore estimated at three billion tons and, although much of this is low grade and supplies only about half her needs, there are greater possibilities in a more liberal use of native ores by concentration and enrichment."

Coal and limestone are plentiful in England, the report asserts, and with complete electrification and modern mining and handling facilities can be produced on a satisfactory basis.

Drastic conclusions are drawn by Mr. Replogle in the summary of his report and recommendations, which set forth the following points:

1. Practically all English blast furnaces are obsolete and should be scrapped and modern furnaces of a thousand tons per day capacity should be installed.

Should Use By-Products.

2. The largest type Koppers or other by-product coke ovens, with complete tar, gas, ammonia, and other by-product recovery plants, are an absolute necessity. A domestic market for any surplus gas should be available, and recovery of these by-products should means a saving of approximately $4 a ton of coke produced as compared to the old beehive ovens without any by-product recoveries.

3. As about 2,500,000 tons, or 60 per cent of Britain's imports, are in pig iron, blooms, millets, slabs, sheet and tin plate bars, and wire rods, it is obvious that these semi-finished products should receive first attention before following with plates, shapes, and bars, which account for 1,200,000 tons, or 30 per cent of imports. This policy should result in least disturbance to existing finishing mills.

4. The main plant, if possible, should be located at seaboard with deep water harbor and good fresh water supply, and preferably near the larger steel consuming districts of England and Wales, although this is secondary to the deep harbor advantages of raw material assembly and export trade.

5. An important consideration in the increase of steel output of Britain is the factor of nation defense. Germany and Austria entered the world war with an annual steel production of more than 21,000,000 tons, as compared to a combined total of less than 16,000,000 tons for Britain, France, Belgium, and Italy.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that, regardless of the outcome of the conferences Mr. Replogle will have with the British steel magnates, it is now doubtful if the modernization of the English steel industry can be begun in the near future, as had been envisaged when he was asked to draft the report and prepare the plans last year. The Wall street crash and resulting financial tightness existing in the world money markets and the general uncertainty in big business conditions may necessitate a delay in reorganization.

INDIANA SAVINGS DEPOSITS, GAS TAX INCOME RISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 31.—Savings deposits in thirty four of the larger Indiana banks which are members of the federal reserve banking system, showed an increase Aug. 1 of 6 per cent over a year ago. Deposits in the Indiana member banks Aug. 1 was $72,851,745.

Gas line tax collections in August touched the highest peak in the history of the gasoline tax in Indiana, when collections based on 4 cents tax per gallon amounted to $1,866,390.58. This was an increase of $202,144 over collections in August last year and an increase of $13,481.75 over the previous peak, September 1929.

There was 46,659,754 gallons of gasoline sold in the month and refunds totalled $115,461.51. The total collected the first eight months this year is $1,865,547.44, over the same period last year.

STOCK PRICES CLIMBED UPWARD IN THE LAST HALF OF AUGUST

STEEL COMMON IS STILL HELD MARKET LEADER

Finance Wiseacres Study Changes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—The common stock of the United States Steel corporation since the break in the market last fall has been looked upon as the leader of the security markets in this country as much, if not more, than ever, it was stated this week by a banker. Since the buying of Steel by the banking group at the low level of the decline last fall succeeded in bringing about a substantial rally in the market, not only have the actions of this stock marketwise been closely watched but the weekly fluctuations in the operations of the company have been studied as never before by the financial community in an endeavor to determine both the trend of the stock market and that of general business.

From the time of its listing on the New York Stock exchange in 1901, when James R. Keene was engaged to make a market in the stock, "Steel common" has been looked upon by the more conservative element in Wall street as the leader of the market. However, in the late bull market this was questioned in some quarters because, it was stated, the stock market had reached such size that no one stock could be called the real leader.

It was freely stated that stocks such as General Motors, General Electric, Radio corporation, and a few others were as much, it not more, the leaders of the market than United States Steel. During this period these stocks were probably more active and their movements more spectacular than that of Steel. This was largely responsible for the belief in some quarters that United States Steel had lost its leadership.

More than in Past.

During the next few years it is believed that United States Steel common will probably be more of a leader than in the past. Last year the company retired its bonds, which gives the common stock more of an investment rating. Also, the issues that were looked upon by many as leaders of the last bull market have been split up. As a result it will take some time for their earnings to increase to the level where a large stock dividend or additional split-up can take place.

In view of the huge surplus of the United States Steel corporation and the large earnings on the common stock, a stock dividend or a split-up in the common shares is not unlikely in the not distant future. This gives it an added speculative value.

Larger Capitalization.

Although several other companies have a larger capitalization and their stocks enjoy as high if not higher investment rating with the public generally, such as the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the activities of not a single one of these companies reflect as nearly the barometer of business conditions as United States Steel. Owing to the dependence of the industries of the country for steel products, the United States Steel corporation, being the largest manufacturer of steel, is bound to reflect the general business conditions of the country as a whole.

For instance, during the current depression some branches of the steel industry have been most active, including the pipe division, which indicated considerable activity in building natural gas and oil pipe lines. This, however, was not sufficient to offset the decline in the buying of steel by other industries, with the result that operations in July declined below 60 per cent of its theoretical capacity, thereby indicating that an improvement in more than one industry would have to take place before operations would increase to around normal.

The size of the United States Steel corporation is such that hardly one industry, no matter how rapidly it is expanding, can create a demand for steel that operations can be maintained at a high level without large supporting orders from other industries.

Ward's Picks Advertising Head for Retail Stores

Russell K. Lowry, advertising manager of Montgomery Ward & Co. retail stores, has been appointed to the new position of director of retail sales promotion and advertising manager. Mr. Lowry says that the total newspaper lineage of the company for 1930 will probably exceed 105,000,000 lines. In 1929 Ward's retail used 75,000,000 lines of newspaper advertising.

Bankers National Income for Six Months $42,115

The half year statement of income of Bankers National Investing corporation for the period from Feb. 1, 1930, to July 31 shows a total income of $58,953 of which $9,907 is interest earned, $44,752 dividends received and $4,293 profit on the sale of securities. Expenses were $16,837, leaving net income of $42,115.

POWER COMMISSION TO FIX VALUATION OF MINNESOTA PURCHASE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The federal power commission has notified the Minnesota Power and Light company of its intention to fix and determine the "actual legitimate investment" made by the company in purchasing the Winton project, hydro-electric development on the Kawishiwi river, Minnesota. A commission examiner said the company's records failed to support ledger entries showing investment costs.

A preliminary report prepared by Samuel Meisels, the examiner, said the Minnesota Power and Light company was controlled by the American Power and Light company.

CHICAGO RETAIL SALES DOWN BUT LITTLE FOR 1930

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Sales by Chicago's retail stores during the first half of 1930 fell only 11.1 per cent under the high total for the same period of 1929, despite the business recession, according to the results of a semi-annual retail credit survey made public today by the department of commerce.

Although the Chicago stores' sales decrease was shown to be higher than the average of 6.7 per cent for 24 large cities it compared favorably with a number of other cities. The Detroit decrease was 16.5 per cent, the highest in the country; the Galveston decrease 14.4 per cent, and the Atlanta decrease 12.9 per cent. In Boston the decrease was only 0.9 per cent, the lowest in the country.

Conditions Better Than Expected.

The survey, in the opinion of the department of commerce experts, indicated a much better condition than some unofficial reports had estimated and showed that the American people spent only a little less at retail stores this year than last.

"After making due allowance for price declines the figures covering total retail sales during the first six months of this year indicate that the volume of retail business during that period, probably the most difficult of the recession, compares very favorably with the exceptionally high volume of the same period last year," said Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who supervised the survey.

Seven Store Types Surveyed.

Seven types of stores, including 523 establishments, of which 31 are in Chicago, and with total net sales of $560,708,855, were represented in the survey.

Electrical appliance stores were the only type of establishments showing a gain in total sales during the half year period. Their gain over 1929 was 0.1 per cent. Department stores fared next best with a decrease of only 5.3 per cent. Other decreases were women's specialties, 6.6; men's clothing, 10.1; shoes, 10.2; furniture, 14.1, and jewelry, 19.5.

From the standpoint of cash payments as compared to open credit and installment buying, Chicago stores continued to hold a commanding position. While 45.2 per cent of the goods bought from Chicago stores were paid for in cash, 28.8 per cent were "charged" and 26 per cent bought on the installment plan. The average for all the 24 cities was 40.7 per cent cash, 48.8 per cent "charged," and 10.5 per cent bought in installments.

GOTHAM EXPECTS COCOA INDUSTRY TO HASTEN PACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—Greatly increased activity in all phases of the cocoa industry is anticipated by the New York cocoa exchange following the Labor day holiday, according to its official review. The heavy grinding season for manufacturers begins after the holidays, and the two major crops, from West Africa and Brazil, will start to move to consuming industries between now and the end of the year.

Manufacturers have been cautious buyers of raw materials in recent weeks, chiefly because of hot weather and uncertainty as to the general business outlook. The result has been the decline of raw cocoa bean values to the lowest levels in the history of the New York cocoa exchange.

Directors of 50 Firms to Act on Dividends Tomorrow

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Directors of more than 50 corporations will meet Tuesday to act upon dividend payments and many more are scheduled during the week. The financial district is much interested in the postponed meetings of the Kennecott Copper company and subsidiary companies of the Anaconda Copper company, Mack Truck, and Maytag in view of the prospect of reductions in their dividend rates.

TURNING POINT IN GRAIN MARKET OF WORLD AT HAND

Future Is Uncertain for Corn and Wheat.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Labor day frequently marks a turning point in general business and grains. In a good season small grains harvest is about over and it is possible to make a reasonable forecast as to the size of the corn crop. This year small grains were harvested earlier than usual and the peak of the movement of wheat, oats, rye, and barley is regarded as about over.

In the Canadian northwest it is getting under way, with wheat cutting practically completed in Manitoba and well along in other provinces. Farmers in western Canada are marketing their wheat freely and are up against the toughest proposition as regards prices that has ever confronted them. The pool has announced that only 60 cents would be advanced to farmers for No. 1 northern wheat at Fort William and Port Arthur. It will be interesting to see how freely farmers will sell their wheat to the pool at that price.

In the American northwest farmers have rushed their wheat to market, although the price secured does not show much if any profit. Storage houses in the northwest and southwest are rapidly filling up. In the north Pacific coast district storage room is scarce.

Big Line of Hedges Out.

Wheat speculators are carrying hedges on practically 184,000,000 bu and possibly more, the figures representing the visible supply. As to the available supply in the United States, Canada, and on ocean passage for importing Europe, there is practically in sight 321,000,000 bu, as compared with 316,000,000 bu last year.

Cash wheat is bringing a premium over the future in all markets. Feeders are buying wheat in all positions and consumption of wheat by animals is large and steadily increasing, with prospects of a new record being set.

Corn Estimates Low.

In the corn situation there is a shortage of present and prospective supplies. It is not believed that there will be more than a 2,000,000,000 bu crop. Should these figures be confirmed by the returns of the government, it will be the first time since 1924 that the crop has fallen below 2,500,000,000 bu. In that year 2,309,000,000 bu were raised. In 1918 the crop was 2,503,000,000 bu. Going back to 1913 there was 2,447,000,000 bu, and in 1901 there were 1,523,000,000 bu, a drop of 1,000,000,000 bu from the previous year.

Future prices for corn are regarded as dependent upon the consumptive demand and the volume of speculation which can be brought into the market. There is a most unusual situation. It is seldom that prices of all future deliveries of corn are higher than wheat. The most aggressive traders who are bullish on corn expect a sharp advance after the government report comes out on Sept. 10, should it show as low or lower than some of the private reports suggest.

Prices Are Uncertain.

The future of wheat prices is most uncertain. With prices of wheat lower than corn and supplies larger than last year, with Russia assuming an aggressive position, and with prospects good in Argentina and Australia, combined with uncertainty as to what the Canadian pool and the American farm board will do with its immense holdings, traders are unable to see the future course of prices clearly and are conservative in their operations. Should foreigners become scared at any possible accident to the southern hemisphere's crops the situation, it is believed, would be changed in favor of holders.

The maintenance of cash wheat prices at close to or at a premium over the September delivery is considered a strengthening factor.

World's production in 20 northern hemisphere countries is estimated at 2,261,000,000 bu, as compared with 2,178,000,000 bu in 1929. This estimate, however, does not include important north hemisphere crops, particularly Canadian spring wheat and the French crop, there being nothing definite as to what these countries will produce.

Feed Grains a Feature.

"Production of feed grains may have an important bearing on the wheat market during the present marketing season," says the department of agriculture in a recent review. "In southern Europe the smaller corn crop will result in the use of more wheat, both as feed and food, and in northern Europe wheat and rye will be used more extensively on account of the high corn price."

Consumption of oats, rye, and barley on the farm is expected to be the largest in years.

The country has turned bullish on the future hog situation and "are unwilling to offer hogs for September delivery at $9.00," says James A. Poole of the Chicago live stock exchange in his latest report.

WORK ON GIANT ELECTRIC PLANT IS BEING PUSHED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—Construction work on the $30,000,000 Safe harbor hydro-electric development of Aldred & Co. on the Susquehanna river is running ahead of schedule, due to favorable weather conditions during recent months, it was learned today. A force of 1,800 men is now at work on the project, and a peak of 2,500 men will be reached before the close of the year.

The $30,000,000 represents only the initial cost of the power house and dam and the initial installation of turbines having a capacity of 231,000 horse power. Foundations are being built for additional turbines which will give an ultimate capacity of 500,000 horse power to the plant.

Congoleum-Nairn.

Will you kindly analyze for me the present situation of the Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., particularly with reference to its common stock? B. E. E.

Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., was formed in 1919 as successor to a company then operating. The present title was adopted on Oct. 24, 1924, when Nairn Linoleum company was acquired. It is engaged in the manufacture of felt base flooring, covering, art rugs, and borders under the registered name of "Congoleum" and linoleum under the trade marked name of "Sealex."

Plants are at Marcus Hook, Pa.; Salem, Camden, and Kearney, N. J., and Asbestos, Md. The company has its own sales organization with branches in principal cities throughout the country and an office and warehouse at Rio de Janeiro.

Last year the company showed further improvement in earnings. In 1926 it had suffered a severe decline in earnings, due to a price war and heavy inventories. As a result of cooperation among manufacturers trade practices in the industry have been improving during the last few years.

In 1927 the company made a thorough readjustment of inventories and disposed of $4,000,000 worth of old merchandise, replacing it with newer and more salable goods. Since then slow moving stocks have been written off and inventories have been kept on a conservative basis.

Net income last year was $2,213,830, equal to $1.29 per share earned on 1,641,026 no par common shares, compared with $1,462,046, or 83 cents per share in 1928, $1,057,420 in 1927, and $463,429 in 1926.

In the six months ended June 30, 1930, net income was $705,857, or 40 cents per common share, against $950,211, or 55 cents per share in the first half of 1929.

No dividends have been paid on the common since 1925. The company has been improving its financial position and building up a good surplus.

As of June 30, 1930, current assets were $20,301,793, and current liabilities were $787,944, leaving a net working capital of $19,513,849. Earned surplus was $17,183,647.

The common is speculative at present.

Pillsbury Flour Mills.

What is your opinion of Pillsbury Flour Mills 6s, issued in 1923 at 93, due 1943? Self addressed envelope is inclosed. A. A. W.

Pillsbury Flour Mills company first mortgage 6s, due Oct. 1, 1943, are secured by a first mortgage on the entire property of the company and further secured by pledge of capital stocks of constituent companies. They are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

BONDS SELLING AT PEAK PRICES OF TWO YEARS

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The bond market enters the fall period at the peak levels of the past two years.

The turn of the new month, which signalizes the end of the summer vacation season, finds the bond market much improved as a result of the inquiry for high grade investment issues by banks and other institutions. Although the volume of business during the past week was about equal to previous years, bidding was brisk at times, particularly for highly rated obligations of domestic corporations, and during the final week the pace of trading quickened as the better tone of the stock market focused more attention on stock privilege bonds.

In the week just closed the price level of bonds as measured by the averages twice reached new peaks for the year, and now stands about 1½ points under the high point reached in the spring of 1928 before the last decline started. Railroads, utilities and industrials all reached new highs in the averages. During the week the bond market was strong during the first three days and then backslid as realizing gave the market an irregular appearance.

Several bond men have painted a rosy picture of the future, predicated largely on the belief that the cyclical movements of the past will be repeated.

Milwaukee Firm to Open Men's Store Here Sept. 9

John A. Stumpf, who will manage the Chicago unit of Stumpfs, Inc., operating six retail stores in Milwaukee, reports that the opening of their loop store will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 9. According to Mr. Stumpf the decorative scheme will be strikingly unusual but not bizarre, of a type hitherto unknown to Chicago.

GAS SALES INCREASE.

Memphis Natural Gas company reports sales of 5,054,481,700 cubic feet of natural gas during the first seven months of this year, against 2,915,017,475 cubic feet for the corresponding period of last year, a gain of over 73 per cent.

FURTHER DECLINE IN FARM PRICES NOTED IN AUGUST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—A further decline in farm prices for fruits and vegetables, cotton, and cotton seed and for meat animals, excepting hogs, during the month ending Aug. 15 was reported today by the agriculture department. The farm price index was 35 points lower than a year ago and at the lowest August level since 1915.

Feed grains and hay prices, however, made a general advance attributed to a shortage of supplies in the drought areas. Wheat and rye prices to the farmer showed "a moderate recovery."

"Dairy and poultry products advanced," the report continued, "because of the decline in production on account of the unusually hot, dry weather."

ANOTHER RUBBER FIRM REDUCES SALARIES 10 PCT.

Akron, O., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Following the example set by Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, last week and the Firestone Tire and Rubber company yesterday, the Seiberling Rubber company today announced a 10 per cent cut in the salaries of all sales and office employes. Company officials refused to make any comment on the slashes.

B. F. Goodrich officials said the company policy until November 1 provides for no salary cuts or reduction in number of employes. They did not comment on what their course may be after that date.

LABOR DAY SEEN AS LANDMARK IN VOYAGE OF TRADE

Finance, Industry Await Action of Autumn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—Labor day is a traditional landmark in the charts of finance and industry. The belief has always been maintained that, with summer time relaxation of trade nearly at an end, the real character of the underlying situation will presently be determined. The most confident forecasts of the year given out on a New Year's day are therefore almost invariably conditioned as applying "only until Autumn." That business activity should increase in that season, as compared with midsummer months, has commonly been taken for granted, but the question of doubt always remained, whether the expansion would be of normal magnitude, or only hesitant and feeble, indicating more than the usual downward reaction when the autumn trade had terminated.

Three recent years have produced a distinctly disappointing autumn season. The reserve board's index of industrial production, adjusted to the normal performance of the seasons, was lower in October than in August during 1929, 1927, and 1923. In all of them there was actual increase in autumn railway traffic as compared with midsummer and in sales of merchandise, but the increase was not in the ratio that merchants usually expect.

1921 Is Cited.

In 1921, a year which in many respects was similar to 1930 up to the end of August, freight loadings in October exceeded those of the summer month by 350,000 cars, or nearly 10 per cent. Steel production, which in July had been only 35 per cent of the pre-war monthly average and in August 49 per cent, had risen to 70 in October. The reserve board statisticians reported building and textile industries "very active" in the autumn with production of mines and factories "moderately increased" and actual consumption of wool, lumber and cotton materially enlarged.

Nevertheless, the autumn's trade results as a whole were recognized as unfavorable, and there was little sign of revival from depression when the new year began. The real meaning of the coming season's trade will be judged in the light of these precedents but, even so, its character will not have indicated convincingly the subsequent course of trade and industry. There has been wide variation in the sequel to other disappointing autumns.

Autumn of 1927.

The autumn of 1927 was almost immediately followed by discovery that actual requirements of consumers had been greatly underestimated; trade and production increased rapidly, in response to urgent orders, during the very time of year when business is usually slack—the first three months of 1928. The unsatisfactory business of the autumn of 1923 lasted throughout the first half of 1924. The spring trade of that year, instead of bringing business revival, carried activity lower still, almost to that of the later deflation period.

On the other hand, although little recovery came in immediate sequence to the autumn of 1921, there was distinct although cautious revival in the ensuing spring, with consumers' demands and trade activities steadily expanding thereafter.

When the reactionary period in trade terminated at the end of 1927 it had lasted seven months when it ceased in 1924, its term of continuance had been almost exactly a year. The signs of tangible recovery in 1923 came when business reaction had been virtually unbroken during a two year period. If an actual turn for the better were to come this autumn the trade reaction which began in 1929 would have lasted a year and a half. If genuine recovery were to be postponed until next spring it would have had precisely the same duration as the "deflation crisis."

Milwaukee Railway Seeks to Abandon Small Line

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad today petitioned the interstate commerce commission for permission to abandon seven miles of its line between Lindsay and Lyna, Wis. Insufficient revenue to justify continuance of operations was given as the reason.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

A five year test has proven conclusively that second mortgage loans can be made at a cost which is not out of proportion to the rates charged on first mortgage loans and other types of recognized and regulated financial transactions.

And these rates which we have introduced in this community and all of the conditions attached to our way of loaning have stood the test of numerous times, and are standing the test of a period of decided depression in real estate.

We are making second mortgage loans and invite the home owner who may be looking for new funds or who may be desirous of refinancing a part or all of maturing mortgage financing to make use of the facilities which we offer.

We charge 7% accruing interest and a commission of 3½% for 1 year, 6½% for 2 years, and 9% for 3 years.
